20 Children Dead, 13 Hospitalized

School Bus Driver Says He's Quite Sure of Crossing Stop

GREELEY, Colo. (AP)—Colorado officials searched today for the cause of the school bus-train collision that killed 20 children Thursday.

The Colorado Highway Safety Council was investigating the possibility that overloading and poor visibility may have contributed to the accident. The council's executive secretary, Merf Evans, said in a report to Atty. Gen. Duke Dunbar that "ninety per cent of all school buses in Colorado are overloaded."

Train Was Late

Thirteen children are in a hospital. Four others among the 37 children aboard were treated and released. The driver, Duane Harms, 22, suffered minor injuries and shock.

They were in a late model, 60-passenger bus sliced apart at 8:05 a.m. by the Union Pacific's 16-car passenger train, City of Denver, at a rural crossing near here.

The streamliner, 90 minutes late because of Christmas baggage delays en route from Chicago to Denver, was traveling 79 miles an hour. Railroad officials said that was normal speed.

Herbert F. Sommers, 64, a Union Pacific engineer for 22 years, said the bus did not stop at the crossing, marked by wooden crossarms and a road sign.

Drove in Front: Engineer

"He stepped on the gas and drove right in front of the train," Sommers said.

Harms, a school bus driver since last September, said "I think I did (stop). Well, I'm quite sure, because I usually do."

Fireman Melvin C. Swanson, 48, said "I thought he (Harms) was going to stop—hoping he was going to stop. Then he drove right in front of the train."

Jerry Hembry, 16, a bus passenger, said, "The bus stopped and then started up again."

Colorado law requires a school bus driver to stop within 50 feet, but not less than 10 feet from the nearest rail, look and listen for trains.

Section Hurled 192 Feet

State patrolmen said the diesel locomotive struck the rear of the bus near the dual wheels. Those wheels and four rear seats were dragged 455 feet down the railroad. The main section of the bus was hurled 192 feet.

Sommers said he applied the emergency brakes about 50 to 75 feet before the impact. The train traveled about a mile beyond the crossing.

Sommers said he began sounding the locomotive horn about 500 to 600 feet before the crossing.

"You could look down in the bus and could see the windows were slightly frosted," Sommers said. The crash occurred in 10-degree weather. The gravel road was clear of a recent three-inch snow.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Karl Ahlborn said Harms' statement said the bus windows were slightly frosted or steamed but the windshield defroster was operating.

The bus had picked up about two-thirds of its normal load before the crash. The pupils attend the Delta Elementary, Meeker Junior High and Greeley high schools.

President Steps Up Viet Aid

Troops Not Part Of Defense Help

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today ordered increased assistance for the defenses of South Viet Nam in its desperate efforts to repel Communist aggression from the North.

Government officials said this will not mean sending any American combat troops to Viet Nam.

Kennedy acted in response to an appeal from President Ngo Dinh Diem of the Vietnamese Republic.

Diem said his country "now faces what is perhaps the gravest crisis in its long history" and "We must have further assistance from the United States if we are to win the war now being waged against us."

Gravest Crisis: Diem

Diem said the forces of international communism which are arrayed against his country are "more than we can meet with the resources at hand."

Kennedy reacted with word that: "We shall promptly increase our assistance to your defense effort as well as help relieve the destruction of the floods which you describe. I have already given the orders to get these programs under way."

The exchange of messages between the two presidents was made public simultaneously here and in Saigon.

Kennedy didn't spell out what

Diplomats Doubt Early Cease-Fire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A U.N. spokesman said today U.N. forces launched a major operation against Katanga forces in Elisabethville Thursday night and that its "first objective" was successfully achieved.

This word came as U.N. diplomats expressed belief no cease-fire is likely soon between the United Nations and secessionist Katanga despite the intervention by President Kennedy.

Movement Freedom Aim

The spokesman said the U.N. operation was launched at 10 p.m. Elisabethville time.

"Our first objective was reached successfully last night and we have suffered no casualties," said a terse message received at U.N. headquarters.

The spokesman said this was the operation for which the U.N. forces were preparing to achieve its aim of restoring freedom of moement of U.N. personnel and assuring law and order in the Katanga capital. There have been a steady stream of U.N. reinforcements pouring into the city to bulwark the U.N. force for that effort.

Feel JFK to Back Thant

U.N. diplomats predicted Kennedy would back up Acting Secretary-General U Thant's determination to continue the U.N. military action until Katanga President Moise Tshombe shows a readiness to negotiate in good faith for a unified Congo.

The White House was scheduled to release today Kennedy's reply to a plea from Tshombe to intervene to end the fighting. Tshombe said he was ready to negotiate with Premier Cyrille Adoula of the central Congo government and asked Kennedy to name a negotiator.

Suggests Precise Course

It was understood the President had suggested a precise course for Tshombe to follow to get negotiations under way, to make sure that secession-minded Katanga would not be able to reverse his course should an agreement to talk bring a cease-fire.

The President named the U.S. ambassador in the Congo, Edmund Gullion, as his personal representative in the Katanga situation.

(In Brussels, a Belgian senator said Tshombe had sent him word that he is ready to meet Adoula for political talks as soon as possible in a neutral French African nation provided Senegal President Leopold Senghor is mediator.

Will Meet Today

Thant, who has a two-day-old cease-fire appeal from Britain, called a meeting this afternoon of his 18-nation Congo advisory committee, which is dominated by Asians and Africans. The committee was expected to advise the

Schwenk Will Use Own Judgment on Urban Plan Here

Mayor-elect John J. Schwenk, after being briefed Thursday night on the city's urban renewal program, said today he hoped it would "prove to be an effective tool for achievement of the goals which I set forth during the recent campaign" for the mayoral election.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel called the meeting to outline urban renewal for the benefit of the mayor-elect, newly elected aldermen and others.

Is Making Study

"I intend to approach the urban renewal program in the light of my own plans for the future growth of Kingston," Schwenk said.

As to specific project possibilities, he said, "I am now in the process of studying the material, and I intend to have further meetings. I found last night's meeting with Raymond & May Associates in the mayor's office very informative. It was the first time I had been provided with any information on the progress of the program and the tentative time schedule, and I hope it will be an effective tool for achievement of the goals which I set forth during the recent campaign."

Those at Meeting

Among those at the meeting were Attorney Harry Gold who is to be corporation counsel, David A. Ornstein, Daniel Shuster and Arthur Sweid, of Raymond and May; Elmore C. Yallum, local planning board chairman; John R. Shults Jr., a member of the board; Alexander Yosman, director of Colonial Gardens; Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, four aldermen-elect and several present members of the Common Council, and others.

Business Boom, Jobs Forecast For Coming Year

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—The United States will have its biggest business boom in history in 1962, says the president of Sales and Marketing Executives International.

Leland F. Lyons, who also is vice president of the New York Life Insurance Co., said Thursday production and sales on a national level will increase 7 per cent for all goods and services and unemployment will show a great decrease.

Lyons said his estimates and opinions are based on personal observations and business and industrial surveys.

Governor Plans To Force N.Y. to Control Own Rents

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —Gov. Rockefeller was on the offensive today in a longstanding political battle with a plan to force New York City to establish and administer its own rent-control program.

The state now enforces rent-control laws in New York City, where Democrats have charged repeatedly in political campaigns that present laws favor landlords at the expense of tenants.

Republicans have denied the charges but, at the same time, have been concerned over their political impact. Rockefeller will seek re-election next year and his rent-control proposal appeared to be a long-range move toward eliminating a potential political problem.

Rockefeller's plan is designed to force the Democratic administration of New York City to take responsibility itself for a program

Chamber Banquet Slated Jan. 29, College Is Theme

The annual banquet of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will take place on Monday, Jan. 29.

In making this announcement today Banquet Committee Chairman John W. Egbert stated that Dr. Thomas H. Hamilton of Albany, president of the State University, will be the speaker. The establishment of a Community College will be the principal theme of the banquet.

The election of 1962 officers of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will take place on January 9. The new officers and directors will be presented at the banquet on January 29. Additional details will be announced later. However, chairman Egbert stated, "Because of the intense public interest in the establishment of a Community College, as shown in the November referendum, the public will be invited to attend the banquet."

Jewish Exterminator Still 'Block of Ice'

Appeal Proceedings Started After Eichmann Death Ruling

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann, Nazi Germany's expediter of Jews to the gas chambers, was sentenced today to hang in Israel for "a crime of unparalleled enormity."

Moshe Landau, president of the special three-man Israeli court which tried and convicted the former Gestapo colonel, intoned: "This court sentences Adolf Eichmann to death for crimes against the Jewish people, crimes against humanity and war crimes."

Courtroom Packed

Eichmann, now 55 and balding, stood stiffly erect for 15 minutes while the tribunal first gave its reasons and then condemned him to the gallows. Six hundred persons packing the courtroom were deathly silent throughout the brief session, then filed out with hardly a sound.

Still the "block of ice" Jewish survivors of the Nazi pogrom called him, Eichmann never even gulped visibly. He quieted the facial nervous twitch evident during the trial, and his hands hung loose and unclenched by his side.

Eichmann, who had scornfully refused to plead for mercy before the sentence was pronounced, was told he has 10 days to file notice of appeal with the court and an additional five days to draft his reasons.

Chief defense counsel Dr. Robert L. Servatius from West Germany was advised if he felt the time given him was too short, he could ask the president of the Supreme Court or his deputy for an extension.

Clemency Still One Hope

Dr. Servatius, already at work on Eichmann's appeal, told the court: "Thank you for the guidance and I shall think it over."

Decision on the appeal is not expected before March. If it goes against Eichmann, he can apply to Israeli President Izhak Ben-Zvi for clemency.

Eichmann is the first Nazi to be tried in this state which holds itself as the protector of all Jews in the world.

Israeli legal authorities say he may be the last one brought to judgment here. They reason the case has served to chronicle what

Wilson Reports Many Watersheds Need Attention

The Temporary State Commission on Water Resources Planning of which Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County is a member met Thursday at Hilton Inn, Tarrytown to plan legislation for further statewide resources review and planning.

Assemblyman Wilson said some 250 persons from Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Rockland, Putnam and Westchester Counties were in attendance.

At a morning session, he said it was pointed out that 128 of the more than 200 watershed areas of the state need action of some sort. Included are water conservation, control of water pollution and flood control. Wilson added that while recreational requirements will be considered, an item of prime importance is a study of how pleasure boats contribute to pollution of the state's water.

Community College Is Not Likely To Become Operative Until 1963

A Community College in Ulster County in all probabilities cannot become operative until September of 1963, Dean Paul V. Orvis of the State University of New York told the Ulster County Board of Supervisors Thursday night.

Dean Orvis told the board that final approval for establishment of the college had been granted and he read the resolution of approval, commenting "now you are in business."

Caution in proceeding with the establishment of the college was suggested by Dean Orvis, who outlined the procedure which begins with the naming of five trustees by the board of supervisors and four by the governor. He suggested the board take action by naming the five trustees but said it probably would be two or three months before Governor Rockefeller would name the other four.

Once the trustees are named, Dean Orvis said the next step would be the selection of a president, meanwhile the trustees should consider an appropriate site.

Deals With Costs

Dean Orvis said the probable cost of operating a college would be around $75,000 a year as a county charge, with perhaps additional costs during the early stages for equipment, etc.

As to the salary of a president, Dean Orvis said that would vary from $16,000 upwards but he stated in all probability a man suitable to the local needs would demand a salary of $18,000.

Existing sites which might be approved, Dean Orvis said should be given consideration and he said in most instances Community Colleges had started in temporary structures, pending "development of the technical program to meet local needs." Once the board of trustees and the president had determined the "over-all needs" of the community a new campus and suitable buildings could be planned.

Must Fix Courses First

Until a definite decision was made as to what courses are to be included in the college program, Dean Orvis said it was difficult to determine what type of buildings would be required. For this reason most community colleges are established in existing quarters and expand or build as a program of courses is determined.

Dean Orvis was granted the floor on motion of Supervisor Roy J. Webber (R), Marbletown, chairman of the Community College committee.

There are 19 community colleges in the states, six agricultural-technical institutes, and there are four more in the process of establishment, including Ulster County's.

Will Take Time

Dean Orvis suggested that as soon as trustees are named, they proceed with the selection of a site and look around for a suitable president. Since this would take time, perhaps several months, he predicted that it would be September 1963 before the college could become operative. If a new building is planned the 1963 opening date probably

Kennedy Visit Can Be Test Of His Alliance Program

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Kennedy's weekend visit to Venezuela and Colombia may turn out to be a significant test for his Alliance for Progress.

If the trip is a notable success, prospects for the alliance will seem brighter. The prospects evidenty need brightening. Outside the United States the alliance often is regarded, even by its friends, as a far from hopeful attempt to wipe out Latin America's past through voluntary reforms—overnight.

The Kennedy trip is limited to the two South American nations whose governments are among the best friends of the United States. He is to confer with perhaps the most courageous of all the democratic leaders in Latin America: Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela and Alberto Lleras Camargo of Colombia.

Both men are butts of violent Communist-Castroist attack. Both have broken diplomatic relations with Havana. Both are betting they can hold off an explosion on the left. Each is staking his future on the hope that the Alliance for Progress will become a positive reality.

These are men Fidel Castro repeatedly taunts with names like miserable traitor, imperialist lackey, and far worse. It seems safe to say that in all Latin America, Castro hates no men more.

In Colombia, the President will attend a ceremony inaugurating a program to be carried out with significant U.S. financial participation: The construction of 13,000 houses in Bogota for the labor and middle classes and the construction of 22,000 classrooms.

These are the sort of projects Latin Americans understand and

Motion to Shift County Bureaus Downtown Tabled

Use of the Cornell Building at 22 Ferry Street, purchased by the county some time ago for $25,000 and still unused, again came before the board of supervisors Thursday night, blowing up a storm to mar an otherwise peaceful session.

Supervisor John Glennon, (D), 13th ward, brought the storm clouds overhead when from the floor he offered a resolution calling for the naming of a three-man committee, one of which shall be the chairman, to oversee the conversion of the building to use by some county departments at a cost of $5,000 for renovations.

The teeth in the resolution were contained in a provision that when the renovations are completed the three-man committee has power to choose and "order" use of the building by such department or departments as the committee selects.

The resolution offered by Glennon with six other downtown Democratic supervisors, was tabled by an 18 to 13 vote, Republican supervisors opposing. Sponsors of the resolution were Supervisor Glennon, 13th ward; Richard Hinkley, Eighth ward; Michael Ward Jr., seventh ward; Francis Vertitis, Third ward; John J. Lucci, Fifth ward; Peter F. Simpson, Sixth ward.

Supervisor Glennon said the building could be "fixed up" for one or two departments by expenditure of about $5,000 and then other departments could follow.

Supervisor Jesse McHugh (R), majority leader said $5,000 would not even put the heater in shape. He said studies had been made of the building and costs of renovation. He called attention to the fact the Coast Guard was demanding the dock at the rear be repaired and said some $6,000 had already been spent and the return this far on the $25,000 investment has been $80 a month rental. He said the committee had been trying to "get something down there" but he pre-

Merchants Across Nation Are Doing Record Seasonal Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — Shoppers' dollars are falling like snowflakes into cash registers as the Christmas buying season swirls toward what may be an all-time record.

Merchants across the country generally report that crowds started jamming the stores on the day after Thanksgiving day and have kept coming.

A trend toward buying fallout shelter equipment as household gifts was noted by some merchants.

"It's wonderful!" chortled Joe Falk, owner of a big Kansas City toy store. "People are looser with their money than last year. They are buying the good stuff and don't care what they have to spend."

In some areas, however, buying was about on a par with last year or a little lower. Apprehension over the international situation and anxiety over further call-up of reserves made some people cautious about heavy buying.

The United States Chamber of Commerce predicted Americans would spend $23 billion this Christmas, up 4 per cent from record 1960. The National Retail Merchants Association forecast a 2 per cent gain.

An Associated Press survey of merchants in major cities indicated that in most areas people are buying more and better merchandise, have lost much of the caution that marked their shopping last year and are splurging somewhat on luxuries.

Merchants feel that general business improvement is reflected in the attitude of their customers.

Prices are generally holding close to last year with increased competition from discount houses being a factor.

FPC Rules Gas May Be Brought In From Canada

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Power Commision has authorized the importation of a limited amount of natural gas from Canada at a point near Niagara Falls, N.Y.

The commission's action Thursday reversed two earlier decisions by Examiner Harry W. Frazee, who had denied the proposed importation on ground the company had failed to show it was required.

Permission was given Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., Houston, to import the gas on an uninterruptible basis. The commission said the supplemental source of gas would benefit customers over Tennessee's entire system, particularly in Northern New York and New England.

The company had asked permission to import a maximum of 204 million cubic feet of gas daily. The commission, however, limited daily volume to 96.9 million cubic feet during the summer storage injection season and 28.5 million cubic feet during the winter heating season.

The gas will be purchased from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., Calgary, Alberta, at an existing interconnection of the two systems.

Ex-Cop Admits Slaying Off Duty Officer in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—A recently retired policeman admitted today he shot and killed an off-duty policeman Thursday night when the off-duty officer tried to stop him after a holdup, police said.

Detective Lt. Michael Willis said that Arthur Parker, 39, of Teaneck, N.J., broke under questioning and admitted shooting Hugh W. Willoughby, 35, of Manhattan.

Police quoted Parker as saying he robbed a store of $35 and a bottle of whisky shortly before midnight Thursday. Willoughby, in civilian clothes, stepped into the store and storeowner, Nicholas Ferrante, told of being robbed.

Willoughby took after the robber and caught him 60 feet away, but was shot before he could bring him in.

Police said Parker told the district attorney's office that he did not know that Willoughby was a policeman.

Parker is a Negro, as was Willoughby.

Kennedys Leave, Show No Concern About Protests

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and his wife took off today on the first leg of a flying weekend visit t oVenezuela and Colombia to point up U.S. pledges of aid for Latin-American development.

As they boarded their plane, the President and First Lady were smiling and apparently unconcerned about protest demonstrations in Venezuela—some of them violent—against their visit.

To Caracas Saturday

The presidenial jet lifted at 12:14 p.m. EST from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., bound for San Juan, Puerto Rico, and an overnight stop.

Saturday the presidential party, which includes several U.S. officials will fly on to Caracas, the Venezuelan capital, scene of armed anti-U.S. outbreaks in recent days. On Sunday, the Kennedys will go on to Bogota, Colombia.

This is Kennedy's first trip to Latin America as president. The aim is to dramatize the Alliance for Progress, his 10-year, $20 billion program for economic and social advancement in the nations to the south.

The official view is that the "Kennedy no" demonstrations are actions of radical minorities which will be controlled by stable governments and overwhelmed in a popular welcome.

Talks With Johnson

Shortly before Kennedy left the White House, it was disclosed he had talked by telephone with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who is in Texas, and had arranged for Johnson to be kept posted on all matters of importance while the President is away.

But officials said no significance was to be attached to this in relation o the anti-U.S. demonstrations.

Before taking off for the 1,725-mile flight to San Juan, the President shook hands with the dean of the diplomatic corps, Ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa of Nicaragua and representatives of the embassies of Venezuela and Colombia.

In Puerto Rico the Kennedys will be overnight guests of Gov. and Mrs. Luis Munoz Marin.

Other officers elected to serve with Slutzky include Philip Thoin, The John W. Cowper Company, Buffalo, president; Adam Friederich, A. Friederich and Sons Co., Rochester, first vice president, and William Craib, Cooper and Craib, Inc., Rochester, secretary-treasurer.

Gallo Figure Shot

NEW YORK (AP)—A man police said was friendly with both the Gallo rackets mob and their arch enemy was shot and critically wounded as he stood outside his Brooklyn candy store Thursday night.

Salvatore DeSimone, 57, was hit in the chest and left thigh as he stood in front of the store. Police said he has a record for policy and attempted bribery of officers.

DeSimone was rushed to Methodist Hospital by his son and nephew. Police said he would give no details of the shooting, not even whether the shots were fired from a car.

King Bids JFK Proclaim 2nd Emancipation Decree

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The Re. Martin Luther King Jr. has appealed to President Kennedy for a 'second emancipation proclamation" to end segregation.

The Negro integration leader made his plea Thursday night after New Orleans officials canceled a Municipal Auditorium mass meeting he was to have addressed.

"You may cancel a meeting," King said, "but you can't cancel the date New Orleans and the South has with destiny. You can't cancel our determination the Negro has to be free in this day and age."

King, who said he would go today to the scene of mass Negro arrests in Albany, Ga., labeled charges he was an agitator as "trumped-up."

Thursday night's meeting was switched to a church, where about 1,000 persons gave King a standing ovation.

"The hour has come for the President of the United States to issue an executive order declaring segregation unconstitutional on the basis of the 14th Amendment," said King.

Negroes have been freed only of "physical" slavery, he said. King urged President Kennedy to complete the job with a second emancipation proclamation.

Motion to Shift

dicted that it would cost "another $25,000" to renovate the building.

McHugh moved to table the resolution. It was carried.

Another Discussion

Another matter which created discussion was a resolution by Supervisor Edwin C. Chase (R), Wawarsing to convey to the Congregation Tifereth Yehuda Ve Yisreal, Kerhonkson, a parcel of land adjoining the synagogue in Kerhonkson. The property was acquired from Woodrow W. Smith and wife by the county during realignment of County Road 77 several years ago. Located on Kerhonkson Hill in Town of Wawarsing, there remains a portion of the property now used for highway purposes. On it is located an abandoned house, which stands within four feet of the road.

Supervisor Chase's resolution called for transfer of the property to the Congregation, demolition of the building or removal of it for a distance of 25 feet from the highway within a year or the premises would revert to the county.

Chairman Robert F. Phinney (R), 11th ward objected on the grounds the county had paid $6,000 for the premises several years ago. He held it should bring quite a sum now.

Supervisor Chase stated that the house was vacant, in bad state of repairs and "no one would buy it" and he suggested it be disposed of to the Congregation for religious purposes.

Confusion reigned for a time after voting was begun over what the supervisors were voting for.

Supervisor James M. Rapp (R), first ward, moved to table, withdrew the motion, and the vote was completed. It war carried 24 in favor and two against, including Supervisor Phinney, and five abstained.

Approval Remains

During the discussion Supervisor McCardle (D), ninth ward, left to "look up the law" on procedure permitted during roll call. When he returned he moved to reconsider the vote but later withdrew that motion and approval of the Chase resolution remained.

Communications were read from the American Association of University Women, the Ulster County School Board Association submitting requests for naming trustees for the Community College and also a communication from Kiwanis Club suggesting the name of Harry Rigby Jr., as a trustee.

A renewal of contract with Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation for lighting the two parking lots in Kingston was approved.

Payment Deferred

Action on approval of final payment to Motorola for two-way radio was deferred until December 20. Supervisor Charles Relyea (R), Hurley, moved for final payment approval, Supervisor George Majestic (D), Gardiner, moved to table the resolution and Supervisor Gaffney (D), Lloyd suggested it be taken up at the next meeting. When Supervisor Alexander Banyo, (R) Ulster, a member of the committee stated it might be well to hold it over for additional checking, no vote was taken on the Relyea resolution and the matter went over to December 20.

The board will meet Tuesday, December 19, at 7:30 p. m. to hear public opinion on the 1962 budget. The next regular meeting will be subject to call of the chair.

U.N. Achieves

U.N. chief to stall off any cease-fire until the military campaign has achieved U.N. objectives.

But Thant told the British Thursday night that he has two envoys in the Congo trying to work out a political reconciliation between Katanga and the central Congo government in Leopoldville. They are U.N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche, an American, and U.N. political officer Robert Gardiner, a Ghanian.

U.N. objectives in Katanga, as stated by Thant Sunday, are freedom of action and freedom to carry out all U.N. resolutions on the Congo.

Objectives First

U.S. sources at the U.N. stressed that the United States position is still the same as it was Wednesday—when Undersecretary of State George W. Ball declared no cease-fire was feasible until the U.N. objectives had been achieved.

Some diplomats speculated that Tshombe might fear that his downfall is imminent in view of the buildup of U.N. military forces in Katanga and that he is now seeking a way out.

Tshombe's peace pleas represented an abrupt switch from a "poison arrow" speech he delivered in Elisabethville Wednesday night calling on the Katangan people to fight until death.

Wilson Reports

towns to conform to existing state water pollution orders similar to the one now in effect in such communities as Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Hudson and Catskill.

The afternoon session was informed that by 1975 the daily water needs of New York State will have risen to more than 25 billion gallons and at the present rate, these needs probably could not be met.

Dr. Morris Cohn, a member of the commission, explained that it is the duty of that body, acting in cooperation with local areas not only to protect present water resources from waste and pollution, but also to find new sources of supply. He added that a long range state aim is the proper storage of water in times of excess, for use in times of shortage.

Local Level Action

Other commission members pointed out that the Planning Act of 1959, now an integral part of the Conservation Law, acts as a broad basis for local and regional plans for specific water problems. These problems include use of water for domestic, agricultural, industrial and recreational needs as well as the fields of water pollution and flood control. It was explained that such planning would be on local, not state level with full approval of both legislative bodies and the people of every county involved.

James Harding, commissioner of public works in Westchester County, a member of the commission, discussed some of the work already accomplished in the six counties in the southeastern area. He said some study work has been done in all the counties, including Ulster County which has created a study commission. Harding, added, however, that Ulster is one of the few areas in the state where a plan for county-wide action apparently is not feasible because of the nature of its terrain.

Finds Much Pollution

At the close of the session, it was pointed out that needs of a water pollution program was recently demonstrated by a man who took a boat trip up the Hudson from New York City, through the state barge canal system through the Great Lakes and down the Mississippi River to New Orleans. With only one exception, Lake Huron, he said, none of the water covered was free from pollution.

Assemblyman Wilson is attending another meeting of the commission today in New York City.

Two Sides Meet To Write Pact For Mack Truck

NEW YORK (AP) — Company and union officials met with federal mediators to put on paper an oral agreement that ended a 44-day walkout by Mack Truck Co. workers in three states.

A spokesman for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said Thursday another meeting would be held early next week "to further explore matters which need a little more clarification."

The oral agreement was reached last Sunday, and the 4,000 strikers have returned to work.

The pact must be ratified by members of the seven striking locals of the United Auto Workers Union. Details of the agreement are expected to be announced later.

The strike of production, maintenance and office workers began Oct. 26 at the company's plant in Allentown, Pa., its Bridgewater plant at Somerville, N.J. and its Brockway plant at Cortland, N. Y.

Job security and the right of workers to transfer along with plants being moved were among the issues in the dispute over contract renewal.

Dutchess Widens Search for Man, Wreck Is Found

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—The finding of a wrecked, blood-stained automobile with no occupant led to a widening search today for the driver.

The car was registered to Richard E. Logan, 27, a construction worker, of Poughkeepsie, who has not been seen since Wednesday night.

A Civil Air Patrol plane was to join in the search in a rural, heavily wooded area near where the car was found Thursday morning.

Searchers presumed Logan was the driver. They expressed fear he might be wandering in shock from injuries or that he might have been a victim of foul play.

U.N. Ballot Due Late Today on Red China Seat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The General Assembly headed for a showdown vote today on Communist China's annual bid for United Nations membership. The United States was still confident the Reds would be kept out.

Balloting was expected late today on whether to give Nationalist China's seat in the world organization to the Peiping regime. The assembly for two weeks has debated the issue the United States had managed to keep on the shelf for 10 years.

Four votes were anticipated.

1. On a motion to give priority to a U.S. resolution declaring the China issue a question of substance requiring a two-thirds majority for adoption. But the priority resolution itself is procedural and requires only a simple majority for passage.

2. On the U.S. "substance" resolution itself, another procedural issue requiring only a simpic majority.

3. On a neutralist amendment to give the Chinese seat to Peid ping but to drop the Soviet demand for expulsion of the Nationalists.

4. On the Soviet resolution to expel the Nationalists and seat Peiping.

Flu Virus Hits St. Louis Hard

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Flue virus that hit rural areas in Missouri and Illinois this week struck metropolitan St. Louis Thursday.

Some schools reported 30 per cent of their pupils absent.

Attempts by medical schools at St. Louis and Washington universities to identify the virus have been unsuccessful.

Schools at Potosi, Mo., about 55 miles south of St. Louis, have been closed all week. Flu claimed about 33 per cent of the school system's 2,400 pupils. Other outbreaks were reported at Lutesville, Mo., 65 miles southeast of Potosi; and Wolf Lake, Ill., about 20 miles east of Lutesville.

The U.S. Public Health Service said the only other epidemic recorded was on an island off Alaska.

Searching for Three Men Who Left Art

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The FBI was pressing its search today for three men who allegedly left nine stolen paintings valued at a half million dollars in a motel room in nearby Coraopolis.

The paintings, taken from the suburban Whitehall home and art gallery of retired industrialist G. David Thompson last July 28, were recovered by FBI agents.

The FBI said another painting had been recovered earlier.

According to the FBI, the nine paintings were deposited at the Hotel Pittsburgher Motel.

Will Eliminate Tax Rebate

State Education Aid in '62 May Reach $1 Billion Mark

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York State budget will rise to approximately $2.6 billion next year, largely under pressure for an increase in state aid to education.

Gov. Rockefeller has pledged on several occasions that no new taxes will be sought to finance the higher spending.

The Republican governor is counting on improving business conditions to provide additional state revenues, without an increase in tax rates.

On the other hand, Rockefeller does not propose to continue the 10 per cent rebate the state gave taxpayers this year on their 1960 personal income taxes.

Education Aid Studied

That cut was given in the hope of partially offsetting political liabilities the Republican state administration incurred when it raised state income taxes in 1959.

State aid to education will continue to be the chief fiscal concern of the lawmakers.

The total amount of state money spent to aid local school districts will be close to $1 billion, which will mean an increase of $150 million or more in the new session.

The total of the state budget is determined in a large sense by laws passed by the Legislature in previous years.

Will Make Token Cuts

The scholar-incentive plan of grants to students in private colleges and raises voted for state employes in the last session, for example, will account for part of the increases in next year's state budget.

If past custom is followed, the Legislature's fiscal committees will make token cuts in the budget submitted by Rockefeller but these will have almost no visible effect on the state's finances.

Debate will center largely on Democratic charges that the state's income-tax laws as revised under Rockefeller are unfair to low-income families.

Expect Budget Approval

The minority members also will argue for higher spending than proposed by the administration in several fields.

The budget almost certainly will be approved, as it has been without fail for many years, in essentially the same form as it was when submitted by the governor.

Reapportionment of legislative seats will be one of the most hard-fought issues of the session.

Districts will be re-aligned to conform to population shifts shown by the 1960 federal census

As happened in congressional redistricting, carried out at a special legislative session last month, New York City will lose seats.

The state's largest city, which has lost population, is expected to lose four Senate and nine Assembly seats.

Plan Amendments

Democrats argued that the reapportionment formulas were designed to favor the traditionally Republican Upstate-Long Island area at the expense of New York City, which is strongly Democratic.

It is unlikely that the Democratic protests will have any effect on Republican plans.

Democratic legislative leaders have announced plans to sponsor constitutional amendments under which legislative apportionment would be tied more directly to population. Seats now are allocated on the basis of population and geographical area.

It is highly unlikely that members of the Republican majority of the Legislature would support a proposal to reduce their own strength.

Middletown Has Phone Strike, but No Service Halt

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Workers at the Orange County Telephone Co. struck in a dispute over a wage increase and other benefits but service was maintained by management and non-union personnel.

The strike of 108 plant, commercial and traffic department workers was called yesterday by Local 1948 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

A work contract expired Dec. 1 and negotiations on a new Current wage scales were no agreement collapsed yesterday. Current wage scales were not available.

The company serves 17,900 subscribers in Orange, Sullivan and Ulster counties. It is a part of the General Telephone Co., which has headquarters in Johnstown.

Changes in Channels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission announced Thursday the following shifts in UHF television channel assignments in New York State:

Substitute Channel 34 for Channel 56 in Binghamton and delete unused Channel 20 from Ithaca.

Felician Sisters To Have College In Buffalo Area

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Plans have been announced to establish a multi-million-dollar four-year women's college, with facilities for 500 students, in suburban Cheektowaga.

The school will be known as Villa Maria College, and will be Operated by the Immaculate Heart of Mary Province, Congregation of St. Felix of Cantilicia, commonly known as the Felician Sisters.

The province now operates 62 schools and homes in Western New York, as far east as Syracuse, and in part of Ontario, Canada.

Groundbreaking is scheduled for next May, and classes are expected to begin in the fall of 1963.

Comprising the school will be the college proper, with classrooms, laboratories, a library, a cafeteria and administrative offices; an adjoining school of music; and an auditorium, gymnasium and residential facilities.

Ordered to Stand Trial For Death by Auto

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—A man charged with second-degree manslaughter in the traffic death last October of Chauncey Gaylord Stearns, 17, of Cazenovia, N. Y., has waived preliminary hearing on the charge.

Lloyd M. Jarmin, 35, was ordered yesterday to stand trial in circuit court. He is free in $4,000 bond.

Police said Jarmin was the driver of an automobile that fatally injured the youth. Stearns was in Kansas City as a delegate to the national convention of the Future Farmers of America.

Woman Dies of Beating

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth McFiggins, 65, of Rochester, died in a hospital here Thursday night of injuries suffered when she was beaten and left unconscious in front of her home last Nov. 26, police said.

Mrs. McFiggins received multiple neck, shoulder and rib bruises and a fractured jaw, and never regained consciousness, police said.

Cadillac

Craftsmanship a creed...accuracy a law!

The headline of this advertisement was written almost sixty years ago.

It is the motto of the men who build Cadillac cars—and it has served as both proud legend and stern taskmaster for three generations of Cadillac craftsmen.

We selected it to help tell our story today, because we think it still summarizes perfectly the quality and the care—the pride and the precision—that go into the making of every Cadillac motor car.

There is no really adequate way to describe the crafting of a Cadillac. But this recitation of facts might be helpful.

1. The average Cadillac craftsman has ten years of experience on the job.
2. One out of every seven people involved in the building of the car is an inspector.
3. Cadillacs are built in only one place—by men who build nothing else.
4. The car is crafted to unbelievably fine tolerances. Some engine parts, for example, must be accurate to within one ten-thousandth of an inch.

5. Every model undergoes more than 1400 different checks and inspections in the course of its assembly.

The list is longer, of course. But however lengthy, it could never be more impressive than the result. It's the 1962 Cadillac.

See it and drive it soon. We know you'll understand why it has been so widely acclaimed as the Standard of the World.

SOVIET SHORTCOMINGS

In one of his expansive moods, Soviet Premier Khrushchev conceded anew that agriculture is something the Russians "are learning from the Americans."

Off the record so far, we should have to conclude that Soviet farm operators are painfully slow learners. But their farm failures are in fact the result of other shortcomings as well.

Soviet population is only a fifth larger than ours, yet Russian crop yields per acre are so inferior that Moscow must devote 52 per cent more land to crops than we do.

Despite the Russians' well-advertised copying of our corn-raising and other techniques, we far outdo them in yields on corn, wheat, oats, rye, soybeans and a host of other products.

The really big giveaway in all this is their inability to muster the tractors, the trucks, the combines, the electricity and the fertilizer needed to do a solid producing job.

Comparisons made by our Agriculture Department specialists show the Soviet Union trailing us pitifully in the use of these important farm aids.

So when Khrushchev admits casting an eye steadily toward our efforts, he is acknowledging more than he realizes.

It's an old story that Moscow has ignored, most of the time—the output of consumer goods while it concentrated on an arms and space build-up with the necessary heavy industries in support.

Nevertheless, Kremlin leaders for long years have earnestly wanted to solve their chronic farm crop shortages mainly because greater agricultural efficiency would free millions of farm workers for use in industry.

Today 45 per cent of the Soviet labor force is engaged in farming, with inadequate results. We produce embarrassing surpluses with 10 per cent of our total work force.

It is highly revealing, then, that Khrushchev and company cannot allocate enough of their industrial facilities to make a real dent in the farm problem.

It suggests that their arms and space triumphs are accomplished at the expense not only of ordinary consumer goods but of items the leaders themselves ardently desire to turn out.

It suggests further that there may be ample warrant for such a broad indictment of Sino-Soviet economic failure as is brought by Harvard's Prof. Oscar Handlin in a recent Harper's magazine article.

The economic field is supposed to be the one wherein lies communism's great lure for the underdeveloped. The Reds boast that on this battleground they cannot lose. Yet up to now they have done little else.

WESTERNIZED RUSSIANS

No wonder the Kremlin is not eager to have Russians visit this country. They too frequently acquire a fondness for the ways of materialistic capitalism. An indication of this was provided by the 14 doctors, engineers and interpreters who were in Minneapolis for a couple of weeks with a Soviet medical exhibit.

The Russian men arrived wearing heavy woolen suits with wide lapels. The women wore "sack" dresses, worsted jumpers or plain skirts and sweaters. But it was a different group that left the city when the exhibit closed.

The men had gone "Ivy League." They wore sharply cut American suits with narrow lapels and narrow trousers. They also wore American shoes, narrow neckties and short haircuts. One woman wore a black velvet cocktail dress; others had succumbed to American "flair." Wedge sandals had been replaced by thin-heeled shoes.

No one can say what the Russian hierarchy will think of the westernized troupe when it returns home. Perhaps the medical delegates are not sure either and will avoid official displeasure by reverting to the heavy woolens and jumpers for the homecoming. But they have had a taste of something more interesting.

MATTHEWS ON CASTRO

According to a report in the New York "Herald Tribune," Herbert Matthews, an editor of "The New York Times," who in a large measure was responsible for the acceptance of Castro by the United States as the savior of Cuba, said, when Castro declared himself to be a Marxist:

"I don't believe anything he says. He's fantastic, incredible.

"Today Castro may believe he's a Communist, but tomorrow he may believe something else. I don't think you can give him a label. He's too wild, too disorganized."

This is not what Herbert Matthews said when he indoctrinated Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith. Smith was instructed to take lessons from Matthews in Cuban affairs upon his appointment. It was unusual for a diplomat to be instructed by a newspaperman; nevertheless that is what Smith was told to do. When he discovered that Castro was a Communist, Smith so notified the State Department but his notification was ignored and he was set aside. Now Smith's judgement has been verified by Castro himself and it is clear beyond doubt that Castro is a Communist. Matthews now admits that he may have made some slips in his judgement of Castro, but has he ever apologized to Ambassador Smith for his attitude toward the diplomat or is he like his newspaper which does not admit error? Ambassador Smith was rejected by Switzerland because of his difficulties with "The New York Times," an error of judgement that will never be forgotten by this Administration and by many Americans. We all make mistakes in the course of a lifetime of writing but he is indeed guilty of evil intent who will not admit error under any circumstances.

Matthews takes the position that if Castro is indeed a Marxist, "he is going to be a very bad and unruly one." This is, of course, a sentence of no significance. If Castro is a Marxist, as he now says that he is, it does not matter whether he is bad or unruly. What does matter is that he has become a peril to the United States. According to the "Herald Tribune" account Matthews said:

(Castro is) "the most dangerous person to the United States who has ever arisen in the history of the Western Hemisphere."

This is true but this is not what he said to Earl E. T. Smith when he indoctrinated the Ambassador. Nor is it what he wrote in "The New York Times" when his articles were influencing Americans to support Castro. Nor is what he wrote in his book on Cuba. Too late, Herbert Matthews has discovered that his protege is a man of evil; too late has he discovered that his support of Castro has been a betrayal of American interests.

Our only comment can be that it is most unfortunate when so-called authorities lack the depth of understanding and lead us in incorrect directions. It makes one wonder how often it happens. Certainly, it must be said that the articles that Walter Duranty wrote about Soviet Russia at the beginning of the Revolution have not been justified by the course of events. It would be interesting to study the activities of the CIA during the past four years to discover whether what was told to the President and the State Department has at all been correct. Certainly, too many errors have been made and we have no explanation who made them or why. The Katanga activities of the United Nations are queer and are without explanation. That picture requires better explanation than we have had. Certainly, we do not know enough about the Katanga situation to justify an opinion as to what program concerning Katanga is correct.

Much needs to be disclosed and understood before we close our minds. Surely, we do not know enough to understand why so great a fuss is made over little Albania. Nor is it clear why the troubles in the Dominican Republic have developed into such a serious revolution. How much of the Dominican troubles are manufactured by Castro; how many of them are little more than the aftermath of the fall of Trujillo? Whatever it is, the Dominican situation is extremely ugly and can lead to an explosion in Latin America. Are we aware of the probability of the explosive character of the peoples of Latin America and does anyone have a program to deal with the subject?

Lump in the Throat Nags; Learn to Live With It

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What is "lump in the throat?" My wife complains of it frequently and sometimes for weeks and even months. We have been to any number of doctors. All they say is that it is "nervous" or "hysterical." All we get for our visit and our expense is a prescription for a sedative or a tranquilizer, neither of which does any good.

A—Dear "Disgusted," as you sign yourself. The condition you describe is probably what's called "globus hystericus." As the name indicates, your wife's statement of a "lump" is the "globus" and the doctor's opinion of the cause of the lump is the "hystericus."

While it is true that this condition is observed most often in tense, high-strung women who have no evidence of organic disease (even when examined after passage of an esophaguscope), it's sometimes difficult and maybe impossible to tell which comes first—globus or hystericus.

For example, at one time or another, each of us suffers discomfort on swallowing. Maybe we ate dry food, bolted down a lump of unchewed meat, swallowed a crisp substance that scratched the delicate lining membrane of the gullet (esophagus) or got a mess of sticky candy plugged in the lower opening.

One way or other, that's a frightening experience, especially if we're cancer-minded. If we're told it's a "lump" in the throat, the word "lump" that we associate with cancer may add to our "hystericus."

So we make multiple visits to multiple doctors and have multiple examinations until a minor annoyance becomes a major disturbance. Then, when the annoyance persists despite medication, we begin to think of the possibility that the doctors "missed something." That something being, of course, a cancer.

I may be wrong but the tone of your letter suggests you're annoyed with your wife, and she's probably annoyed with the globus, herself, you, doctors and her medications.

So how's about what the diplomats call a disengagement? A truce? A cessation of hostilities? For, if the globus was due to a malignancy, your wife wouldn't be around to notice it.

Since it's "one of those things" we doctors can't explain and can't relieve, how about dropping it from the family agenda?

Perhaps your wife will agree not to complain about it or refer to it if you agree not to inquire about it and to ignore her obvious discomfort when it occurs at meals. You can't tell. It just might work.

Q—Is it true that pulling on a hair in the ear can stop an attack of hiccoughs? Every once in a while I get an attack but that's one thing I've never tried.

A—It's quite true as evidenced by a recent report published in the respected New England Journal of Medicine. The explanation for the relief has to do with the nerve pathways that get a bit mixed up in the regions of the nose, throat and ear. It long has been noted by doctors that patients cough when a speculum or an applicator is inserted into the ear canal. The same reflex that causes the ear-cough is probably responsible for the relief of the attack of hiccoughs. Anyway it's worth a try.

Holly? What's It For?

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent .. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One reason for President Kennedy's South American trip is to sell his Alliance for Progress some more.

The paradox of his sales talks in Columbia and Venezuela is that neither of these countries needs selling on the Alliance, since they're already boosters.

But these are good places for launching the campaign, as both countries can show some constructive examples of self-help. Both have done some economic planning.

THEY HAVE MADE STARTS TO TAKE CARE OF the great needs in all Latin America—more food production and potable water supplies for their own people, road systems that will permit transportation of goods to promote economic growth, better housing and more education for the illiterate masses.

Neither country has received large amounts of U. S. aid, as these things go. ● Columbia since 1945 has received $319 million in economic aid, $30 million in military aid. ● Venezuela, with greater income of its own from oil and iron ore resources, has received $104 million in economic aid, $14 million military aid.

Totals for all U. S. aid furnished Latin America since 1945 are $11 billion—$6 billion military, 5 billion economic.

President Alberto Lleras Camargo of Columbia—in the last year of his term of office and being unable to succeed himself—has inaugurated a land reform program that will have far-reaching effects, if his successors carry it out.

President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela, one of the real progressives of Latin America, has been a leader in reform movements. Venezuela has the largest concentration of private U. S. investments abroad. And the promotion of private investment is a goal of the Alliance for Progress.

THE WAY THINGS STACK UP NOW, the middle-sized countries of Latin America will work out best in the Alliance.

The smaller countries don't know the meaning of economic planning and haven't the facilities to effect it.

Most of the larger countries resist it. They resent any implications that they are "underdeveloped." And they refuse to admit there's anything wrong with their economies, even when they're on the rocks. There is not one stable currency.

In almost every country, the Alliance is meeting resistance because the few who have run things don't want progress.

They don't want higher living standards for their people because these can come only through higher taxation and the sacrifice of vested interests.

So the Alliance moves slowly. It has to be sold not only in Latin America but in the United States as well.

Nine months after its conception last March and four months after its birth—perhaps prematurely, at Punta del Este, Uruguay, last August—$800 million of the $1 billion which President Kennedy pledged for the first year has been committed. But only a small fraction of that has been spent. And it may take another nine months to show any results.

When the Punta del Este charter was signed, it was specified that the Latin-American countries would have 18 months in which to submit their development plans. Four of those 18 months have now gone. And the so-called "Committee of Nine Wise Men," who will review those plans for the Organization of American States, has just been chosen.

THE EXPECTATION IS that President Kennedy will present his new foreign aid message and legislation to Congress early next year, instead of in late May as it was presented this year. The new bill will ask for authorizations of still undetermined size to carry on the Alliance for its second year.

The 10-year plan calls for expenditures of $20 billion from both governmental and private sources. So the request for second year operations will be at least another billion.

So They Say..

Why fight wars if their outcome can be reliably determined on computers? If both the United States and Russia would reveal their actual military forces and plans of attack, this information could be fed into computers (to) forecast the outcome of a possible conflict.
—Fred Davis, director of Mississippi State University computer center.

Public Seen Misinformed On Productivity Benefits

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The public reads about big strikes and suffers acutely from them. But what the public doesn't know is the truth about the hooey and misleading claims that convince millions of wage-earners that they are being bamboozled and deserve wage increases even when management really can't afford them.

So it is pertinent to take note of a significant pronouncement just made by the Secretary of Labor, Arthur Goldberg, who puts his finger on the need to take into account a very important set of facts, even though he doesn't explain how to get them.

Mr. Goldberg discusses the subject of financial benefits from 'productivity" and avows what labor leaders rarely avow—that these gains should be devided three ways, that is, they should be shared by the workers, the owners and the public in the form of lower prices.

But who is to say what the division should be? Certainly stockholders should be given at least a fair return on their investments, and they will not furnish more capital to companies that don't have good earnings. The public should be given lower prices wherever possible. The workers should be given in increased wages as part of the money saved through their own "productivity."

It turns out, however, that the labor unions usually demand almost all of the benefits from increased "productivity," including gains from new machinery, even though they have played only a small part in the increased efficency. The additional wages demanded by the unions often cost more than the entire increased benefit in money from "productivity." In the last steel wage settlement, for example, workers got substantial increases, but "productivity" still is below the pre-strike figure in 1959.

Much is heard, too about the average rate of productivity." One company may have a 10 per cent increase, and another may have only 1 or 2 per cent or none at all, but the "average" for the industry becomes the yardstick for wage increases according to labor-union leaders. Also, if the steel industry is loaded with orders in the months before a threatened strike—as it was in the latter part of 1958 and during a large part of 1959—the total volume goes up. "Productivity" measured by such a year is then used as a basis for computing the wage rates for a succeeding year no matter how low production itself might fall. Profits may go down later, but wages never.

In the light of such conditions, the latest statement by the Secretary of Labor is germane to the discussion. Writing to the Washington Post, he said that, since that paper had interpreted his own speeches and comments at the AFL-CIO convention as giving strong support to the President's policy on wages and prices while the New York Times had construed his speech "as taking a soft line toward that policy, some words of clarification are required." He added:

"I want to make it very plain, as I have repeatedly said to labor and to management groups, that we in this country must do everything within our power to prevent inflation and maintain price stability. Since we do not want wage and price controls imposed in our free economic system, it requires responsible collective bargaining to achieve this.

"Every economist believes that economic gains for both labor and management must be earned by increases in productivity. This means that these gains should be shared by the workers, the owners and the public. Within the framework of our potential national productivity, all three can benefit.

"Further, we must keep competitive in world markets and keep our money sound. This means that we cannot afford the luxury of restrictive practices on the part of labor or management which impair efficiency and productivity. It also means that automation must be encouraged.

"In addition restrictive and protectionist trade policies must be avoided since they will retard our economy, not stimulate it. Also, we must be careful not to throttle business profits from which new enterprises and plants grow and provide new jobs.

"These are the things which I attempted to say to the AFL-CIO in my prepared remarks, my extemporaneous ones, and in the ~~press~~ conference which followed my speech.

"My reference to inequities was to state that even wage and price controls have recognized in war time the fact that all industries and companies do not progress at the same rate and that there are inequities present in both industry and labor at any given point in history. It is these inequities to which I referred. I also believe, as I stated, that they can be adjusted within the framework of over-all increases in productivity.

"My position on these subjects is not a new one. It is the same one expressed by Dr. Walter Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, and is in strong support of the President in his efforts to prevent inflation and maintain price stability.

"These are the things I tried to say to the AFL-CIO. I believe that my whole remarks reflect these thoughts accurately."

One point in the above needs to be underlined and repeated again and again: "The fact that all industries and companies do not progress at the same rate and that there are inequities present in both industry and labor at any given point in history."

But labor-union negotiators do not accept this as a "fact of life." The present system of industry-wide bargaining, moreover, virtually destroys all opportunity to remove inequities between companies, thus aiding the larger units and often forcing the smaller ones out of business.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In my inquiries about Franklin D. Roosevelt I have sometimes felt a subconscious defensiveness because ignorant individuals, and some crafty professors, insist on equating me to the great man. It makes no difference whether I have a fault-finding disposition. All that matters is truth or falsity. I maintain that, by and large, Roosevelt was a great crook, even in money matters which were petty by comparison with his monumental betrayals of the trust of mankind. He was also a big drinker and some of the people who idolized him might have controlled their judgment and cut him down to size had they known this.

He obviously was cockeyed the night he made his fuzzy radio speech in New York after his ride in the rain in a low-neck automobile, protected, however, as we later were allowed to learn, by a rubber union suit.

Hugh Johnson once poured out a cavalryman's account of a night in a small library room at Hyde Park in the course of which Roosevelt absorbed the whole of a stone jug of solid gin. Hugh drank burbon. Eleanor was upstairs and kept whooping for Franklin to get to bed.

Again, Jonathan Daniels, in his memory-book, 'Age of Innocence," tells us that Roosevelt and his Harvard friend, Livingston (or "Livy) Davis, drank their way from London to Inverness, Scotland, ostensibly for FDR to inspect the American naval forces which were laying the northeast mine barrage in 1918. The base command turned out several times in the cold rain or false alarms that the Assistant Secretary of the Navy was at last approaching. But he got there only in time to dash to lunch with Admiral Strauss and dash back to London where he and his companions spent the night until dawn having a "jolly sing-song" and playing little games. His chief then was Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, father of Jonathan, and a dry who had abolished the wet mess and the bluejackets' beer ration on ships and stations. Josephus was severe about this, but he was somehow willing to take impudence from Roosevelt, including even disloyalty by ridicule.

Jesse Jones told us in his neglected story, "Fifty Billion Dollars," written in collaboration with Edward Angly, that FDR "began to see himself a great world figure of all time, a Caesar maybe, or an Alexander the Great." I take comfort from this now as authoritative corroboration of my awareness that Roosevelt went all out for majesty and empire.

At any rate, Jesse Jones wrote that Roosevelt thought so vastly of himself that he felt that he must "bring Joseph Stalin under his influence. To do that it was necessary to get on a working basis with Joe. Overlooking the fact that Stalin had repudiated his agreement (on Roosevelt's recognition of Soviet Russia in 1933), the President sent Harry Hopkins to the Kremlin in 1942 to tell Stalin he would give him whatever he needed in his struggle with Hitler. This cost the American people eleven billion dollars. Better he had let Hitler and Stalin destroy each other."

Elliott Roosevelt's graphic account of the debauch at Stalin's state dinner at Teheran does not specify that his father stood to his glasses with the other tosspots, but neither does he deal the emperor Franklin out of this. On the basis of other accounts, we may fairly assume that FDR got as drunk as the next one.

On Nov. 2, 1950, I got a letter from the late John J. O'Connor, the only Congressman who was purged by Roosevelt in his campaign to punish those who had frustrated Roosevelt's effort to pack the Supreme Court and other Federal courts. O'Connor enclosed with his letter a document entitled "memo" which said Roosevelt was "a definite tosspot," who "killed at least one drinking companion trying to keep up with him — Hopkins — which accounted for their closeness. The writer (John O'Connor) on many an evening tended bar in the White House. When leaders of Congress would be rolled in and from 7:30 on, the glasses tinkled. His nibs had changing favorites. For a while it was gin and ginger ale. Then a spell of scotch. Next, old-fashioneds were the choice.

"About 10 p. m., he would not be 'mellow' but roaring. Everybody was a s.o.b. John L. Lewis. William Green, Father Coughlin. All the judges of the Supreme Court after the N.R.A. decision."

I have lately talked with university students majoring in American history who tell me they get nothing derogatory to Roosevelt in their classes. These are not Harvard students, either. At Harvard of course the truth about Roosevelt would be blasphemy.

Red Trawlers Disrupt Vital U.S. Air Tests

BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — The appearance of a vast Soviet fishing fleet off the New England Coast has disrupted vital testing of experimental radar equipment for the nation's air defense.

An Air Force official, who asked that his name be withheld, said Thursday that "many tests of experimental equipment have often shut down because of the Russian fleet."

Some 100 Soviet trawlers and several mother ships as large as freighters have been seen off the coast for months. Some have been observed within 20 miles of Cape Cod. Others were near enough to be visible from Nantucket Island, 30 miles off the Massachusetts Coast.

The pioneer system for radar defense is the SAGE complex developed by Lincoln Laboratory of Massachusetts Insitute of Technology.

Both sides in the cold war use devices known as ferrets in planes and ground installations to detect radar emissions and thereby discover the source, wave length and other features of the opposing radar system.

Air Force scientists have no doubt the Soviet fishing fleet is well equipped with such devices.

The final link in a series of 21 SAGE direction centers is scheduled to open today in Sioux City, Iowa.

The SAGE center at Lincoln Laboratory, the first one built, is exclusively for experimentation. The SAGE defense center for New England is at Newburgh, N.Y.

Community . . .

cannot be met, Orvis said.

Discussing costs, he said the average tuition was $300, of which the student pays about one-third, the county and state not less than one-third each.

Program of courses will have to be developed to meet the needs of the community. This is up to the trustees and the president and he suggested that until the needs of the student body is determined, it would be impossible to know just what type of buildings should be planned for.

He predicted an attendance of about 200 to 250 from Ulster County when the college is established, with some additional from other counties. This figure was based on high school graduates in 1960.

Can Give Names

Availablity of men for president, Dean Orvis said, would not be a great problem and in that direction the State University would be able to give some assistance by suggesting names of persons known to be competent and available.

After naming the trustees, and he suggested one of them be a woman, he said management of the college should be left to the trustees and the president to be operated within the framework of the appropriation which the board would make. Attempts by boards of supervisors to "run" the colleges are disastrous he said.

Is Hard Work

Work for the trustees would be strenuous, Dean Orvis said, and he cautioned that competent men, who could give much time to the job should be appointed. The trustees should represent a cross-section of the county not only geographically but also as to industry.

"Get good trustees, hire the best people and let them run the college within the framework of your appropriation," was his suggestion.

"Don't rush in with a new campus and new buildings until you see what space is needed for your program," he said. He told the board it "might be better off for the first two or three years" in a temporary site if such a site is available.

Following his talk a question period was held.

Denounced by Judge

Judge Landau, who presided over the three-man tribunal that tried Eichmann, again denounced him in his statement of sentence and termed his crimes "of unparalleled enormity."

Delivering the sentence in Hebrew while Eichmann listened through earphones to a translation in his native German, Judge Landau declared: "For the due punishment of the accused and to deter others in the future, the maximum penalty laid down by the law has to be imposed in this case.

"The aim of the crimes against the Jewish people of which the accused has been convicted was to blot out an entire people from the face of the earth. Such total crimes are of an even graver nature than the sum total of the criminal acts against individuals."

But Landau continued that the court must also take into account the injury to individuals.

Called Victim of System

Servatius had argued that Eichmann was a victim of an evil system and contended "The acts of which he is accused are crimes of a government, not of an individual. The accused could not have done anything. He could not stop this machine, the apparatus."

Even had they found that, said the court, "We would have said that one who had participated in crimes of such dimensions for years on end has to undergo the greatest punishment known to the law, and no order given to him could be a ground even for mitigating his punishment."

But Eichmann, the judged continued, in fact "identified himself in his heart with the orders received by him and was actuated by an ardent desire to attain the criminal object"— the extermination of the Jews.

100,000-Word Judgment

The sentence marked the climax of a 100,000-word judgment that the judges spent three months writing and two days reading earlier this week.

Eichmann left the courtroom to exchange the neat blue suit, white shirt and striped tie he wore for his trial for the red suit of a condemned man, prescribed by British practice which Israel adopted.

A special death cell must be created in the Haifa prison for him. Israel abolished capital punishment for all crimes except those against the Jews and high treason and does not possess a death cell as such.

Seized Last Year

Eichmann, who was head of the Gestapo Jewish affairs division was one of the last major Nazis known to be at large, was captured in Argentina after years of running away in attempt to hide his identity.

Israeli agents kidnaped him in May 1960 and brought him to Israel, which refused Argentine demands to surrender him.

Eichmann's pre-trial interrogation itself was a marvel of seemingly frank confessions. Later he tried to repudiate a lot of it but the Israeli judges found him a liar.

The trial cost Israel about $5 million.

War Fever Mounts

NEW DELHI (AP) — Portuguese women and children today were reported fleeing Goa in increasing numbers as war fever mounted over India's threat to seize the ancient Portuguese territory on the subcontinent.

Red Cops Flee

BERLIN (AP) — Three East German policemen and two military border guards—all armed and uniformed — fled to West Berlin Thursday night.

POLICE CHIEF FOR 41 YEARS — Saugerties Police Chief Arthur W. Richter, who will retire on his 70th birthday, December 30, rises to accept the ovation given by members and guests at the Tuesday night Saugerties Rotary Club meeting at Stonewall Hotel. Richter, the first Saugerties police chief, served continuously in that post for over 41 years. He started on August 2, 1920. Chief Richter was presented with a power planer as a gift of appreciation from the Rotary Club. The presentation was made by Ronald B. Johnstone, program chairman. With Richter at the speakers' table are Mrs. Richter and Lawrence Cahill, Rotary president. (Johnstone photo).

President Steps

he meant by increased assistance to the Vietnamese defense effort. Other administration sources said that this must not be taken to mean that U.S. fighting men will be dispatched to the area. There has been frequent speculation on this possibility in the past.

Rather, government sources said there will be across-the-board assistance of the kind the United States has been giving Viet Nam, plus improved technical advice to enable the Vietnamese to make better use of equipment to be placed at their disposal.

Forty U.S. helicopters arrived in Viet Nam a few days ago and there may be more of them on the way now or shortly. Vitally needed communications equipment is on the list of stepped up assistance, officials said.

May Send Planes

The United States may send more planes to supplement some there. The Vietnamese already have a number of fighter-bomber training planes that could be armed for combat, plus some C47 two-engine transports they could use to drop troops and to haul equipment.

U.S. jets and pilots are engaged now in photographic reconnaisance missions and there has been a sizable expansion in the number of instructors in the U.S. Air Force mission in Viet Nam.

There have been reports that the United States may give the Vietnamese some B26 medium bombers of World War II vintage and possibly some patrol boats to intercept supplies coming down the coast from Communist North Viet Nam to guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

The messages between the two chiefs of state, as put out by the White House, carried no dates.

Diem's was the longer. It recited the history of South Viet Nam's troubles with Communists who run North Viet Nam.

Tells of Terror Tactics

Diem said the North Viet Nam Communists talk of peaceful reunification and "wage war against us."

He spoke of terror tactics—attacks on defenseless teachers, looting of hospitals, the killing of members of anti-malarial teams —as part of efforts to subvert the people, destroy the government and impose a Red regime upon the Vietnamese Republic.

In the last few months, Diem told Kennedy, the Communist assault has "achieved high ferocity" and stretched Vietnamese forces to the utmost in defense of every village, hamlet and home.

Flood Adds to Woes

On top of this, Diem said, a disastrous flood struck the greater part of three provinces and Communists seized on disruption of administration and communications to "sow more destruction in the stricken area."

In response, Kennedy assured Diem that "we are prepared to help the Republic of Viet Nam to protect its people and to preserve its independence."

Kennedy said he and the American people have been deeply disturbed by assaults on Diem's country supported and directed by the Communist authorities at Hanoi.

"Our indignation has mounted," he said, "as the deliberate savagery of the Communist program of assassination, kidnaping and wanton violence became clear."

The Communists, Kennedy said, have violated the 1954 Geneva accords designed to insure peace in Viet Nam. He recalled that at the time of the accords, the United States, though not a party to them declared that it "would view any renewal of the aggression in violation of the agreements with grave concern and as seriously threatening international peace and security."

"We continue to maintain that welcome. Such programs can have a heavy impact among the young Latin Americans, the students and intellectuals who cause much of the ferment and who are captivated by the idea of rapid change toward national self-respect.

Most Dangerous Problems

Of all problems in Latin America, illiteracy and miserable housing probably are the most nagging and the most dangerous in terms of breeding resentment and violence.

Lleras has told his countrymen the U.S. President is not journeying to South America to "make political and economic demands like those which chained Cuba to the Soviet orbit in exchange for arms."

Can Pave Way

There is risk involved in the Kennedy trip. It woud be strange if the Communists and Castristas did not try to do something to spoil it. However, if it is successful, it can pave the way for somewhat bolder ventures south of the border.

As President Lleras pointed out, perhaps the time has come when Latin Americans must decide for themselves whether their future lies with a Marxist-Leninist Castro under Soviet control or in "collaboration among the countries of the hemisphere which answers our needs, is adjusted to our way of life and asks nothing in return from us."

Advises Efficiency In Mining of Coal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The coal industry will increase production by some 430 million tons by 1975, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall believes.

Udall made his prediction Thursday in a speech at the annual dinner of the Coal Mining Institute of America.

At the same time, however, he warned the industry to find more efficient and economical means of mining, delivering and utilizing coal. He said this must be accomplished for the industry to realize its potential.

Treasury Receipts

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cash position of the Treasury on Dec. 12:

Balance	$3,749,420,229.67
Deposits fiscal year July 1	$38,240,750,301.56
Withdrawals fiscal year	$50,084,043,260.37
Total debt	$297,155,612,434.25

view," Kennedy said. So, he said, in accordance with that declaration, and in response to Diem's request, the United States is ready to help Viet Nam at this critical hour.

The primary purpose, he said, is to help the Vietnamese people maintain independence. He said thus the measures this country is taking to assist the Vietnamese defense efforts no longer will be necessary if the North Vietnamese Communist authorities "will stop their campaign to destroy the Republic of Viet Nam."

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) —Blue chips showed a steadier tone in a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .20 at 264.80 with industrials down .80, rails up .10 and utilities up .10.

Most gains and losses were fractional.

The "big," highly capitalized issues which have paced he latest rally and then declined sharply on profit taking were mostly firm.

The British and Dutch issues ofv Unilever, which made their deout this week with a strong rise followed by a steep decline, showed minor plus signs as they met support.

Woman Is Carried To Safety From Po'keepsie Fire

Poughkeepsie firemen carried a woman down the aerial ladder to safety early today when flames threatened the three story apartment house in which she lived at 65 South Hamilton Street.

Five pieces of apparatus responded to a bell alarm at 1:39 a. m. today for a blaze which originated in the third floor rear apartment of Anna Griffin. Miss Edna Erts, who occupied the third floor front apartment, was evacuated down the ladder as a safety measure.

Engines 1, 3 and 7 and Trucks 1 and 2 battled the blaze and damage was not heavy, according to a fire official. Recall was sounded at 2:48 a. m.

The building is owned by Peter Asciutto of 132 College Street, Poughkeepsie.

Marlboro School District Vote Turns Down Land

For the second straight time, voters in the Marlboro Central School District on Thursday defeated a proposal to purchase some 15 acres of land adjoining the site of the Marlboro Elementary School on Route 9W. The vote was 343 no, 172 yes, with 3 void ballots.

The voters had been asked to approve acquisition of the Young - Traphagen property alongside the elementary school so the Board of Education could acquire a road which runs through the school playground and so there would be sufficient land for future expansion.

The proposition was defeated on Oct. 25 by some 81 votes and the public at that time had complained the reason for the purchase was not clear. A public hearing was conducted last Monday night by the Board when the proposal was explained at some length.

The Thursday vote, by 518 residents of the school district, is final, school officials intimated today. A spokesman said no effort will be made to place the proposal before the electorate again.

Governor Plans

with which it has found fault.

The governor's approach was approved Thursday by Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino at a conference on plans for the 1962 legislative session. No decisions were announced beyond the rent-control plan.

The republican-controlled Legislature is expected to approve the governor's plan.

Rockefeller released the text of a letter in which he told Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City that he (Rockefeller) would ask the 1962 Legislature to transfer responsibility for rent control to New York City, effective May 1.

The city would have to write its own law. The state would continue to pay the $4-million annual cost of administering the plan when New York City, where 1.8 million dwelling units still are controlled.

All Eggs In One Basket Unwise Investment Plan

Q) "I do not subscribe to the idea of diversification in investments. I believe it is only an excuse for poor selection in the first place. I want to put every dollar I can get my hands on into Meredith Publishing. Please give me your views?" — E. F.

A) I have only one view with respect to your question — and it's that you'd better slow down, sit back, and think of what would happen if you did make a mistake.

The most thorough method of selection imaginable will not guarantee your stock-market profits. Investing is an art which deals with the future; and, since the future is an unknown quantity, there is absolutely no way to be certain of your judgment.

In order to protect yourself against irretrievable loss, you can either avoid stocks completely or you can diversify your holdings. Most investors, of course, follow the latter plan.

I recommend that you consider it, too. You probably insure your life, your house and car against the unforeseen. Diversification is no excuse — but is rather a form of insurance in its own right.

Frankly, I'm not excited over Meredith's prospects, and I don't regard the stock as attractive at this time. If you want to buy some shares, I think you would do well to limit the commitment to only a small part of your total capital.

Q) "I'm 67 and am living in Spain because it is much easier to get along here than in America. Most of my investments were with a friend who specialized in the stocks of new enterprises. Every single one of them failed, and my capital was sharply reduced. Any new investments I make must have appreciation possibilities since I expect to be around a long time. Would you please make some suggestions?" —A. B.

A) I"d be happy to. For new investments I suggest you consider Continental Insurance, Consumers Power, and Marshall Field — three sound, dividend-paying stocks with good appreciation potentials.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Hudson Men Pay $1,000 Fines for Deer Violation

Two Hudson men, accused of jacklighting deer paid fines totaling $1,000 Wednesday night to Taghkanic Justice of Peace John J. Reno, according to state police from the Claverack barracks.

Troopers M. Sanchez and D. Greeley said they were attracted by an automobile with blood stains on the bumper and trunk and halted the vehicle in the town of Taghkanic. They arrested Peter Mixa, 38, of 110 Union Street and Joseph Turek, 51, of 22 Mill Street, following an investigation.

The men were taken before Justice Reno and assessed $500 apiece in civil compromise arranged by Game Warden Larry Stevens.

Brutal Regimes, Long Struggles

JFK Going to Lands Hard For Americans to Imagine

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's goodwill trip to Colombia and Venezuela is a journey to lands hard for Americans to imagine.

Venezuela has had about two honest elections in its history and more than 20 constitutions. For the rest of the time this country of seven million people has lived under dicators, some of them savage.

Few But Beauts

Neighboring Colombia, with about 14 million people, has had more than 20 constitutions, more than 20 civil wars. The dictatorships were relatively few but some were beauts. For Colombians elections have real significance.

Right now both countries have fairly middle-road presidents: Romulo Betancourt in Venezuela and Alberto Lleras Camargo in Colombia.

Betancourt has been a punching bag for Castroites and Communists — both groups consider him their chief enemy in Latin America—and for extreme rightists who want the get-rich-days of dictatorship back.

One of Few Honest

Betancourt's election in 1958 was one of the two honest ones. The first was in 1947 when Romulo Gallegos was chosen president but lasted only 10 months. A military junta threw him out.

In those 11 years Venezuela had some of its worst dictatorship, most notoriously under the brutal Marcos Perez Jimenez whose graft-ridden regime loaded the jails with political prisoners.

The fact that President Eisenhower presented him with the Legion of Merit didn't sit well with Venezuelans who got so fed up that the various political parties joined forces with the army and navy to throw him out in 1958.

Betancourt is trying to cope with Venezuela's ancient problems of disease, starvation, poverty, ignorance, joblessness and lack of housing. In Venezuela there is tremendous concentration of land in the hands of a comparatively few families. A year ago Betancourt set forth on a big land reform program.

There the big industry is oil and the big oil companies are foreign. The anti-American forces accuse them of draining away Venezuela's wealth. The best-paid Venezuelan workers are in the oil fields. But there's a big gap between what they earn and what other workers get, when they can find a job.

Almost Endless Struggle

In Colombia there has been almost endless struggle between two main groups, Liberals and Conservatives, and two dominating points of view.

For most of its history there was little communication between the cities of Colombia. The country is broken up by mountains, plains and plateaus.

The result has been struggle between the Conservatives who wanted a strong central government and the Liberals demanding sovereign rights for the various Colombian states.

That's been one point of struggle. The second big one was between both groups over the power of the Catholic Church, with Conservatives insisting on traditional privileges for the clergy and the Liberals wanting complete separation of church and state.

Colombia's President Lleras was elected in 1957 when Liberals and Conservatives, perhaps to their own astonishment, got so fed up with the dictatorship of his predecessor that the were able to join forces to throw him out.

For years before Lleras took over, the struggle between Conservatives and Liberals —and sometimes guerrillas adopted both names—cost hundreds of thousands of lives.

Guerrillas Are Busy

Guerrillas are extremely busy killing now particularly on the highways and farms. A recent Associated Press story from Colombia described how the guerrillas stop a highway bus, force the passengers off, take their money and then chop their heads off.

The story said this kind of murder takes a toll of 100 lives a month.

Killed in Rail Mishap

CASTLETON, N.Y. (AP)—Lloyd LaRose, 31, of Rutland, Vt., was killed when he apparently leaned from a platform of a railroad station and was struck by a passing New York Central switch engine.

Police said the engine's hand rail struck LaRose in the head Thursday night. He had been visiting relatives in Schodack Landing.

Adventists Set Sabbath Services

Sabbath school of the Kingston Seventh-day Adventist Church will open on Saturday with a song service under the direction of Mrs. George Landstrom. Following the song service, opening exercises will be directed by Mrs. Carl Johnson, superintendent. Classes will then separate to study and discuss the lesson for the week entitled, The Prodigal and His Son. The children will meet with Mrs. Andrew Seaman and her assistants in the Sabbath school rooms.

Guest speaker for the 11:30 a. m. divine worship service will be the Rev. J. M. Bucy, publishing secretary for the Greater New York Conference.

Saturday night and each night throughout the next week, Ingathering Bands will leave from the church at 6:30 p. m.

The Dorcas Society will meet Wednesday from 2 to 4 p. m. Canned goods are being collected for baskets for the poor for Christmas. Those having items for the baskets, may place them in the receptacle in the vestibule of the church.

Why did a local business executive change back to OIL?

A.

Economy! — after one year of using a heating fuel, heralded as a "better fuel," I learned my lesson. I reconverted my home heating back to oil heat. In my business I constantly strive to buy well and conduct the company's operation on a sound, economical basis. Now, after learning the hard way, I have found it is possible to buy the best fuel for my home and still show large economies in my annual heating budget. I have tried gas. My sober conclusion is, that regardless of installation costs, lower operation costs will more than compensate for any difference. Oil is completely dependable. My oil supply is right in my own home and I enjoy the fact that I can purchase from competitive suppliers. If you are planning to install a new heating system in your home, look-to-oil, and let my lesson be yours. Oil is the only fuel that gives real luxury heat at a price you can afford.

Ulster Park Man Named to Farm CreditBankBoard

Two prominent northeast farmers, Chester E. Goodfield, Hardwick, Mass., and C. Chester DuMond Jr., Ulster Park, have been appointed to three year terms on the board of directors of the Farm Credit Banks of Springfield, beginning January 1.

Gordon Cameron, president of the Farm Credit Banks, said that these two places on the seven-man board are appointments by R. B. Tootell, governor of the Farm Credit Administration with the consent of the Federal Farm Credit Board. Five of the seven-man board are elected by the farmer cooperatives and associations that own the stock of the Federal Land Bank, Federal Intermediate Credit Bank and the Springfield Bank for Cooperatives.

The Farm Credit Banks of Springfield, part of a nationwide system, operate to provide a complete credit service to farmers and their cooperatives in New England, New York and New Jersey. Last year $164 million was loaned to Northeast farmers and their cooperatives. Loans outstanding as of June 30, 1961 amounted to $226 million.

DuMond, reappointed to his second term is active in Ulster County agricultural affairs, the National Grange and American Farm Bureau. He grows 50 acres of apples, some six acres of peaches and two acres of grapes.

Other members of the Farm Credit Board of Springfield are: J. Carleton Corwith, Water Mill, chairman; Harley D. Welch, Mapleton, vice chairman; Luther W. Jennejahn, Hilton, and J. Richards Nelson of Madison, Conn.

We The Women

Please, Ma'am, a Hairdo Becoming to All of Us

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Plea to America's First Lady:

Couldn't you please, ma'am, get a new hairdo? Not that the one you are wearing now isn't becoming. On you it looks good.

But on 99 out of every 100 girls and women in the country who are trying to wear it, too, just because you are setting the fashions these days, it looks simply awful.

But that's just part of the story. The worst part is that with your hairdo you can only wear one type of hat—the high pillbox.

On you, even that is becoming. But what it does to Miss and Mrs. America is a crying shame.

It makes most of them look like Mrs. Happy Hooligan—and yet it's hard to find a hat these days that isn't shaped like Happy Hooligan's tin can.

So even the women who have the good sense not to copy your hair style are wearing the kind of hat designed to go with it.

What we need, please ma'am, is for you to adopt a hair style that is more universally becoming and one that lends itself to a wide variety of hat styles—not just one.

It looks as though what you wear is going to be "what everyone is wearing." That's what comes of having a beauty in the White House.

And since that seems to be so—can't you make it a bit easier on the American woman?

Right now she looks pretty ridiculous with that bushy bob and that tall pillbox perched on the back of her head.

Of course, it's quite a responsibility — setting the styles for the country. But since you ARE setting them, couldn't you keep Mrs. America as well as Mrs. Kennedy in mind?

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Monique Van Vooren, a blonde Belgian bombshell who has done very nicely as a supperclub chanteuse and foil for some top comedians, is currently engaged in fighting that old demon, type-casting.

This is a complicated process, involving a determined effort to eliminate her French—or Belgian—accent and to find parts remote from characters which could also once upon a time, Fifi D'Orsay be played by, for example, the Gabor girls, Jayne Mansfield and,

"If you're identified with France," complained Miss Van Vooren "and have a pretty face, you are always in comedy, always the foil for a comedian. If you can lose the French accent, you can do almost anything."

At the moment, Miss Van Vooren's accent still strongly suggests the land of her nativity and with her pale hair and svelte figure she is far from inconspicuous. But on Sunday night, in NBC's "Show of the week" series, she will play a straight dramatic, non-comedy, non-singing role. She will in fact, play a spy of the Mata Hari type, in glasses and a dark wig, in a drama called "Trick or Treason."

Monique spent four bitter, hungry years as a child in Brussels when the Germans occupied Belgium during World War II, but knew little of the glamorous side of war beloved by TV script writers.

"We suffered a lot, and those of us who were growing up had no youth as you see it in this country now," she reflected. "Even to this day I find I cannot throw away a stale piece of bread."

Recommended weekend viewing: Tonight: "Straightaway," ABC, 7:30-8 Eastern Standard Time—Goria Swanson guest stars in the series; "The Peace Corps in Tanganyika," NBC, 9:30-10:30 —a special news report.

Sunday: "20th Century," CBS, 6-6:30—film biography on the late Wendell L. Willkie; "Meet the Press," NBC, 6-6:30 — George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, guest; Ed Sullivan Show, CBS,8-9 —Louis Armstrong and Duke Ellington perform together for the first time.

Story Rejected, Family Pickets Publishing Firm

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Curtis Publishing Co. wouldn't buy Allen Mayo's novel or short stories so he and his family picketed the firm.

Mayo, 45, of Sterling Valley, N. Y., near Oswego, told a reporter he was a free-lance writer.

"Have you sold your fiction to anybody," the reporter asked.

"No," said Mayo.

Mayo and his wife, Jane, 42, and five children carried signs. One said:

"Papa doesn't need a beard to write good prose."

Mayo said the Saturday Evening Post, a Curtis publication, had rejected a novel, which took him nine years to write, and several short stories.

He said he decided to picket when he was unable to talk with the magazine's editors Thursday.

Managing editor Robert L. Sherrod said the Post had rejected two offerings by Mayo. He said no sale resulted last August when Mayo had an hour-long interview with an editor.

Sherrod said few writers object quite "as actively" as Mayo when their offerings are rejected.

With Mayo and his wife were Raymond, 17; Rose Ann, 16; James, 13; Emerson, 7, and Michael, 1½.

Says Plan to Restore Railroad Is Not New

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Vermont Gov. F. Ray Keyser says a proposed solution by union leaders to restore the strike-bound Rutland Railway to operating status is composed of plans previously discarded by the line's management.

Proposals aimed at settling a prolonged strike of Rutland employes were offered to company officials this week, said Francis Esposito, chairman of one of the four operating brotherhoods involved.

Keyser told a news conference Thursday the proposals involve "a multitude of offers involving wages, hours and working conditions which the union has made both publicly and privately..."

Woman Killed in Crash

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Mr. Clara Johnston, 65, of Jamestown, N.Y., was killed yesterday in a two-car crash on U.S. Route 42, about eight miles west of nearby Florence.

State Police said the two cars collided at the crest of a hill. The other driver suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Firms Agree to Work On Vertical Landings

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) —Bell Aerosystems Co. has agreed to work with four foreign companies in a NATO competition to design a transport plane which can make vertical or short takeoffs and landings.

Bell said Thursday it will collaborate with De Havilland Aircraft of Canada, Hawker Sidelley Aviation of Great Britain, Avions Fairey of Belgium and Nord Aviatino of France.

Announcement of the winner of the competition is expected in the first half of next year.

Radiation Monitoring Station to Open Feb. 1

WINCHESTER, Mass. (AP)—A U.S. Public Health Service Station for the monitoring of fallout radiation affecting milk, air and water in the Northeast is expected to be in operation by Feb. 1.

Dr. Dade W. Moller, who will be director of the laboratory, said yesterday fallout radiation effects in New England, New York and New Jersey would be sampled.

Moller said that, by opening the lab Feb. 1, samplings could be made of any increased radiation brought to the northeast by spring rains.

To Become Republican On January First

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—P. E. Gismondi sought the Democratic mayoral nomination in the party primary last Sept. 7. Four months earlier, he had switched his affiliation to the Republican Party.

Gismondi, who received only 518 votes in the primary, filled out change-of-affiliation forms on May 5, the Board of Elections said Thursday. Under the law, the forms were locked up until at least a week after the November general election.

Gismondi officially becomes a Republican on Jan. 1, 1962.

Christmas Trees Indoors Require Plenty of Water

Give your Christmas tree the water treatment this year. Tests show that an average spruce tree in a room for 15 days at 70 degrees F. temperature will absorb 23.75 quarts of water through its stump.

Edward J. Duda, acting director of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, says water will keep a Christmas tree fresh, reduce needle drop and make it less a fire hazard.

Peel Back Bark

Before setting up the tree indoors in a water-holding container, peel back an inch or two of the bark of the stump. This will help the tree drink water.

Add water to the container daily. At the same time check the needles for dryout. A dried out tree becomes a fire danger. In 20 seconds an ignited 12-foot Christmas tree could become charred wood.

Make sure decorations are fireproof. Check last year's lights for frayed ends and faulty sockets. Use only appliances that have an official stamp of approval on them. Keep fluffy cotton and other inflammable objects away from a tree. And pull out the plug connecting the tree lights before you go out or to bed at night.

Outdoor Yule Trees

Outdoor evergreen trees can be safely decorated with Christmas lights if a few simple guidelines are followed to avoid needle scorch.

Roy C. Beckwith of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories says needles of yew, arborvitae, chamaecyparis and hemlock are sensitive to heat from bulbs. Pine, spruce and fir require the same precaution.

Bulbs of 15 wattage are sufficient. Never let the bulbs touch the needles. Hang sockets downward to prevent water and snow from collecting in them. Use rubber-jacketed or lacquered cord to connect the lights. Periodically check the position of the lights because winds may shift their position.

Mistletoe Legends

Mistletoe, Cupid's ally at Yuletide, is preeminently a plant pest. It grows on trees, drawing on food circulating in a tree's sap stream.

Before mistletoe gained a romantic tradition, according to the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, legends grew up about it. Long ago persons made charm bracelets of it to ward off evil spirits. In ancient Germany folks believed mistletoe would make ghosts appear.

Before that, others thought it was a tree whose timber was cut for the cross on which Christ was crucified. Since then it dwindled to its present low estate—a dwarf plant and parasite.

The British and native Indian armies originaally used the color khaki, which gets its name from the Urdu word "khak," or dust.

Highland Bank Will Pay Higher Interest

The First National Bank of Highland announces that it is one of the first commercial banks in the Hudson Valley to take advantage of the new ruling as set forth by the Federal Reserve Bank and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation allowing commercial banks to pay four per cent interest commencing January 1, 1962 for monies held on deposit for one year or more.

On December 4, 1959, the First National Bank of Highland requested permission from the Board of Governors to increase their interest on savings accounts. At that time, permission was not granted, although, the Federal Reserve Bank advised the Highland Bank that they were unable to grant permission at the time. Nevertheless, it was being kept under current consideration.

The Highland Bank was the first commercial bank in the Hudson Valley to increase their interest to 3 per cent in 1957 which was the last time that permission was granted to commercial banks to increase their interest.

Why We Say--

FIRE: Fresh from the fire is the true meaning of "brand new." "Brand" itself comes from the Anglo-Saxon word meaning fire. New metal products used to come from the forge bearing the maker's mark. After some use, the brand marks would begin to wear off, so the objects would no longer be "brand new."

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Captain A. S. Hickey, USN (ret.), sent me an interesting booklet titled "Research Report, Rankings of the States, 1961, National Education Assn."

What interested Captain Hickey, was the per cent of Selective Service registrants who failed the mental tests in 1951. The state of Iowa had the least, and New York had the most who could not pass the mental tests.

One cannot argue with cold statistics, only about them. For instance, in the percentage of population, 14 years old and older, unable to read and write in 1950, Iowa had the least and New York had a great deal more. The middle western states also seem to have a better attendance. We are 45th down on the list of 50 states, the same as Alaska, and there it must be awful cold mornings to get up and go to school. For school teachers' salaries, we are third highest on the list of all the states. California pays the best salary.

We are now in the midst of building more schools and of course the last half of the school taxes are due Dec. 15, so folks talk about it. The western states seem to pay less per student, yet have more high school graduates for their money. There is some 50 pages in this booklet giving a run down on all the 50 states, comparing spending and benefits.

The way it looks to me, this section is going to have an elegant set of school buildings, such as the most prosperous community would be proud of. When I enter these new buildings even now, I feel as though I am in Grand Central Station and wish they had more signs and perhaps red and green lights to tell me where to go. You can get lost.

The other evening, I visited my old Kingston High School, and went over to the Manual Training Building. It seems to me the buildings have grown in all directions. No doubt there are small colleges, some perhaps with high standards which do not have the facilities, equipment and fine buildings we already have.

The custodians in the high school do a wonderful job. I was there in the evening and one could hardly believe that during the day, thousands of young children have spent the day there. There was not a mark on the walls, nor a piece of scrap paper anywhere, not even fingerprints on the glass. The custodians are to be congratulated for taking care of the buildings for the taxpayers.

I understand the homemaking department is really magnificent. I did not have a chance to see it. Of course education does not only consist of brick, cement, metal and glass. The talents of the teachers is important, and many are truly dedicated and sincere teachers.

I see the school buses when they wind their way out of the buildings with its mass evacuation of students. It certainly is a far cry from when I use to go to No. 13 School in Port Ewen, and then later to No. 3 in Kingston, on foot. I managed. I remember when walking to school and the first bell could be heard and you had to put on speed. You acquired friends on the way to school for whom you waited or called. Some called for you.

Today it is big school buses and big gymnasiums. I wonder if youngsters of today have penny candy stores, like Mr. Crook's in Port Ewen, or Abraham's on Chambers Street we went to. We small youngsters used to stand on a box so we could see the candy case. There were toys for a penny, too. We seldom had a nickle. You could get an ice cream cone for two cents, two flavors, in my time.

Washington Monument

Construction of the Washington Monument in the U. S. capital began in 1848, but the 81,-120-ton obelisk was not completed until 1884. Since the first measurements were taken, the monument has settled some six inches. More than 32 million visitors have ridden to the top in its elevator or climbed its 898 metal steps.

NEW YORK (AP)—Santa Claus will stuff the nation's collective stocking as never before.

This is said without losing sight for a moment of the grim exceptions—the hard core of unemployed whose outlook is no whit the cheerier for the season; the areas here and there that have been hard hit by drought or storms or disappearing industries; the companies and whole industries whose problems seem to mount.

Prosperous Yule

But for the majority, and averaging out the statistics for the nation as a whole, it's a most prosperous Christmas.

Retail trade is setting a record with the last-minute rush still to come.

Industrial production, as a whole, is at the highest point in our history. So is the average takehome pay of the factory workers.

Many stocks are at peak prices, with the popular stock indexes at or near a record.

Bonuses for Many

Total dividend payments are setting a record this year, with many companies declaring specials for the yearend. Employe Christmas bonuses are being announced by many firms.

Employment has never been higher at this time of year. Even unemployment, stubborn as it is, represents a lower percentage of the total labor force than it did earlier this year. And in recent weeks factories have recalled many laid-off workers.

And the flood of predictions for 1962—for what they're worth—concentrate on even better times ahead. They vary largely in just how much better the individual soothsayer thinks times will be.

"We have definitely passed from the recovery stage to the expansion stage," says William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. He bases that on the November perfomance of the board's industrial production index. Its latest month's spurt took it to a record.

Shoppers' Rush Pleasing

As one result, corporate profits for the final months of the year are expected to advance sharply from the totals announced for the July-September quarter. Many industries expect profits to range well above the returns in the final quarter of 1960.

The rush of Christmas shoppers is pleasing not only the merchants but also the manufacturers of consumer goods. They are counting on store buyers being in a spending mood both for replacement and new goods.

Happiest of all could be the auto makers and dealers. The spurt of new car sales is causing the makers to set high production schedules for the period just ahead. Some are talking confidently of another seven-million car year, comparable to the record 1955 volume.

And being car-minded, Americans in general tend to absorb this confidence. When the auto industry is booming, the belief is, every other one should soon be, too.

Child Incubator

First incubator for rearing children too weak to survive, or prematurely born, was constructed in 1880 and used in a maternity hospital of Paris, France.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Sometime, years from now, my daughter will ask me around Christmas what I appreciate most.

If I am honest, I am sure I will have to tell her that the sweetest second of my existence was the one after I was sure that a man didn't shoot me throught the head.

Amid Pleas for Help

At the close of the second World War, another correspondent and I were poised at Pilsen, Czechoslovakia. It was about 55 miles from Prague, and the Czechs sent men through the lines pleading for the Americans to come and free their capital.

This could not be done. A political line had been drawn.

I asked the commander of our area whether we correspondents might move. He implied he had more important concerns at the moment, and shrugged us free to seek our own dismay.

The Germans had, we hoped, been given an order not to fire toward the West that day.

Cy Peterman of the Philadelphia Inquirer and I took a jeep and drove through 55 miles of fully armed Germans retreating to the West to reach Prague.

Area in Tumult

It was the very end of the war and the area was in tumult. The citizens of Prague greeted us as if we were the vanguard of the American army sent to free them, as their emissaries had asked. We were not. We were only two U.S. correspondents in a jeep.

Shortly after Cy and I entered Prague, a Russian motorcycle came in from the West. Then, Russian after Russian came in and the individuals became a series of waves.

Peterman speaks broken German and spoke it. I am afraid that I looked like a German sergeant in search of command. The brave Czech people knew we were Americans, but the incoming Russians didn't.

Czechs Stopped Reds

Twice the Russians started to shoot us. The Czechs intervened. I figured we might run out of local help and said, "Cy, I think we'd better get out of here—our Allies don't seem to know us too well."

He agreed and we left—with the help of the exhilarated Czech patriots.

We caught up with the retreating fully armed German SS columns and drove through and past them back to the area of Pilsen again.

As we neared Pilsen the patrols of the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division were disarming the arriving Germans. They pointed at the roadside ditch, and the Nazis threw down their arms.

Cy wanted a souvenir and slowed our jeep as a German truck loaded with Nazi troops paused at a throwaway point. We got down into the ditch to pick up some souvenir guns.

Luck Almost Runs Out

I looked up and there was a German with a pistol pointed at the middle of my forehead. I thought, "Well, this is just my luck. After all these years, at the last moment I have to meet a surrendering German who has enough sense of humor to pull a final trigger."

There was only one thing to do. I gestured imperatively at the ditch.

He hesitated and then his gun tumbled down into the ditch. I reached down and seized it, and got out of there.

But after all these years I am grateful at Christmas—and other times—to that unknown German soldier who could have pulled that trigger, considered it—and didn't.

Immunization Protects Men Of Armed Forces

Soldiers work, eat and live together and are highly susceptible to contagious diseases. To combat the hazard of infection in large groups the Army is forced to give its men and women in uniform immunization against especially contagious diseases.

The Army Medical Corps takes every precaution to raise the degree of each individual's resistance to disease. By doing so it protects military personnel as well as surrounding communities from mass epidemics and the im portation of diseases foreign to the United States.

To achieve this end the Army's compulsory immunization regulation requires that each recruit be immediately vaccinated against smallpox and then be given a series of shots against typhoid fever, tetanus, polio and influenza.

The need for it is obvious when one considers the mission of the soldier which is to fight anywhere and under any conditions on terrain ranging from the frozen tundras to the swamps and jungles.

It is not only the Army that worries about its personnel. To prevent the spread of diseases worldwide which are indigenous to particular lands, there is an international sanitary regulation, a treaty among 67 nations including the United States, under the World Health Organization which requires the immunization of travelers between the signatory nations. This also requires the immunization of United States military personnel before they can be stationed in these countries.

It is under this treaty that any American applying for a passport to visit a foreign land must first have a recent smallpox vaccination and then, in particular cases, shots for diseases common to that country such as yellow fever shots for those going to Panama and shots against cholera for travelers to Korea.

Crossings Will Go

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission said today it had approved contract plans and specifications for the elimination of two grade crossings in Canastota.

The commission said bids would be sought by the State Department of Public Works on the construction of two concrete and steel bridges at an estimated cost of $2,051,000.

The bridges would carry New York Central railroad tracks over South Peterboro and South Main Streets in the Madison Count community.

Early Printing

Wood-block printing was invented by the Chinese perhaps as early as A.D. 770. The King of Korea established a foundry for the casting of movable type about 1403 but Koreans probably learned the process from the Chinese.

Recent Call-up Increases Need For Army Nurses

The Army urgently needs 1,000 nurses and has appealed to the Army Reserves to inform registered nurses, male or female, of the opportunities for service, advancement, added experience and training open to them as members of a Reserve unit.

Recently a poster was distributed throughout New York, New Jersey and the New England states which asks 'If They Must Go . . . Nurses, Can You Remain Behind?" With approximately 150,000 National Guardsmen and Army Reservists called to active duty with the U. S. Army recently, the need for skilled medical personnel is only too obvious.

Some 500 physicians, 150 dentists and 70 veterinarians are being drafted in support of the nation's build-up of the military forces. Greatly needed nurses cannot be drafted. Some, already members of a Reserve unit, have answered the call, but in many cass of Army Reserve medical units called to active duty the nurse positions have been vacant and have had to be filled from the control group of nurses not assigned to units. A shortage of nurses also exists in civilian hospitals, thus making it even more difficult to recruit for Reserve units.

Registered nurses with operating room, psychiatric or emergency nursing experience are particularly needed for the Field and Mobile Army Surgical Hospital Reserve units. Further information about the Army Reserve nurse program may be secured from Chief Nurse, First U. S. Army, Governors Island, New York 4.

Again we're first with the car that sets trends in looks & luxury

Right from the day of Galaxie's introduction—back in 1959—it upset the apple cart of the higher-priced cars.

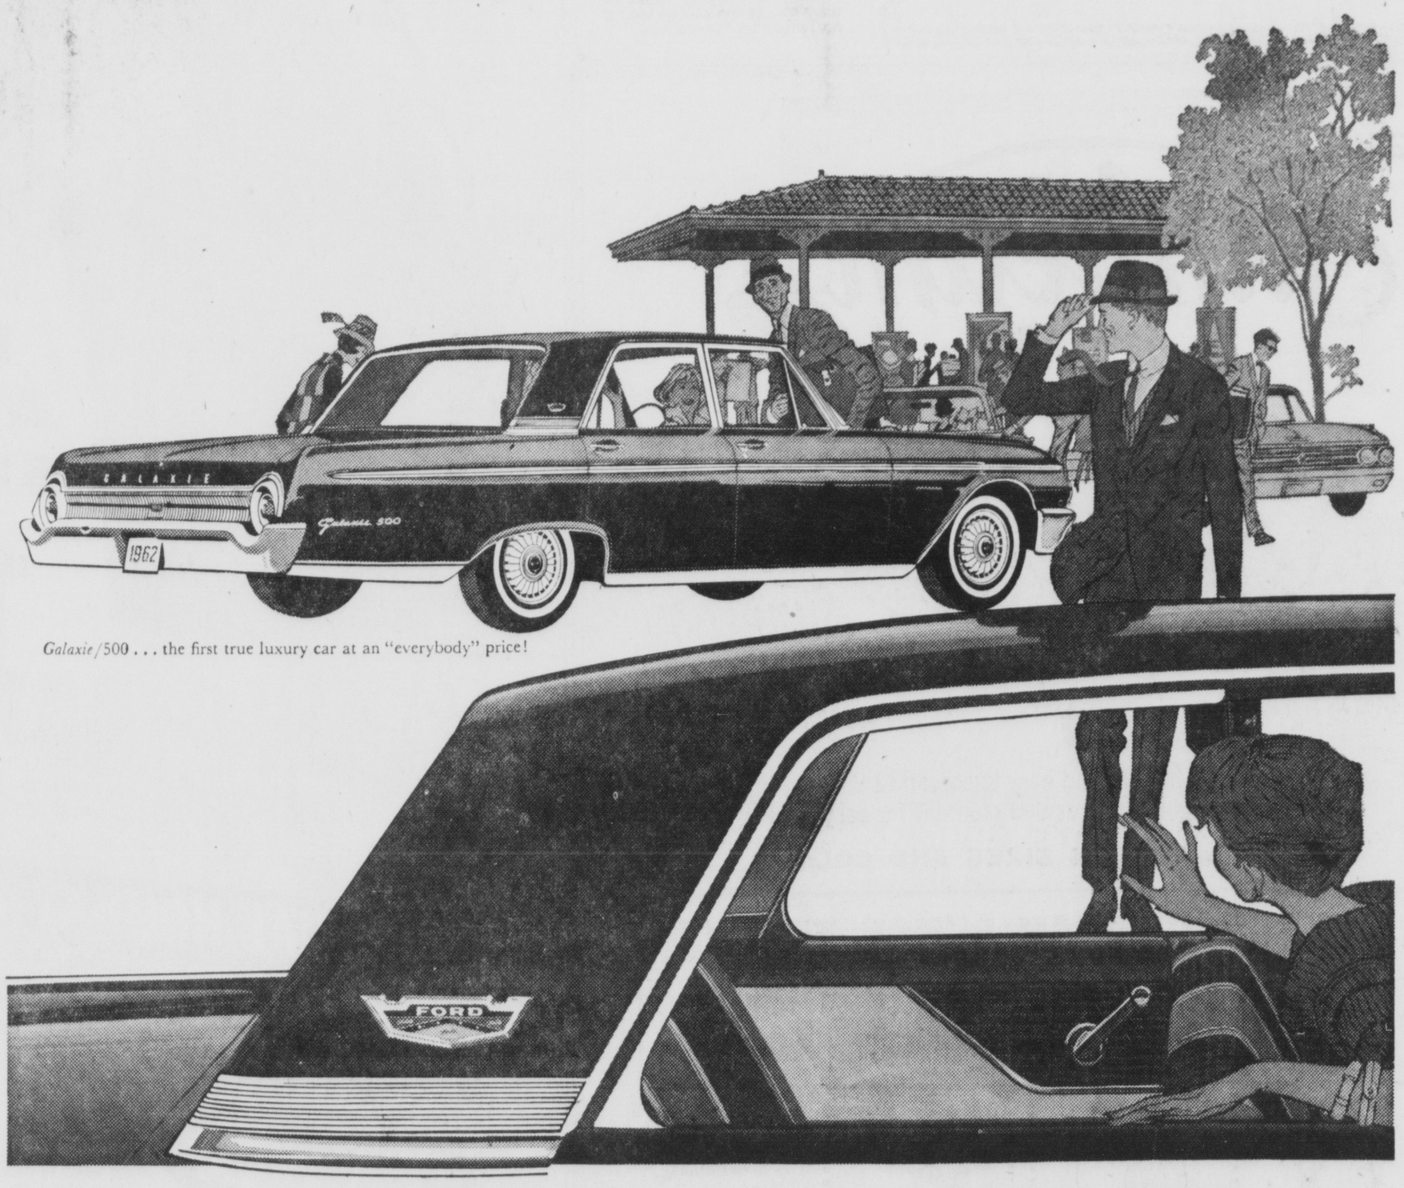
Its crisp, clean Thunderbird-inspired roofline was such an immediate success that today you see it reflected even in the styling of higher-priced cars.

Galaxie's popular appeal had the solid foundation of trend-setting style . . . Thunderbird V-8* power . . . fabulous fittings and fabrics.

Then last year, Galaxie started another new trend—low-maintenance features. Now for 1962, Galaxie introduces twice-a-year maintenance. Routine service is reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, only twice a year or every 6,000 miles on the rest.

In every way . . . for 1962 . . . Galaxie bridges the gap between the popular-price field and the high-price field. Galaxie brings you a new kind of quality construction . . . a new smoothness of ride . . . a new quietness in its travel . . . every essential feature of far more costly luxury cars!

Come see for yourself. Say "hello" to the new Galaxie/500—and you'll say "good-bye" to the higher-priced cars of the past. *Optional at extra cost



Galaxie/500 . . . the first true luxury car at an "everybody" price!

Cuban Fiasco Real Bitter Blow

Did JFK Underestimate World Difficulties During Campaign?

EDITOR'S NOTE—Discussing world problems is one thing, trying to solve them another. John F. Kennedy, after making the transition from candidate to President, was not the first to discover this truism—though his lesson may have been unusually dramatic. This is the last of five articles.

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — During his presidential campaign John F. Kennedy often pointed out that, while the Republicans were in control of the White House, the iron curtain had been rolled down in once friendly Cuba.

"If you can't stand up to Castro," Kennedy said in Johnstown, Pa., "how can you be expected to stand up to Khrushchev?"

Did He Understand

This is repeated not as a reproof—if presidents were judged by their campaign talk they would all be failures—but as an illustration of how far Kennedy may have underestimated the difficulties in modern international relations.

Not that Kennedy, even when the campaign was hottest, ever took these problems lightly. But example after example can be cited to show that he believed that, with proper diligence, answers favorable to the United States could be found.

More Examples

Let's look at just a couple more from 1960.

"I am not satisfied with the drift of events today," he said in Granite City, Ill. "I am not satisfied to be reading every day that Khrushchev and Castro and the Chinese are on the upward march. I want to read that the United States is once again asserting its leadership as a great and free country, which offers a ray of hope to all those who wish to follow our example."

Or in Fargo, N.D.:

"Can you tell me anywhere in a crisis, from Cuba to the Congo to Laos, where the United States has been ahead of events?"

For a man who had hoped to control the tides of history, the Cuban fiasco must have been as bitter a blow as any president ever received in what, theoretically, was a time of peace.

It shocked and dismayed his friends.

Made Ammunition

It loaded his enemies with ready-made ammunition, although a few rushed out to shoot during such a critical time for the nation. One prominent Republican, who never had liked the Kennedy picture of infallibility, commented recently that "Cuba was a godsend."

Those who believed that U.S. intervention in Cuba was immoral blamed Kennedy for being mixed up in it.

Those who wanted action blamed him for not following up with the strength that would have made the invasion successful.

Communists—and many who weren't Communists at all—claimed this as fresh evidence that Uncle Sam is an imperialist meddler, never to be trusted.

Out of this, one haunting question continues to arise: Hit with such a disaster so early in his term, has Kennedy been more timid, afraid of even mild risks, than he might otherwise have been?

A man close to Kennedy insists the answer is no, but that he has made sure it never happens again.

Those around Kennedy maintain this nation is doing much better internationally than is generally thought.

Their Views

They make these points:

If Laos and the Congo remains as dangerous as ever, at least the Communists haven't taken over.

If Castro is still boss of Cuba, a more active interest in South America has helped to stem the spread of Castroism there.

If Berlin remains unsolved, intricate probings for solutions continue. Or, in the words of a White House assistant: "We're a long way from out of the woods, but at least we have some basis for negotiations."

If the international situation remains critical, the military has been strengthened—two-thirds of all money added to the budget has been in this area—and a start has been made on civil defense.

Yet even in its most favorable light, all this isn't seizing the initiative. And nearly all these explanations could have been made a year ago as well as now.

As Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, said in the Senate on Sept. 21: "What has happened that permits Khrushchev to act as he does? Let me repeat: What has happened that lets him do it?

There's No Change

"Understand me, please. Not what he is doing. We know that only too well. Our national honor bears the scars and stains of what he is doing now and has done in the past. And he has warned us, arrogantly, of what he intends to do in the future, which is even worse. These things we know.

"But today—now—why does he feel free to do as he does? Why?"

Mrs. Smith's questions sound like a paraphrase of Kennedy's campaign talk. That they still are asked a year after the campaign shows how hard it is to find acceptable answers.

Perhaps none of us fully realizes how radically the presidency has changed.

William McKinley once commented to a visitor that, since he hadn't looked at the map, he had no idea where Manila was.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, during a war truly worldwide, had few thoughts about most of Africa.

Even Dwight D. Eisenhower took office in the pre-space age.

New World to Them

All our recent presidents have had to operate in a new, exciting and often bewildering world.

It has turned into a world of megatons, of moon shots, of new nations popping into existence so rapidl professional geographers must be in difficulties.

Whereas foreign affairs rapidly took little of a president's time, they now threaten to consume all of it.

Whenever administration officials are asked why Kennedy has not pushed harder for his domestic program, or why he has not explained his—and the nation's—problems to the people more fully the answer always is: The President is too tied up with foreign affairs.

There's no way to determine whether Kennedy really is this occupied, or whether this reply is designed to cut off further questioning. After all, Eisenhower had heavy foreign burdens, too.

But no one can doubt the enormity or the complexity of the problems created by an implacable foe and by Allies of widely differing aims and hopes.

On his recent trip through the West Kennedy tried to explain some of his difficulties in foreign affairs.

Not Easy to Solve

"We must face problems," he said in Seattle, "which do not lend themselves to easy, quick or permanent solutions.

"And we must face the fact that the United States is neither omnipotent nor omniscient, that we cannot always impose our will on the other 94 per cent of mankind, that we cannot right every wrong or reverse each adversity, and that therefore there cannot be an American solution for every world problem."

This is a far different tone than he used while campaigning in Johnstown or Granite City or Fargo.

But responsibility is often humbling.

And to close this evaluation of the President let's turn to a top Republican, harshly critical in other areas, who said: "In times of crisis, you're first concerned about your family, your own existence. He is the President of us all, and his success is your success. You have got to wish him well."

First Ruff Counted Most

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the most used bridge cliches is "Don't sent a boy on a man's errand!"

This hand from the Nail- Hathorn book shows how failure to observe this principle cost South a vulnerable slam.

The hand looked uncomplicated. South won the opening heart lead in dummy and noted that East dropped the three spot. He led a heart to his ace and when East played the five South, cheerfully led a third heart and ruffed with dummy's ten of spades.

The boy failed to do the job. East overruffed with the jack and led a trump. South floundered around and played out his cards to the bitter end, but wound up losing the last trick.

Apart from East's deliberate failure to echo to show a doubleton heart, there was no reason at all for South to lose the hand.

He should simply have used his man for the errant and ruffed the third heart with the ace.

Then he could return to his hand and ruff the fourth heart with the ten. East could overruff or not as he wished, but South would have been home with game, slam and rubber.

Health Club on Upswing at YMCA

The Health Club section of the Kingston YMCA is growing larger each week due to many innovations, Physical Director Steve Orozco has announced.

Adapting a course in Physical fitness to meet the needs of the men of this area has been the prime motivating fact or behind the growth of the group. The exercises are designed to improve daily living and to strengthen areas of the body, such as stomach, arms, chest, shoulders, and legs, which are constantly used but very often neglected. Men in the class are advised to progress at their own rate but are encouraged to constantly strive for the maximum limit for the evening.

Classes meet every Monday and Thursday from 7-10 p. m. following the one half hour exercise period the men form volleyball teams and play at this activity for approximately one hour. An invigorating steam bath and refreshing swim usually concludes the activities for the evening. A volleyball team is being formed to participate in Inter-YMCA Competition with the Middletown and Newburgh's YMCA's Health group.

Some of the men actively engaged in the Monday and Thursday activities are: Willis Locke, Ernest Lombardi, Joseph Klonowski, Robert Hillis, William Bovee, John Lupton, Robert Jenkins, Michael Edwards, James Volker, Richard Little Harry Mahood, Rev. Willis Scott, George Uhl, Richard Poole, Francis Vogt, Richard Ryan, Carl Esposito, John Purvis, and Gus Cunevales.

Any men interested in joining these classes, or in obtaining additional information, contact Steve Orozco at the local YMCA.

In effect, leaves are the lungs of a tree. The underside of each leaf is pitted with thousands of porelike stomata through which the leaf inhales and exhales oxygen and carbon dioxide.

Two Painters Killed As Scaffold Collapses

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — Two workmen were killed and a third was injured in the collapse of scaffolding at the Alcoa aluminum plant where they were painting the ceiling of a building.

Peter Bero, 56, of Hogansburg, and Albert J. Leafe of Massena, died after falling 40 feet Thursday to a concrete floor.

Calvin B. Harvey of Massena was reported in serious condition in a hospital.

Mother, Son Killed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Marian Ponlman, 36, of Hamburg, and her son, Daniel, 4, were killed Thursday in a collision between their car and a truck on the State Thruway near suburban Cheektowaga.

Retiring From Hercules

WILMINGTON, Del. — J. Joseph Kelleher Sr., sales manager, Explosive Department, Hercules Powder Company, is retiring after 40 years of service in the explosive business. His retirement is effective December 31. Through his close association with leaders of America's mining and construction companies, Kelleher was probably the best known representative of explosives manufacturers in the United States. Kelleher joined Hercules in 1929 and has served in the Explosives Department throughout his entire career with the company. Prior to joining Hercules he was employed by Du Pont and the Peerless Explosives Company.

Hollywood News and Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Note from the boss: "Nostalgic piece of footprints at Grauman's? N. Wood 138th in 34 years. When do they remove the blocks? On death? Any footprinters still around but non-working, whose blocks have been consigned to the graveyard of Grauman's blocks?"

Note to boss: Went to Grauman's Chinese Theater; You'll note it confirmed on my expense account. No gawkers around, so I had the blocks all to myself and the doorman.

In to Stay

All 138 blocks present and accounted for, including damp cement with petite paws of Natalie Wood. Bum steer on block graveyard. Blocks may be dug up and moved, but never tossed out. Once you're in cement at Grauman's, you're in to stay.

Nostalgia everywhere you step. Oldtimers get tramped on the most. These names in front of the theater entrance: Bebe Daniels, Marion Davies, Mary Pickford, Norma and Constance Talmadge. Most of the early signers wrote messages to Sid Grauman, who built the gawdy house (and later lost it).

Outlasts Marriages

Observation: Cement lasts longer than Hollywood marriages. Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor share a block dated 1941. Dick Powell and Joan Blondell are side-by-side in cement though not in life. They co-autographed in 1937.

Who is Oskar Werner? A good question. He's a German actor who appeared in "The Big Life". Therein lies the failing of the footprints. Too often they were used merely to publicize a current movie, rather than to reward an enduring star.

Most of the kids made it: Shirley Temple, Jane Withers, Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Cooper, Deanna Durbin, Judy Garland, Margaret O'Brien, Donald O'Connor, Mickey Rooney. Plus a lot of grown-up greats: Gable, Bogart, MacDonald and Eddy, Astaire, Cooper, Chevalier, Crosby, De-Havilland, Davis, Crawford, Garson, Grant, Dressler, Beery, Harlow, Fonda, March, Skelton, Stewart, Taylor (Bob and Liz), Williams, Turner, Wayne, Hudson, right down to young Miss Natalie Wood.

But no Charlie Chaplin, Mack Sennett, Spencer Tracy, Errol Flynn, Marlon Brando, Claudette Colbert, James Cagney, Ingrid Bergman, Frank Sinatra, Grace Kelly, Ronald Colman or William Holden. Nor Rin-Tin-Tin.

Bank Official Retires After 40 Years Service

William Ziegler, executive vice-president and cashier of the Saugerties National Bank and Trust Company, will retire on January 1 from the bank he has been associated with for the past 40 years.

He is presently on vacation for three weeks prior to his retirement date, and his assistant, John F. Carnright, has assumed the position of executive vice president until the annual meeting of the board of directors Jan. 9. A successor to the position will be named at that time.

Mr. Ziegler is an active leader in the community, having served as commander of Lamouree-Hackett Post 72, American Legion, master of Ulster Lodge 193, F & AM, member of the board of education for several years and also as president of the board. He was chairman of the 1961 Saugerties Community Chest drive which exceeded the quota in its first fund raising venture in the township. Mr. Ziegler has also served as chairman of Group 6, New York State Bankers' Association and president of its Safe Deposit Section.

Mr. Carnright has been in the employ of the Saugerties bank since 1942.

Christmas Events Are Scheduled at Church

The Rev. Frederick J. Imhoff of the First Congregational Church has invited the young people of the church to assist in setting up and trimming the Christmas tree Saturday afternoon, 1 p. m.

There will be no Sunday school Dec. 24, but all children are expected to attend the morning worship service at 11 a. m. with their parents.

A family dinner will be served in the Sunday school room following the service at 12:15 p. m. A Christmas program and presentation of gifts will follow.

Youth Council Sets Teenager Activities

The Saugerties Youth Council held a brief meeting in the village clerk's room Wednesday night with the main discussion centering around the Saturday night basketball games and record hops which are sponsored weekly by the council, at the Municipal Auditorium.

All local teenagers may attend these sessions which begin at 6:35 p. m. with a Youth Council sponsored league basketball game. There have been two games played and there will be one each Saturday night for the next 15 weeks. Dancing follows, some with music by the Corvettes, a local musical group, and others by the use of the new hi-fi set donated to the council by the IBM Club.

The teenagers are well supervised by council members and parents, and no one from out of the area is admitted.

Vernon Joe Benjamin of the Youth Council, said today that the skating rink on the Cantine Field across from the Main Street School will be flooded as soon as weather permits. Attending the meeting in addition to Benjamin were Mrs. Jed Bond, Charles Mullaney and John Mullaney.

Glasco Festivities

Santa Claus will be at the Glasco Firehouse Sunday 2 p. m. to welcome all the children of the district and give them Christmas candy. The Ladies Auxiliary of the fire company will cooperate with the firemen in the annual party by serving refreshments.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON REVIEWS 1961

BABSON PARK, Mass., Dec. 15—In any review of this sort, I must mention the Federal Reserve Index of Industrial Production. This index averaged 108 for 1960, and according to my estimate 1961 should average higher, — around 109. This barometer measures only physical volume of production. The government issues another figure which is a measure of dollar values and includes services and miscellaneous businesses as well as factory output. This figure, the Gross National Product, averaged $504 billion in 1960, and I estimate it will average around $522 billion for 1961.

Personal Income

Notwithstanding the recession which extended into early 1961, personal income not only held up very well this year, but advanced above 1960. This figure concerns every reader of this column, and recognizes what was lost by the automobile workers and others affected by strikes. The more strikes, the less personal income.

Employment

Beginning in February of 1961, employment rose steadily, except for the auto strike period. With gradually rising employment and wages, 1961 will wind up with a good record for 1962 to shoot at. We hope this will mean an increase in advertising, which should benefit newspapers as well as retailers.

Retail Trade

Retail trade has been fairly good during 1961, even though sales did not rise commensurate with the climb in personal income. What housewives did not spend they used to build up savings accounts or reduce installment loans. Therefore, consumers should enter 1962 with a good foundation.

New Building

New building increased through most of the first half of 1961, but lost steam later in the year. This lack of follow-up strength was due to increasing vacancies of houses for rent and sale, plus the fundamental downward trend in the cycle of family formation. Unlike food or gasoline, new houses are not consumed; hence they accumulate in case of overbuilding.

Commodity Market

The Bureau of Labor's Wholesale Price Index has been narrowly irregular all during 1961. Prices for agricultural and primary commodities have moved only moderately upward. Hence, farmers and producers of raw materials have not fared so well, profitwise, in 1961 as have manufacturers. A stronger upturn in commodity prices must occur in 1962, if the business uptrend is to be extended.

Stock Market

As we have heretofore explained, there are three Dow-Jones Averages. The first, which most people watch, is the Industrial Stock Average. This started 1961 at 610, its low for the year, and at this writing is around 730. The second D-J Average is that of railroad stocks. This Rail Average was indecisive until the closing months of the year when it worked moderately higher. There are comparatively fewer shares of railroad stocks in this Average and comparatively fewer shares of stock outstanding. Hence, manipulators have a better chance of playing their game with the rail stocks. This Average opened 1961 at 131 and at this writing is 147. The third of the Dow-Jones Averages is the Utility Average; this has gone up almost steadily.

Government Spending

Unfortunately, all of these seven aspects of the economy are very dependent upon government spending. This has been primarily for defense, and it seems indirectly to affect every reader of this column. Government spending for goods and services should average around $109 billion for 1961, which exceeds that of World War I, World War II, or the Korean War. I doubt if any reader of this column will ever witness total disarmament; but I do believe that there will be some international foolproof agreement against the use of nuclear weapons. This could cause a sudden decline in the income of manufacturers, retailers, employes, and of almost every reader of this column.

Wallkill

Girls Scout Notes

The theme of Girl Scouting for the current year is community service, and in Wallkill the Brownies and Girl Scouts have been busy planning and participating various projects for several community organizations.

Brownie Troop 78 planted tulip bulbs around the monument in the Library Park during the past month. Caring for the bulbs and watching them grow will be a year-round project for the Brownies. The bulbs were donated by Howell's Fuel and Lumber Company. The troop is planning a Christmas program for their mothers later this month. Mrs. Lee Totman is troop leader.

Brownie Troop 100 under supervision of Mrs. Everett Poole, children's rehabilitation center at West Haverstraw. They also collected 22 children's books to donate to the Wallkill Library. The troop planted tulip bulbs around the town hall building and the library. These, too, were donated by Howell Fuel & Lumber.

Troop 41, Intermediate Girl Scouts was organized in October under the leadership of Mrs. John Gariner and Alice Sloan. The troop is currently working on tenderfoot rank requirements. Troop consultant Mrs. Herbert DuBois attended a recent meeting to demonstrate the use and care of the jackknife and the use of the compass. The troop also took a nature walk and practiced laying trail signs. During November the leaders demonstrated the proper way to perform the flag ceremony.

Through the coming year Scouts will decorate the children's corner of the Wallkill Library with posters and displays to participate in their community service projects for the year.

Wallkill Girl Scout Troop 42 under the leadership of Mrs. Patricia Auchmoody and Mrs. H. Stickney will decorate a Christmas tree in the reference room of the Wallkill Public Library.

Several girls from this troop also participated in the carol singing of the group at the annual Christmas party and program of the Wallkill Chamber held last week, as part of their community service.

List Activities Of New Paltz Faculty Members

Dr. Melvin Goldstein, assistant professor of English at the State University College, New Paltz, will be the keynote speaker at the regional conference of Jewish youths to be held at the Orthodox Synagogue in Ellenville today. His topic will be "Jewish Learning and Life Experiences."

Dr. Edmund B. Feldman, chairman of the Art Division, State University College, New Paltz, spoke to Dutchess County Art Teachers Association Wednesday at Arlington High School on the subject, "The Image of the Art Educator." Program chairman for the meeting was Albert Anderson, a graduate of New Paltz, who is now teaching art in the Poughkeepsie school system.

Dr. William J. Hagney, professor of education at New Paltz, was one of the featured speakers Monday at the 77th annual convention of the New York State Association of Secondary School Administrators which is being held this week in Syracuse. His topic was, "The Law and Today's Schools."

Saved Show

Vienna's Spanish Riding School, world's foremost equestrian academy, might have disappeared forever in World War II's rubble had it not been for Gen. George S. Patton Jr., who enabled the school's director to round up and reorganize his scattered troupe. The breeding herd was rescued from Czechoslovakia.

Musical Society Has Christmas Program, Social

The Musical Society met at the home of Mrs. Amos Newcombe on Tuesday, Dec. 12. Mrs. Willard Burke and Mrs. DeWeese DeWitt arranged the program.

After a short business meeting, traditional Christmas carols were sung by the group with Mrs. Raymond Rignall playing bells. Mrs. DeWitt gave the narration of the Christmas Story which was followed by the singing of the Cantata by Matthews.

The choral group consisted of the following members: the Mmes. Clarence Beehler, Edward Flick, Bernard Forst, Harold Francis, Ralph Harper, John Mac Kinnon, Peter Palen, William Rylance, Albert Sonnenberg, LeRoy Vogt, Clarence Wolfersteig and William Wood.

Assisting the choral group were Clarence Beehler and Henry Peyer. Mrs. David Smith supplied the violin obligatos and Miss Edna Merrihew accompanied the Cantata. Mrs. Willard Burke directed.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Edward Flick, Mrs. John Snyder, and Mrs. Lloyd Le Fever.

Completes Training

Marine Pvt. Peter J. Stein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Stein of Stone Ridge, completed recruit training recently at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C.

The 12-week training program includes drill, bayonet training, physical conditioning, parades and ceremones and other military subjects, including the M-1 rifle and other basic marine infantry weapons.

Of Many Things

Christmas Through the Years

Christmas has had some hard times over the centuries, but fortunately those who opposed it didn't really stop anyone from celebrating.

Some American colonists, only a few hundred years ago, did not observe the celebration. Across the Atlantic, a leading English Puritan compared Christmas with pagan Roman revelries.

Puritan settlers in New England termed Christmas observances "an abomination," and said they were "wanton Bacchanalian feasts," according to Mrs. Jeannette Lee, a petite brunette designer and artist.

"Christmas entertaining, although an idea centuries old, is still one of the fondest activities of the Yuletide," says Mrs. Lee

As an example of opposition, she said the General Court of Massachusetts in 1658 enacted a law to punish those who "kept Christmas."

". . . Anybody who is found observing, by abstinence from labor, feasting, or any other way, any such days as Christmas day, shall pay for each such offense five shillings," the Massachusetts law said.

An English Puritan pamphleteer, William Prynne (1600-1669), compared Christmas with pagan Roman revelries. Wrote Prynne: "If we compare our Bacchanalian Christmases and New Years Tides with these Saturnalia and Feasts of Janus, we shall finde such near affinitye betweene them both in regard of time (both of them being spent in revelling, epicurisme, wantonese, idleneese, dancing, drinking, Stage-plaies, Masques and carnall Pompe and Jollity), that wee must needes conclude the one to be but the very ape or issue of the other."

Even before our modern Yuletide festival, the style of which evolved in the past 200 years, it was a common practice in England and throughout much of Europe to have festive gatherings at Christmastime.

People in the north of England gathered 'round the Wassail (derived from warm ale) bowl for dancing, feasting and merriment. The Christmas pudding, boar's head and mince pie were the menu of the day.

These foods have largely given way to turkey and cranberries at Christmas, and homes and holiday tables are more beautifully decorated for the season than ever before, Mrs. Lee said.

One reason is because the traditional symbols of Christmas—Santa Claus, snowmen, holly, poinsettias, mistletoe, nativity scenes and others—provide motifs that are universally popular for easy decorating and entertaining.

The influence of Charles Dickens' writings (notably "A Christmas Carol," in 1843) and the acceptance of the celebration of Christ's birth by most religions helped shape the American Christmas festival between 1850 and 1900, Mrs. Lee said.

Santa Claus, who once was considered to be a thin man, became plump and jolly, patterned after the description given by Dr. Clement Clark Moore in his famous poem of 1822, entitled "A Visit from St. Nicholas," but now better known as "The Night Before Christmas."

The first legal recognition of the holiday came in 1836, by Alabama. Gradually the other states followed suit, culminating with official approval by Oklahoma in 1890.

Puppy Buyer's Kit

A puppy buyer's kit which gives the person who plans to get a puppy for Christmas what he needs to know—everything from deciding which breed will suit him best to where he can purchase it—has been brought out by a research center in New York.

In the kit is a 36" x 27" chart in color, showing pictures of the 114 dog breeds recognized by the American Kennel Club, together with data on physical characteristics and natural abilities. Also included is a 60-page booklet entitled "Where to Buy, Board or Train a Dog," which not only lists places throughout the country where a dog of the desired breed may be purchased, but also includes a great deal of useful information to answer the buyer's questions concerning selection of his pet. "Which Dog For You" is the title of a section covering subjects such as: Is a large or small dog preferable; is a male or female dog most desirable; what are the relative advantages of long- and short-haired breeds? The booklet also carries special advice on buying a dog for a child and counsel on the care of the new puppy in the home.

More information about the booklet may be obtained by contacting me at The Freeman.

SPCA Seeks Aid For Animals at Local Shelter

An urgent appeal has been made by the Ulster County SPCA on behalf of the many animals housed in the Shelter on Brabrant Road.

Operating expenses for the Shelter during the past year have totaled more than $15,000. Many animals required the professional services of a veterinarian, there were medicines to buy and special care to be provided. In addition to high food and fuel bills, the Shelter must also maintain an ambulance.

Members of the SPCA would appreciate any monetary donation, however small, or a case of food for the animals. In charge of donations is Margaret B. Johnson, 283 Washington Avenue, this city.

Early Ink

First ink used in early Egyptian and Chinese civilization (about 2500 B.C.) consisted of lamp black ground with a solution of glue or gums, with the mixture being molded into sticks and allowed to dry.

INVITING A FRIEND IN MOURNING

Q: Every year during the Christmas holiday I give a large buffet party. About six months ago the husband of a very dear friend of mine passed away. Both she and her husband came to this buffet party every year. I would like to know if it would be proper to send her an invitation this year as usual. I really don't know what to do as I'm afraid she might be hurt if I don't invite her, and on the other hand, she might think me heartless if I do.

A: Don't send her an invitation but tell her, or write her a note, saying that you are giving your usual buffet party and that, if she feels up to coming, you will be delighted to have her.

Keeping the Aisle Seat in Church

Q: Every Sunday I grow more distressed over the rudeness of many who attend church and make themselves comfortable on the aisle seats, forcing those who come later to climb over them as best they can. Surely in church all seats are the same and it seems to me that people could move over. Will you discuss this in your column?

A: At a wedding, those who come early and are given an aisle seat may properly keep it. At a regular church service, however, a courteuos person would move over to make room for any one wishing to enter the pew later.

Three go to a Wedding Together

Q: I am going to a church wedding with my sister-in-law and her husband. She is older by far than I am, so what about the seating of us? When the usher offers her his arm, should I follow with her husband or let him follow her and wait at the back for the usher to come back and show me to my place?

A: You may wait for the usher to come back for you if you wish, but it will be simpler, in order to sit together, if you follow with your sister-in-law's husband.

Collins-Heybruck Wedding Is Announced; Ceremony Takes Place in New York City

Joan Marie Collins and Thomas Joseph Heybruck of Kingston exchanged marriage vows in a double ring ceremony before a nuptial Mass at the Good Shepherd Church, New York City. The wedding, which took place November 4, was announced today to The Freeman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Collins of

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Heybruck

261 Seaman Avenue, New York, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heybruck Jr., of 22 Summer Street, this city.

Officiating was the Rev. John M. Donelon, C.S.P., assistant pastor of the Good Shepherd Church. Traditional wedding music was provided.

The church was decorated with assorted white flowers and the pews were marked with sprays of flowers and satin ribbon.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white peau de sois full length gown styled with "V" neckline outlined with seed pearls, long tapered sleeves and a chapel length bouffant skirt. Her imported English illusion veil was in a butterfly style and gathered to a double tiered crown of seed pearls. She carried a missal decorated with a cascade of white orchids, glamelias and stephanotis.

Miss Eileen Sexton of New York, the bride's cousin, served as maid of honor in a short dress of beige brocade styled with scoop necklines, three quarter length sleeves and a full skirt. She carried a cascade of gold and rust Fuji mums backed with gold velvet leaves.

Bridesmaids were Miss Teresa Buckley of New York, the bride's cousin, and Miss Cathleen Collins, the bride's sister. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the honor attendants except in deep blue. Their flower arrangements were also the same.

Joan Marie Cartwright, the bride's Godchild, served as flower girl in a short white organdy dress fashioned with blue brocaded sash. She wore a crown of gold flowers in her hair and carried a miniature bouquet of flowers.

John T. Heybruck of Kingston was best man for his brother. Ushering were William P. Collins and Thomas J. Collins Jr., brothers of the bride.

A reception was given at Mayer's Parkway Restaurant, Bronx, for approximately 100 people.

The bride was graduated from the Good Shephard School and Academy of the Sacred Heart of Mary, New York City. She is employed by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company as a stock and bond department investigator for the Treasury Department. Her husband is a graduate of St. Mary's School here and Kingston High School. He is now serving with the U.S. Navy and holds the rank of second class petty officer. He plans to make a career out of the navy. He is now assigned to the USS Tinosa, a new nuclear powered attack submarine currently under construction at Portsmouth Naval Shipyard.

Mr. and Mrs. Heybrouck will be at home at 31 East Richards Avenue, Portsmouth, N. H.

Manhattan Shirt Managers to Meet

Plant managers of The Manhattan Shirt Company, which operates a plant at 27 Hoffman Street, Kingston, will convene in New York City for the annual meetings Monday, according to A. A. Dodds Jr., vice president in charge of production.

The nine plant managers including D. H. Ralby of Kingston, will be concerned with production, research and quality control reviews. The meetings will further familiarize the plant managers with the Manhattan Lady Manhattan merchandise sale and marketing plans for future seasons. The meetings will continue for three days.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

What junk you write. That article about the girl who said "I don't feel like it" when her mother asked her to turn down the TV volume made me sick. That mother should have given her a good crack in the face instead of turning down the TV herself and saying, "I'll want to know why you wouldn't do what I asked when I've finished this phone call."

Answer: I have a little story I want to tell you.

I once knew a Miss F who ran a little book and stationery shop which supported her and her mother. One fall when she renewed her lease her landlord agreed to repaint it for her.

The painting job took two days. Anxious not to lose any business, Miss F worked until 3 a. m. on the first day, replacing stock on her shelves, removing plaster dust, polishing showcases. On the second night she worked until 10 o'clock. Then, dragging home her tired body and aching feet, she entered the living room where her mother was watching TV. Looking up, her parent said, "Mamie, go and make me a cup of tea."

Miss F, an obedient child did as she was told. But the next day when she couldn't locate a book I had ordered, she began to cry. "You must forgive me," she said. "Everything is still in a mess and I've been working late . . . and Mrs. Lawrence, my mother . . . she doesn't love me . . . last night when I got home so tired I could hardly walk she never noticed . . . she never saw. She just said, 'Go and get me . . .'"

Miss F had to see a doctor that afternoon.

You see, this grown child had a very reasonable reason for not feeling like obeying her mother's order to make her a cup of tea.

Sometimes younger children too have reasonable reasons for not jumping to our orders.

If we feel not interest in his reasons sooner or later he may know himself to be unloved. The question "Why didn't you do what I asked you to do?" is the bridge we make between us and a resisting child across which he can come over to us and tell us why he is worried, how he has been unwittingly hurt, what is troubling him so that he has been unable to serve us willingly.

Do you always feel like doing what you're told? Are there never times for you when you want someone else to say, "Why didn't you do as I asked? Are you tired? What is wrong? Tell me."

Unidentified Car Reported Cause Of Local Mishap

An unidentified vehicle reportedly caused a three-car chain reaction-type highway accident on Albany Avenue Extension, north of the city line Thursday afternoon, Kingston state police reported.

One of the drivers, Dorothy Marshall, 48, of Tivoli reported neck and head injuries when questioned by troopers.

The other drivers were George Countryman, 43, of Groff Street, and Earl Kimble, 24, of Buckley Street, both Town of Ulster.

Trooper Thomas J. Crowley said all three cars were proceeding north on Route 9W and stopped for a school bus which was halted in the southbound lane. Kimble told troopers an unidentified vehicle struck his car—the third car in line—in the rear, pushing his vehicle into the Marshall car, and the Marshall car was pushed into the rear of the Countryman vehicle. The unidentified car failed to stop, according to Kimble's account to the state police. Trooper Crowley said the mishap is still under investigation. The accident occured at 12:15 p. m.

Christian Endeavor At Reformed Church

Junior Christian Endeavor meets tonight at 7 o'clock at the Woodstock Reformed Church.

The Rev. Wayne C. Olson, minister, will speak on the topic: Emmanuel-God With Us at the 11 a. m., morning worship on Sunday, Dec. 17. Sunday school is at 9:30 a. m.

A program by the Sunday School classes is scheduled at 7 p. m.

The Christian Education Committee meets Monday, Dec. 18, at 8 p. m.

The annual Christmas Eve Service of Carols and Candles will be held at 11 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 24, in the sanctuary. All members and friends of the church, all visitors in Woodstock and residents are invited to attend this inspiring service.

Fire Auxiliary

A meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Company No. 1 will be held Monday, Dec. 18 at 8 p. m. Members are reminded to bring a guest and gift for exchange at the Christmas party after the meeting.

ENTERTAINED AT CP CENTER — More than 125 children, a portion of those who receive therapy at Cerebral Palsy Center, 400 Broadway, were entertained early this week at the annual Christmas party conducted by Kingston Kiwanis Club at the center. Fred Van Deusen presented feats of magic and radio newscaster Dick McCarthy served as master of ceremonies. Santa Claus gave each child a specially selected gift. Refreshments were served. NEW RIDGE POSTMASTER — Mrs. Anna Hoffman, left, receives certificate of appointment as acting postmaster of Stone Ridge Post Office from Raymond Lyons, field services officer. Also present is Miss Sarah C. Lounsbery, right, postmaster for 26 years who retired Nov. 30. (Freeman photo)

New Paltz Area Methodist Notes

Advent Services

Worship services on the third Sunday in Advent will be held in the three churches of the New Paltz Methodist Parish. Services will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Willett Porter, and Roger Brown assistant minister to students, beginning at 8:30 a. m. in the New Paltz Church. The service in the Lloyd Methodist Church is at 9:15 a. m. and 11 a. m. in the New Paltz Church. The time of the Plutarch service is 2 p. m.

New members will be received into the fellowship of the New Paltz and Plutarch Churches at the 11 o'clock and 2 o'clock services, respectively.

Plutarch Program

The traditional church and Sunday school Christmas program in the Plutarch Methodist Church will be held Sunday 7:30 p. m. The children's part in the program is being directed by Jack Hoffman, Mrs. Chester Elliott Jr., Miss Cynthia Dibel, and Mrs. Rexford Schneider.

A special part of the program this year will be the message of the Rev. Dr. Emanuel Santi, chaplain and co-director of Casa Materna, Home for Orphan Children in Portici, Naples, Italy. Dr. Santi, who is also an accomplished violinist, having done his undergraduate work at the University of Naples and its Conservatory of Music, will present several musical selections, as well as speak and show slides of Casa Materna. The public may attend.

Christmas Programs

The New Paltz Methodist Sunday school Christmas program for cradle roll, nursery, kindergarten, and primary departments will be held Saturday 3 p. m.

The youth division of the Sunday school, which includes the junior, junior high and senior high departments, will meet at the church school at 6:30 p. m. before travelling to the County Home for the traditional Christmas caroling. The young people will then return to the church for refreshments and a slide program on the Holy Land.

Parents and friends may attend and participate in these two programs.

Holiday Musicale

A Christmas musicale will be presented by the junior and senior choirs of New Paltz Methodist Church Sunday, Dec. 24, at 4 p. m. The program will include selections by the choirs, directed by Mrs. Paul Steiner and Ralph Dennis; congregational singing of favorite carols, and solos by members of the senior choir. All members of the community may attend.

Christmas Eve Service

The traditional Christmas Eve services will be held in the Lloyd and Plutarch Methodist Churches. The candlelight service in the Lloyd Church, on the old New Paltz-Highland Road, is scheduled for 8 p. m. In Plutarch church, the candlelight communion service will take place at 11 p. m. The Rev. Mr. Porter will conduct each of the services and will deliver the Christmas Eve sermon.

Recent Baptisms

The Sacrament of Baptism was administered recently in the New Paltz Methodist Parish to: Jody Carolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Decker, of Gardiner; Alison Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold King, of Kingston Road; George William Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lane of Hawley's Corners Road, Highland; Mary Beth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Scriber, of Tillson; Julia Dawn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stoneman, of Libertyville Road; and Paul Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thompson, of Ohioville. The Rev. Mr. Porter officiated at the baptisms.

DOVER, Del. (AP) — A bill which would have re-established capital punishment in Delaware was vetoed Thursday by Gov. Elbert N. Carvel.

Budget May Put Damper on Nike Anti-Missile Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army's Nike-Zeus antimissile project is closer than ever to the production stage. But it may not make it again this yearIperhaps because of a budget squeeze.

President Kennedy and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara agreed less than three weeks ago that Congress should be asked for money to start preparing for production of the missile killer system which is still being tested.

Last weekend, budget and defense authorities again revviewed the military requests for next year.

Then two days ago, sources said, Army officials received informal word that tooling-up money for the Nike-Zeus may not be included when the budget goes to Congress next month.

Nobody would comment for the record.

The Army has spent more than a billion dollars since 1957 to perfect the Nike-Zeus, which would be emplaced to protect the nation's key cities and strategic bases.

It has been estimated a fully operational antimissile defense would cost at least $8 billion.

Just Thursday a Nike-Zeus rocket scored a fourth straight success in a flight planned as its longest to date. It shot out over the Pacific from Point Mugu, Calif. Distance and direction were not announced.

Feet and toes are injured oftener than any other part of the body.

State Has Own Aid Plan for School Shelters

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A plan by New York State to aid school districts in the construction of fallout shelters will be pursued independently of a federal program of incentive payments for shelters in some public institutions.

Any federal aid received by schools under a program announced by the Kennedy administration Thursday will be in addition to state funds, Gov. Rockefeller's office said.

Under the federal program, $700 million in incentive payments would be spent to help schools, hospitals and public welfare institutions build and equip shelters.

Given Approval

The New York State Legislature approved in a special session last month the reimbursement of school districts by the state of up to 50 per cent of the cost of building shelters in public and private schools.

It appeared possible that school districts might build shelters with federal and state funds at no cost to the school districts.

Rocky Chief Supporter

Rockefeller was the chief supporter of the plan adopted by the state. The Legislature provided a total of $85 million for payments to public and private elementary and high schools and private colleges. Another $15 million was allocated to build shelters in schools of the State University and other state buildings.

Rockefeller, as chairman of the civil defense committee of the Governor's Conference, also participated in drafting the federal plan. He was praised by President Kennedy for his role.

$5,200 in Katanga Till

NEW YORK (AP) — A committee calling for an end to U.N. interention in Katanga reported Thursday it has raised $5,200 in its campaign.

The committee, formed last Wednesday, calls itself the American Committee for Aid to Katanga Freedom Fighters.

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

You're sitting in the jury box with 11 other American citizens.

The attorneys for the prosecution have completed their impassioned summations. Miles of testimony have been taken. The mores of man, and particularly the sports world, have been expounded.

You retire for deliberation and you must come up with the verdict on this burning question: Should or should not Sonny Liston be given a crack at Floyd Patterson's heavyweight title?

It's not as simple as it sounds. Try it for size on your own conscience first. Then expand your audience to the boys at the club, in your office or shop and in your own social circle. Let's see how you come out.

You will have heard that Sonny Liston has a criminal record that stretches from bawdy East St. Louis to a lonely street in Philadelphia. The ponderous fists that have reduced to quivering hulks a long trail of heavyweight "challengers" are also the same fists that cracked the skulls of Negro laborers in union disputes in East St. Louis. Liston, an illiterate, has waged a relentless one-man battle against society's code, it seems.

It will be told to you that the heavyweight champion sets the pattern for the entire sport. A legitimate world's heavyweight championship bout is regarded as the greatest one-shot spectacle in American sports. You may not agree.

But the violent controversy that will develop as Liston presses his bid for a shot at Patterson will engross in one Manner or other a vast majority of the sports loving fans of the country. You will be among them. Neither you nor I will make the final decision. But if you had to, how would you vote?

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Attorney Robert Ortale of Kingston is mighty proud of his niece, little Donna Thompson of Newburgh, who placed second in the 330 yard dash and second in the 220 in the special midget girls events in the recent Tri-State Speed Skating championships at Grossinger's. Furthermore she had her picture taken with Yankee pitcher, Whitey Ford, one of the honorary judges. . . . Mannie Colao, the bowling barber, is on the mend at his Tammany Street residence after undergoing surgery at the Benedictine Hospital. . . . Ray Spadafora, former Kingston High All-DUSO lineman, won a varsity letter with the Ithaca College. Ray's Indians had a break-even season, winning over Hobart, Kings, Cortland and Brockport, while losing to West Chester, Southern Connecticut, C. W. Post and Alfred. They compiled 176 points to 101 for their opponents. . . . In case you're interested to know where part of your harness track dollar goes: The rate is 5 per cent on the first $175,000 of the daily pool; 7 per cent on the next $125,000; 8 per cent on the next $100,000; 9 per cent on the next $100,000; 10 per cent on the next $100,000; and 11 per cent on all over $600,000, plus 50 per cent of the breakage, with the additional provision that when revenue exceeds that of 1955, the base year established in the law, half of the normal state share of the excess may be set aside in special construction funds. . . . Wiltwyck Country Club has announced plans for another of its New Year's Eve wing-dingers. . . . In a recent poll to elect baseball stars to the B'nai B'rith National Lodge Hall of Fame we picked: George Sisler over Bill Terry; Rogers Hornsby over Charlie Gehringer; Harold (Pie) Traynor over Home Run Baker; Frank Frisch over Joe Cronin; Paul Waner, Jimmy Foxx and Joe DiMaggio over Zack Wheat, Max Carey, Hank Greenberg and Sam Crawford; Bill Dickey over Mickey Cochrane, Ray Schalk and Leo (Gabby) Hartnett. In the pitching department we named Robert Moses Grove over Carl Hubbell, Jerome (Dizzy) Dean and Ted Lyons. . . . We goofed in only one position. Can you guess where? . . . Attention ski fans: The United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association announces the following schedule at Belleayre Ski Center: Feb. 10-11-12, New York State Junior I, II Alpine championships; Feb. 18, Rip Van Winkle Council Giant Slalom; March 11, Belleayre Junior Giant Slalom. The USEASA does not guarantee snow on any of these dates.

Duke-Duquesne Clash Tops Holiday Tournament Slate

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A key match between two unbeatens — Duke vs. Duquesne — highlights tip-off action in a flock of holiday college basketball tournaments that open tonight.

It was supposed to be a rebuilding year for sophomore-dominated Duke but the Blue Devils may have put it in the past tense — rebuilt.

They've taken five straight, including two Atlantic Coast Conference games, and have been impressive doing it. Their average margin of victory is slightly over 25 points.

Against Duquesne, in first round action of the Steel Bowl at Pittsburgh, the Blue Devils may find a major clue as to how well the rebuilding has been accomplished.

Duquesne, probably the top team Duke has yet encountered, didn't attract much attention in winning its first two but leaped into the limelight with a whipping 62-44 upset of highly-regarded Bowling Green.

Their match heads the tournament list that also includes first round action in the Birmingham Classic at Birmingham, Ala., the Blue Grass Festival at Louisville, Ky., and the City of Roses Tourney at Portland, Ore.

The other first round game at Pittsburgh matches host Pitt and Arizona. At Birmingham, Alabama goes against Virginia Tech and Auburn against Louisiana State. In Louisville, St. Bonaventure tries Western Kentucky and Texas takes on Louisville. In Portland it's Seattle against Houston and St. Mary's (Calif.) vs. Portland.

In some of the other top games, St. John's of New York plays Kansas and Marquette tries Kansas State in a doubleheader at Lawrence, Kan., San Francisco is at fifth-ranked Providence and Wake Forest (No. 3) visits Virginia.

Arkansas stormed to its fourth straight victory, 87-59 over Tulsa, at the top of Thursday night's light schedule, while Bowling Green conquered Michigan 77-67 and Wichita edged Ohio University 58-55.

Raiders to Play In New Gym; Other Tilts Slated

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Overcoming near disaster with two pulsating wins in the final moments of play, the Kingston High basketball team hits the road tonight and will help Port Jervis open its spanking new gym to DUSO clubs in the feature contest of a big card.

Other DUSO action finds Newburgh at Middletown in the city league and Ellenville at Monticello in the village circuit. The DCSL slate has Wappingers at Roosevelt and Arlington at Cardinal Farley. In the UCAL, Pine Bush is at Wallkill, Highland at Onteora and Marlboro at New Paltz. Fallsburgh plays at Rondout Valley in a non-league battle.

A rundown of each league:

DUSO

Team	Won	Lost
Kingston	1	0
Newburgh	1	0
Middletown	1	0
Port Jervis	1	0
Monticello	0	2

As the standings show, tonight's slate finds the league's unbeaten teams facing each other. Kingston holds a slim win over Liberty at home while the Indians dropped a four point decision to visiting Port Jervis. The Porters rely on big Tex Westbrook and Gibby Romaine for their points. The decision at Liberty has boosted the club's stock and it figures to be even tougher in the new school gym. Kingston has been hot and cold in two winning efforts and must produce a good one to remain unbeaten.

Newburgh is the pre-season favorite and has looked as good as was expected. Middletown nipped Monticello in its opener but figures to run into trouble this time. The Goldies are 'loaded."

UCAL

Marlboro	1	0
Rondout Valley	1	0
New Paltz	0	1
Highland	0	1

Wallkill is the defending champion and the team figures to repeat. Pine Bush will be playing its first league contest at Wallkill and the Orange County School wasn't impressive in losing two non-circuit starts. Highland and Onteora aren't of championship caliber and the Highlanders are hoping to end a victory famine that has reached 41 games. This could be the time, though the Indians have looked good in spots. Marlboro is the team that has a chance against Wallkill but the Dukes will have some trouble at New Paltz, which has Ken Freer, a solid performer.

The Wappingers - Roosevelt game is a tossup in the DCSL. Though the Fallsmen have lost three times, they will give the pre-season choice some trying moments. Arlington is too strong for Cardinal Farley and should score as it pleases. Saugerties played at Beacon yesterday and is idle tonight.

Bluebonnet Foes Are Much Alike

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Jack Mitchell said today his Kansas Jayhawks and the Rice Owls, opponents in Saturday's Bluebonnet Bowl game, are very much alike.

"I'd say they are about even," said the Kansas coach. "It ought to be a good offensive game."

Mitchell arrived Thursday, a day ahead of his Big Eight Conference team. He was worried because his Jayhawks have had only two practice sessions outdoors since their final regular season game with Missouri.

"The weather has kept us indoors and we really don't have a place to work indoors," he said. "We need work on blocking and pass defense. I really don't know what to expect."

The former Oklahoma quarterback said neither Rice nor Kansas has an explosive-type player who can break up a ball game in a hurry.

"Rice has Butch Blume and we have Curtis McClinton but they aren't James Saxtons, Doak Walkers, or Billy Cannons," he said.

Kansas, with a 6-3-1 record, accepted its second bowl game invitation in history after finishing in a second place tie with Missouri in the Big Eight Conference. Rice claimed third place in the Southwest Conference with a 7-3 record.

Erdelatz Wants West Point Job

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Eddie Erdelatz, who practically made a career of upsetting the Army, wants to be head football coach at West Point.

He said Thursday he has applied for the Army job from which Dale Hall was fired Saturday.

Erdelatz, 47, was fired this season by the professional Oakland Raiders of the American Football League.

Erdelatz coached the Naval Academy from 1950 to 1958, resigning after his ninth season. His Navy teams made a record of 50-26-8, beating Army five times, losing three to the Cadets and tying one.

Hall never beat Navy in his three years as Army's head coach. That was considered the principal reason for his dismissal.

Charlie Sangaline Clicks 56 Balls in Pockets Tourney

Charlie Sangaline, the defending champion, played as a substitute last night and quickly convinced spectators at the Uptown Billiard Parlor why he is a red hot favorite to repeat.

First he polished off Tom Howard by the convincing margin of 125 to 22. Then he proceeded to extend an unfinished run of 39 to 56 balls. His other strings were 26 and 27.

Sangaline's superb performance gave the other contenders something to think about during the holiday recess. The tournament will be resumed early in January.

Syracuse Pick In Liberty Bowl

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ground-minded Syracuse, led by All-America halfback Ernie Davis, clashes with air-minded Miami Saturday in the third annual Liberty Bowl with the Orange favored to win.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse and Andy Gustafson of Miami pronounced their squads in good physical condition and ready to go.

Gustafson said passing star George Mira, a sophomore from Key West, Fla., who was held out of drills all week because of a slight case of flu and tonsilitis, definitely would start Saturday.

Both teams arrived Thursday and worked out in the 100,000-seat Philadelphia Stadium, ite of the nationally televised (NBC) game which is expected to draw between 15,000 and 20,000 fans on the basis of advance sales.

Mira, who has completed 74 of 151 passed for 896 yards and 8 touchdowns, will arrive here today. He was kept in the infirmary an additional day as a precautionary measure.

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast mostly fair weathed with some afternoon cloudiness and a high in the low 30s.

High and Hard

MIAMI, Fla. (NEA)—George Mira, Miami (Florida) sophomore quarterback, has as many deliveries as a good major league pitcher. Mira throws the football hard and fast overhand, side arm or underhand and has a left handed touchdown pass to his credit. His hard one has men gasping. "Mira throws too hard," they chorus, but he has hit on 74 of 151 tosses, just a shade under 50 per cent.

Mitchell Is the Pawn

Cleveland Browns Press Bid To Lure Ernie Davis in Fold

CLEVELAND (AP) — Art Modell, the Cleveland Browns' front office boss, says he won't spare any expense or effort to sign Ernie Davis now that the Browns have acquired the right to negotiate with the All-America from Syracuse.

That right was acquired in a daring trade in which the Browns gave Bobby Mitchell, half of one of the most explosive running combinations in pro football, to the Washington Redskins, plus the rights to Leroy Jackson. Jackson, a speedy halfback from Western Illinois University, was picked by the Browns on the first round of the National Football League draft.

Davis, winner of the Heisman Trophy, has been drafted by the Buffalo Bills of the rival American Football League, but Modell said he was "confident that Ernie will sign with us."

The Browns may have the inside track with the 6-foot-2, 213-pound Syracuse halfback because of Jim Brown, the other half of the Browns' great running duo. It was on Brown's advice that Davis went to Syracuse—where Ernie broke a number of records that Brown had left behind.

Meanwhile, Ralph C. Wilson Jr., Buffalo owner, says he will keep on trying to get Davis' signature on a contract. Davis' attorney, Anthony De Filippo of Elmira, N.Y., who was in a meeting with Davis and Modell Wednesday, said nothing has been decided.

Is Biding Time

Davis himself said he had "not had time to sit down and think about what would be advantageous to me. I hope to make a decision in three weeks."

While the Browns and Redskins were saying Thursday that they had traded the rights to Davis and Jackson, plus a "veteran player from the active 1961 (Browns) roster to be mutually decided upon by Feb. 1," neither party would say that Mitchell was involved.

A reliable source told The Associated Press the veteran involved was Mitchell, who is on Army duty until next October, assigned to Fort Meade, Md. Mitchell has been getting away on weekend passes to play with the Browns. He already has been contacted by Washington officials, it was learned here.

A Browns spokesman said the deal was worked out with Washington prior to the NFL draft last week. Washington, getting first pick of the nation's college talent, grabbed Davis in the NFL draft. When the Browns' turn came, they picked Jackson for Washington.

Jackson also was drafted b an AFL team—Boston. It will be up to Washington to sign him after the track ace finishes the spring sports campaign.

Should neither Cleveland nor Washington be successful in efforts to sign Davis and Jackson, the trade still goes through, and Mitchell would go to Washington.

49ers Keep Hope Alive for Bowl

The San Francisco 49ers can keep alive their chances of making a January bowl appearance if they can beat the Baltimore Colts in Saturday's National Football League game in San Francisco.

A loss to the Colts in the nationally-televised contest (CBS, 4:30 p.m., EST) would knock the 49ers out of the running for the NFL's runnerup Bowl in Miami Jan. 6 and the Detroit Lions would represent the Western Conference against the Eastern Division's runnerup.

If the 49ers win, they'll have to sit back and await the outcome of the Lions' game in Detroit Sunday—last day of the NFL's regular season—against the Philadelphia Eagles, who still stand a chance of gaining a tie for the Eastern championship.

A Detroit victory not only would send the Lions to Miami but would also give the New York Giants the Eastern title regardless of how the Giants fare against the Cleveland Browns Sunday in New York.

The Giants-Browns scrap is the day's big clash. If the Giants, with a full game lead over the Eagles, beat Cleveland, they won't have to depend upon help from the Lions.

If the Browns whip the favored Giants, and the Eagles down the Lions, the championship in the East would be decided in a playoff game between New York and Philadelphia in Yankee Stadium Dec. 24.

The Green Bay Packers have already won the Western crown for the second year in a row and will be warming up Sunday against the Rams in Los Angeles for the Dec. 31 championship game with the Eastern kingpins in Green Bay.

Gene Fullmer Shows Stylists Way to More Important Money

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise
Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—When Gene Fullmer first hit New York late in 1954, it was written and said that the current National Boxing Assn. middleweight champion wouldn't be around long.

The only thing stylish about Fullmer was his lack of it. He couldn't punch and he appeared to be too easy to hit. All he seemed to possess was agressiveness and durability.

As Fullmer went along, this observer observed that the young man could be 40 years too late. He assimilates punishment as well as any of the renowned catchers, starting with Battling Nelson. A stayer from Stayersville, he was cut out for the old 45-round days.

But Fullmer demonstrated that he could do enough damage in 15 rounds to do considerably better than all right. He showed more polished performers how to get the more important money. His formula is simple—tackle the most attractive challenger while he is hot and do this three times a year, if necessary.

So Fullmer, a pure plodder, is practically certain to wind up as one of the few prize fighters in history to win a million dollars with his fists.

Fullmer had barely finished bouncing Benny Kid Paret around in Las Vegas the other night in a record eighth 160-pound title defense, when he offered Paul Pender a bonus, which would give Gene the privilege of first taking a poke at Terry Downes. Terry has held the New York and Massachusetts version of the middleweight championship since beating Pender in London.

Winning from Downes would give Fullmer a clear claim to the title, and he assured Pender a whack at this within four months. Anything to keep busy, you see.

Beats Them All

It is easy for cold water throwers to point out that Fullmer has hardly waded through a cage of tigers, but that is what they have been saying about all fighters in more recent years. The answer to it is that the Morman elder and mink farmer has faced everybody who could provide a worthwhile payday.

Fullmer took a decision from Pender in Brooklyn, Feb. 14, 1955, nearly two years before he outmauled Ray Robinson in 15 rounds to lift the title.

Robinson kept Fullmer waiting two years and seven months after dealing Gene his only knockout, May 1, 1957, when the West Jordan plugger was hung on the end of a left hook as he bounced off the ropes.

Robinson gave Carmen Basilio the run around, too. Then Carmen, the onion grower, got a chance to get his title lumps. These were administered by Fullmer, who thereby ascended to the vacated NBA middleweight throne on Aug. 28, 1959.

There has been no stalling or bickering since by the middleweight leader. Spider Webb, Joey Giardello, Basilio again, Robinson twice more, Florentino Fernandez and Paret all got their chance to go the way of all boxing flesh.

Even pugilistic purists no longer are puzzled by Fullmer's success.

Gene showed what an honest workman can do—even in the beak busting business of today.

Mike Dodig Hits 26 in First Loss Of League Season

Beacon High's powerhouse took advantage of the breaks to defeat Saugerties High, 72-68, Thursday night in a Dutchess County Scholastic League thriller on the Beacon hardwoods.

It was the Sawyers' first loss in the DCSL, while Beacon squared its seasonal record with a 2-2 mark. The Dutchess cagers are unbeaten in league play, their only losses coming at the hands of Newburgh and Peekskill, two of the best schoolboy quintets in the area.

It took a combination of circumstances to effect the Beacon triumph but everything jelled for the winners.

A substitute player, Merl Mulligan came off the bench to replace a first string player who had been bounced from the squad this week and proceeded to rack up 24 points.

Get Extra Help

A Saugerties player inadvertently tossed a field goal into the Beacon basket and the winners also had the benefit of a technical call. All this came during a wild scoring third period when Beacon earned a 27-25 edge.

Mike Dodig was the pacemaker for the Sawyers, who are now 2-2, with 24 points. Al Hrdlicka contributed 17 and Jacobs had 10. Brown was runnerup for Beacon. The winners also cashed in on 20 of 31 foul tries and shot 48 per cent from the field With this kind of performance they didn't miss their banisbhed star, Lunceford, too much.

Beacon led all the way with the Saugerties sallies pulling up to within a point or two at several stages of the game. The winners led 17-15 at the quarter and 28-27 at halftime.

The score:

Boating Aids Fitness If Skipper Wants It

By WM. TAYLOR McKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA)—Commenting on President Kennedy's call for more physical fitness, a New York columnist listed pleasure boating as one of the few participant sports now showing new popularity while helping to develop muscular citizens.

It is true that marine activities can probably call on a greater variety of muscles than any other form of recreation. Before a boat is even launched, the sinews of the upper and lower back are well stretched as rain water is bailed and bailed from the boat.

Legs are flexed as the craft is dragged down a sandy bank and urged into the water. Rowing out to the mooring adds tone to wrist, biceps and back, and blisters to unaccustomed hands as the bow seems to refuse to progress against the wind and current.

Once along side a larger boat, luggage and gear must be juggled up to the deck.

Dexterity and self control are well exercised as a 50-pound cake of ice is hoisted from the bilge of a tilting dinghy, balanced on the gunwhale just before it slips overboard, and then hefted aloft and over the bulwark above in a press-up that would startle professional weight lifters.

No program of integrated calisthenics could compare with the next procedure—known as raising the anchor. Thighs strain, arms ache and finally the anchor suddenly surges free. The fatty tissues of the lower back are given a resounding massage as the anchor man falls backward and lands soundly on the deck with wet and muddy anchor line.

All around muscle tone comes quickly if you fall overboard at this time instead and must swim back to the boat and then try to climb back in. Even commando practice does not include wall scaling while wearing a heavy wet straitjacket of soggy clothes. All this before you get started sailing.

But health faddists may not have had their share of fun afloat if they rate boating as just a participant activity. The sport ranks high as a spectator endeavor, as the President, an experienced boatman himself, would undoubtedly agree.

Thousands of pleasure craft people head out every weekend just to dangle lines down at indolent fish and watch other boats of the watery world go by.

Sailboat racing even puts a premium on being able to sit completely still during a downwind run so that nothing rocks the boat and spills a light wind.

There are the well-adjusted athletes who never cruise from dock or mooring but party aboard right where they are.

Boating is much more than energetic body building. It is in fact, the only participant sport that can be pursued while sitting or lying on deck with a cool caloric drink close at hand. A pram owner or President can use it to get away from all activity ashore.

Boating is a sport that can become almost anything you want to make it.

It's No Surprise

Roger Maris Is Named Male Athlete of Year

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris of the New York Yankees, the American League's most valuable player and home run champion and the man whose dramatic pursuit of Babe Ruth's record enthralled the baseball world, is The Associated Press' male athlete of the year for 1961.

The outfielder, 27, who hit 61 homers, a record for a single season, was the overwhelming choice in the balloting by 253 sports writers and broadcasters in the annual AP poll.

Paul Hornung, Green Bay's outstanding halfback, was second and Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's veteran southpaw pitcher, was third. They were followed by Ernie Davis, All-America halfback from Syracuse, and Mickey Mantel, Maris' slugging teammate.

Maris was named first on 160 ballots. Mantle was second with 18 firsts followed by Spahn with 14. On a basis of three points for first place, two for second and one for third, Maris collected 555 points, Hornung 108, Spahn 95, Davis 79 and Mantle 77.

Maris will receive the fraternal Order of the Eagles-Frederick C. Miller Trophy at a dinner in Milwaukee, Jan. 4. He is the first baseball player to win the trophy since Ted Williams in 1957. It was won last year by Rafer Johnson, the Olympic decathlon champion and world record holder. The year before it was Ingemar Johansson of Sweden, then world heavyweight boxing champion.

Dominated Headlines

Maris' pursuit of the games' most cherished record—Ruth's 60 home runs—swept the pennant races, expansion and the performances of the game's other stars into the background.

The deadline game set by Commissioner Ford Frick for breaking Ruth's standard in 154 decisions came on Sept. 20 in Baltimore. In his second time at bat, Maris drove the ball over the right field fence for his 59th homer. He failed in two more tries to tie the mighty Bambino's standard.

Then, on Sept. 26, Maris hit No. 60. And in his final game of the regular campaign on Oct. 1, he belted a fastball into the right field stands in Yankee Stadium off Boston's Tracy Stallard for No. 61.

Maris also recorded the most total bases in the league, 366 and the most runs batted in, 142. His batting average was .269.

Rounding out the first ten in the voting were Y. A. Tittle, veteran quarterback of the New York Giants; Whitey Ford, 25-game winning pitcher for the Yankees; Ralph Boston, who set a world record in the broad jump with a leap of 27 feet; Valery Brumel of the Soviet Union, the world's leading high jumper, and South Africa's Gary Player, winner of the Masters golf tournament.

Warriors Win, Celts Sizzle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia Warriors are winning, Wilt Chamberlain is scoring like no one in basketball before but there's still no catching the Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association.

The Celtics, with six players in double figures but only two scoring more than 20 points, pushed their record to 21-3 and held their Eastern Division lead at 6½ games over Philadelphia with a 123-108 romp over the Chicago Packers Thursday night.

The Boston victory came in the opener of a doubleheader at Philadelphia. The Warriors, with Chamberlain scoring 43 points and Paul Arizin 32, whipped Syracuse, 136-125 in the second game.

In the only other game scheduled, Detroit pulled ahead in the closing minute for a 107-103 decision over the Cincinnati Royals.

Gene Shue's field goal and four free throws in the last 40 seconds did the job for the Pistons as they snapped Cincinnati's four-game winning string.

Plattsburgh in Fourth Straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Plattsburgh State won its fourth straight basketball game — and Utica lost its fourth straight—in separate contests Thursday night.

Plattsburgh prevailed over host Sir George Williams College in Montreal, 70-65. Wayne Lashway's two free throws and a field goal and foul shot by teammate Jim Carpenters put Plattsburgh out in front after a 65-65 tie in closing minutes.

Plattsburgh now is 4-1. High scorers were Plattsburgh's Neil Breen with 20 and Bob Watson, Willie Epstein and Bob Hobert, with 16 each, for the losers.

Utica dropped its fourth game in a row, to Clarkson this time, 73-63. Clarkson now is 4-1. Utica's Larry Calabrese was high man with 21. Harold Putnam of Clarkson scored 19 points.

Colgate's Red Raiders provided an easy 73-62 win for host Lafayette in Easton, Pa. Bob Kauffman led the Leopards with 26 points. Colgate's Bob Duffy scored 16. The Raiders are 2-4.

Co-Captains

BOSTON (AP) —Quarterback Tom Daubney of Tonawanda, N. Y., and fullback Charlie Meadows of Newark, N. J., have been named co-captains of the 1962 Boston University football team.

Daubney was reserve quarterback behind Jackie Farland this season.

The selection was announced Thursday.

College Rivals Click for Steers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Bridges of Kansas and Larry Comley of Kansas State were the bitterest of rivals in the Big Eight Conference last season, but putting them together on a pro team has made a winning combination.

Bridges hit for 22 points and Comley for 30 Thursday night as the Kansas City Steers, best team in the new Amedican Basketball League, whipped Cleveland 112-104 for the ninth straight victory and 17th in 20 games.

No. 9 in the winning streak came in the opener of a doubleheader at Pittsburgh and the Cleveland loss set things up nicely for the host Pittsburgh Rens in the second game.

The Rens, with league scoring leader Connie Hawkins scoring 31 points, whipped Chicago 119-106 and cut Cleveland's Eastern Division lead to 1½ games.

The Steers, with an 18-5 record, have a five-game lead oved Los Angeles, the runnerup in the Western Division.

Deadline Near For Gun Permits

The regional office of the New York State Conservation Department at Poughkeepsie announces that to date it has received a total of less than 1,000 requests for Permit Applications for the special Westchester shotgun season to be held January 15-19 and January 22-26.

Persons wishing to participate in this season are reminded that applications cannot be accepted if they are postmarked later than Dec. 31 and should be addressed to the NYSCD, 105 Dutchess Turnpike, Poughkeepsie.

Only persons who have not been successful during the 1961 Big Game Season may apply and they must send in their names, address and Big Game License Number, as well as enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Only one request is permitted in an envelope.

Persons wishing to participate in this season are urged to get their request in as soon as possible.

Robinson Again Leads Sluggers

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frank Robinson, hard-hitting outfielder of the pennant-winning Cincinnati Reds, won the National League slugging title for the second straight year, the official statistics revealed today.

Robinson, voted the circuit's most valuable player last month, collected 333 total bases in 545 times at bat for a .611 slugging mark. Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants was the runnerup with a .609 average.

Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves had the most total bases for the third consecutive season, 358, but finished third in the slugging competition with .594. He was followed by Willie Mays, San Francisco .584, Dick Stuart, Pittsburgh .581, George Altman, Chicago .560 and Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, the batting champion, .559.

Robinson was also the most feared batter in the league. He received the most intentional walks, 23.

Beverlee Mulligan's 701 Captures KWBA Sweeper

Beverlee Mulligan of Rosendale a 132 average bowler rolled a 701 gross triple to capture first prize in the second annual Kingston Woman's Bowling Association Charity Sweepstakes.

She rolled a 539 scratch series and had 162 handicap in the Chalet Pioneer League at Rosendale.

Kay Stewart, a 130 average shooter, was runnerup with 685 gross. She hit 517 in the wood with 179-190-148 in the IBM Feather League.

Thirty five of the 40 affiliated KWBA leagues competed in the tournament which hit a total of 596 entries, double that of last year. All entries automatically qualified as members of the Cheer and Sympathy Fund.

Fifty per cent of the $596.00 in entry fees was donated to the Cheer and Sympathy Fund. Seventy per cent of the remaining $298.00 went to seven charity organizations. The 62 prize winning bowlers shared 30 per cent of the total kitty. The breakdown in prizes was not announced.

Sharing in the donations were the Ulster County Community Chest, American Red Cross, Ulster County Heart Chapter, National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, Cancer Association, Bowlers Victory Legion.

Maris Rejects First Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees have failed in their first attempt to sign home run king Roger Maris, but both General Manager Roy Hamey and the slugging outfielder indicate there will be no problems next time they get together.

Maris left for his home in Raytown, Mo., today after what was described as an "amiable session" with Hamey. Reportedly, Maris, 27, who rapped 61 homers for the world champs last season and won his second straight most valuable player award, asked for $75,000—double his 1961 salary of $37,500.

Hamey is believed to have countered with an offer of between $60,000 and $65,000.

It's expected Maris will "settle" for something approximating $60,000 when he returns here late in January, just before the baseball writers' dinner on Jan. 28.

"It was an amiable session," said Hamey, who Wednesday signed Mickey Mantle for $82,000 —the second highest contract in Yankee history, topped only by Joe DiMaggio's $100,000 in 1951. "There shouldn't be any trouble. Maris will return next month for banquet appearances and we'll renew our negotiations. Our meeting was friendly and we discussed each other's viewpoints."

"It was a good meeting," said Roger. "I told Roy I'll be back next month to talk some more."

New England Teams Routed in Hockey

Two Upstate New York college hockey teams walloped visiting New England opponents Thursday night.

Rensselaer Poly shut out Boston University, 8-0, while St. Lawrence University drubbed Middlebury, 13-2.

It was the first shutout for RPI, which is now 4-2. BU is 2-2.

RPI goalie Stu Benton stopped 16 shots. Jim Josephson, John Chicarelli and Trevor Kaye scored two goals each for RPI. BU goalie Glen Eberly busied himself with 33 saves.

At Canton, the Larries' also had double-scoreds: Rollie Anderson, Ron Mason, Pat Shea and Arlie Parker. Dates Fryberger scored a pair for the Vermonters. Middlebury is 1-4-1.

The Larries, now 7-3, don't play against until the Eastern Confedence tournament in New York City Dec. 21-22. They are defending champions.

Dick Frankenfield Slams 682

Dick Frankenfield, a newcomer in the Herculese League, cracked a tremendous 682 Thursday night to set an all-time individual series record for the industrial circuit.

Frankenfield powered games of 221, 257 and 204 for the record breaker. The holder of the former mark was not identified.

Old Pro John Ferraro stepped out in front with a 651 slam on lines of 201, 214 and 236 in the Invitational Classic. Runnerup was secretary George Glaser, who opened with a fine 268 and followed with 174-208.

Red Wing Coach Admits Breaks

DETROIT (AP) — The breaks—"We've been getting them and that's the story of our success," said Coach Sid Abel of the suddenly hot Detroit Red Wings.

The Wings have recovered from a severe chill that had them near the National Hockey League's basement in November and become a sizzling sextet closing in on the leaders.

Detroit trounced the Boston Bruins 5-0 Thudsday night and stretched its winning streak to five games, four victories and a tie.

"It makes such a difference when the breaks start coming your way," said Abel after Detroit had increased its fourth-place lead to three points over idle Chicago.

The Wings have climbed four points behind thidd-place New York and are nine points distant from second-place Toronto.

Norm Ullman scored twice and Gordie Howe, Bruce MacGregor and Eddie Litzenberger were the other marksmen in Thursday night's only NHL contest.

Rate Calderwood And Hank Even

DETROIT (AP) — Chic Calderwood and Henry Hank are dated even-money in their scheduled 10-round fight here tonight —and their weights might be almost as close by fight time.

Calderwood, British Empire lightheavyweight champion, must not weigh in today (12 noon EST) at more than 176. Hank, Detroit's sixth-ranked middleweight contender, said several weeks ago that he expected to make about 166.

But Hank is known as a man who likes to eat and one who is outgrowing the middleweight division. Since his manager, Harry Baxter, says he has put Hank on his own as far as his weight is concerned, Hank could weight a lot closer to 176.

Calderwood, from Glasgow, Scotland, has won 31 of 33 fights. Hank shows 49 victories and 12 losses.

Judge, 2 Enter Innocent Pleas In Court Fix

NEW YORK (AP) —State Supreme Court Justice J. Vincent Keogh and two co-defendants in a $35,000 court fix case pleaded innocent Thursday in Federal Court.

Another defendant, Dr. Robert M. Erdman, described by the government as go-between in the fix attempt, is scheduled for arraignment today.

Pleading with Keogh, before Judge Lloyd F. MacMahon, were Elliott Kanaher, former chief asst. U.S. attorney in Brooklyn, and Sanford J. Moore.

Keogh and Kahaner were freed without bail. No trial date was set.

Moore, former city policeman who turned juke box operator and was one of the defendants in a bankruptcy case — crux of the present case—now is serving a three-year prison sentence for fraud.

Keogh and Kahaner are accused by the government of splitting $35,000 raised in behalf of three defendants in the bankruptcy case, who hoped that intercession by the judge and Kahaner would result in a suspended sentence.

Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo, a racketeer whom the government said helped raise the $35,000, pleaded innocent on Dec. 7, day of the indictment. He is free in $50,000 bail.

Tax Men Seize $37,000, Arrest 128 in Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — Internal Revenue Service agents have made 128 arrests and seized $37,000 in cash in a series of coordinated gambling raids across the country.

The raids were described as the revenue service's headquarters as part of a drive on organized crime. They were conducted Thursday by the service's intelligence division.

The targets were establishments such as horse-betting parlors which had failed to pay the required federal tax on their gambling operations.

Raids were made in 22 principal cities and a number of smaller towns in 18 states.

Kiwanis Inducts Eight Members

Empasizing the theme "Build Responsible Citizenship," members of the Kingston Kiwanis Education Committee inducted eight new members into the local service club at the regular weekly luncheon meeting Thursday.

Listed as new members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club are Donald M. Murphy, the Rev. John H. Frenssen, William B. Fairley Jr., William C. Landman, the Rev. David C. Gaise, Michael Aronica, Michael J. Ludgate and Henry V. Fallerman.

The induction of new members was under the direction of Dr. Julius I. Gifford who spoke on "True Friendship." Following this, Attorney Roger H. Loughran presented the history, rules, and regulations of Kiwanis International, and William Leehive presented the new members with their Kiwanis kits and aprons—the latter to be signed personally by each member of the local club.

Capital Hopeful Of Early Accord In Congo Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hopes ran high in Washington today for a peaceful solution of the Congo dispute.

The hopes depended on acceptance by Katanga President Moise Tshombe of an offer which the White House press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said President Kennedy sent to Tshombe Thursday night.

Kennedy's letter may be made public today.

Tshombe Willing

U.S. authorities regarded as a potential major breakthrough in the Congo muddle a cable which Tshombe sent Kennedy Thursday.

Informants said Tshombe indicated a willingness to negotiate with Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula and—as reported by the Brussels radio—asked Kennedy to "appoint a worthy negotiator and stop immediately this useless bloodshed."

Kennedy personally moved into the ensuing diplomatic maneuvering. While Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, cleared moves with acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant in New York, Kennedy notified Adoula and named the U.S. Ambassador in the Congo, Edmund Gullion, as his personal representative in the Congo situation.

Kennedy's proposal to Tshombe was said to be sufficiently precise about getting negotiations with Adoula under way so that Tshombe could not pull out of the negotiations while taking advantage of a U.N. cease-fire.

Cease-Fire Automatic

U.S. sources figured Adoula would be agreeable to meeting Tshombe if Tshombe accepts.

These sources said a cease-fire by the U.N. troops in Katanga would be virtually automatic once Tshombe went into negotiations with Adoula. They said the U.N. military position is now relatively secure and negotiations by Congo leaders on forming a Congo-wide government had been a primary U.N. objective.

Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, in setting forth the U.S. position Wednesday, said the United Nations should use force only to the extent necessary to achieve its "limited objective."

3 Bookies Held Upstate as Agents Sweep Country

d4 zzcu v gg15

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—Three men were arrested by federal agents in raids on alleged bookie establishments here as part of a nationwide crackdown.

LeRoy Echols, 48, William Mosley, 52, and Percy Taylor, 58, all of Saratoga Springs, were arrested by Internal Revenue agents Thursday. The agents said the men were the proprietors of the establishments.

Taylor was released in $500 bail after arraignment before U.S. Commissioner Bender Solomon in Albany on a charge of failing to register as a gambler. The other two were held in Albany County jail in lieu of $500 bail after arraignment on the same charge.

Hearings for the men, all Negroes, were set for Jan. 17.

No customers were present when the raids were made. The agents said a total of $556 and hundrds of policy and horse bet slips were seized at the three places.

Expect Second Child

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lindsay Crosby and his wife Barbara announced Thursday they expect a second child next June. Their son David is 15 months old.

EMPLOYMENT

NOTICE TO JOB APPLICANTS
The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept help wanted advertisements from employers covered by the Federal Wage-Hour Law if they offer less than legal minimum wages. Beginning September 3, 1961, employees engaged in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce must be paid not less than $1.15 an hour and at least time and one-half for hours worked after 40 in a workweek, unless specifically exempt. Employees of certain large retail, service, construction, and other enterprises must be paid not less than $1.00 an hour after September 3, 1961, but no overtime for such employment is required until September 3, 1963. If you are offered less by covered employers, or if you have questions concerning this law or other activities of the U. S. Department of Labor, call or write the Department's local office at Bronx: Abraham Klainbard, Investigation Supr., 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y. WYandotte 2-1235.

Shuman Elected To New Term by U.S. Farm Bureau

CHICAGO (AP)—A militant foe of big government will continue to lead the influential American Farm Bureau Federation in efforts to get Uncle Sam out of farming.

He is Charles B. Shuman, a stock and grain farmer of Sullivan, Ill. The federation's convention, which ended Thursday, reelected him president, a post he has held since 1954.

Shuman's re-election was accompanied by convention adoption of resolutions that put the farm organization on record opposing a supply - management, farm-commodity control program, which Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman had asked it to support in a speech before delegates.

The federation leader, who says he is proud to be a conservative, had told the same delegates that he considered federal regulation of agriculture and farm subsidies to be a violation of "God's pattern" for mankind as well as detrimental to farmers' economic well-being.

Shuman and his organization said government aid to agriculture should be in the fields of research, information, regulatory actions and the "creation of a favorable economic climate" for the nation's private enterprise system.

He said government invariably fails when it attempts to guarantee prices or income for farmers.

Cold Will Ease Some on Sunday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 p.m. today through 7 p.m. Wednesday:

Eastern New York — Cold through Saturday, gradually moderating Sunday through Monday followed by another cold period Tuesday night and Wednesday. Temperatures averaging around or just below normal. Snow flurries through Saturday with heavy squalls east and southeast of Lake Ontario. Another period of precipitation one-half inch or less.

Western New York—Temperatures will average 2-5 degrees below normal. Warmer late Saturday and on Sunday, colder Tuesday and Wednesday. Precipitation will average one-fourth to one-half inch melted as occasional periods of snow next week.

Temperature normals—Daytime highs 28-38. Nighttime lows 10-22.

DRAINAGE WORK AT TIMBERLAKE — A project to remedy the drainage problems of Timberlake Estates, a housing development near Shultis Corners in the Town of Saugerties, is now underway. A. E. Davis of West Hurley was the low bidder for the project. Funds for the work will come from a $2,800 performance bond posted by housing developer, Allen Green. The town refused to accept a deed for the development street, Osnas Lane, because, according to the Town Board, the builder failed to meet town highway specifications. Additional sections of 18-inch pipe are being installed under the road (foreground) to improve drainage through an underground drainage ditch (dotted line). (Lipgar Studio photo).

Will Ask Solons To Shift Role In School Funds

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The 1962 Legislature reportedly will be asked to give the State Education Department a larger role in the spending of state money by local school districts.

The Joint Legislative Committee on School Financing, it was reported here Thursday, will make the proposal, which could affect virtually all of the functions of a local school board if it provided for strict control over how state aid is spent.

The phraseology of the plan could not be learned.

A recommendation that the state give local school districts aid for capital construction if also reportedly being considered by the committee, known as the Diefendorf Committee.

Two alternate proposals to widen the base of the school tax load are also reportedly under consideration by the committee. One would permit adjoining counties to impose a tax for school purposes jointly. The other, a county-wide school tax to replace individual district taxes, would distribute the costs of education more equally among large, rich districts and small, poor ones.

Announce Disciplinary Against Two Licensees

Disciplinary action against two Ulster County licensees for violations of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law was announced today by the State Liquor Authority, New York City.

The hotel liquor license of Guild Management Inc., Route 9W, Marlboro was cancelled with bond claim, effective November 29. The violations were: Permitting a person not mentioned in the license to avail himself of the license; ceased to conduct a bona fide hotel; maintained and operated more than one stand-up bar on the licensed premises.

The restaurant liquor license of John L. Sharot of 30 Foxhall Avenue, Kingston was suspended for seven days beginning January 8 to January 15, 1962 for sale of alcoholic beverages during prohibited hours. There was no contest in either action.

10-20 Term Facing Youth in Killing

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 21-year-old Boston youth awaits sentencing Jan. 3 for first-degree manslaughter in the beating of a Minneapolis chemist here last August.

David Glover pleaded guilty Thursday to the charge, which had been reduced from second degree murder. He faces a possible jail term of 10 to 20 years.

The chemist, 26-year-old Donald F. Moran, was found beaten to death in his downtown hotel room. He had been employed by General Mills Inc.

Egyptians smeared asphalt on mummy wrappings to aid the embalming process.

5 Children Die In Ontario Fire

WATERFORD, Ont. (AP)—Five children died early today when fire broke out in their home in this town 15 miles south of Brantford. Two other children escaped.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Huffman were Janet, 12, Robert, 11, Archie, 7, Patricia, 4, and Glenford, 18 months.

Nancy, 9, and Richard, 6, were found unharmed on the front porch.

Police said the children may have suffocated since the kitchen, where the blaze is believed to have broken out, is near the children's bedroom.

Killed in Crash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Jerome L. Gibbons, 23, of nearby Grand Island, was killed today when his automobile smashed into a cement abutment at the end of a road on the island.

YOU CAN'T
HEAT YOUR HOUSE WITH THE WINDOWS OPEN

No! And it's mighty hard to keep your house warm when heat is constantly escaping through the walls and roof, too. Walls and ceilings can leak like a sieve —when not insulated.

ROCK WOOL insulation literally puts a blanket around your house and holds the heat in— just as surely as in the sweltering summer days, it holds the heat out.

You'll find that the money you save on fuel alone will soon cover the cost of having ROCK WOOL installed. And you can arrange to pay for this installation in convenient payments, if you wish.

E-J Is Hopeful Of Future, No Stock Payment

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — The chairman of the board of Endicott Johnson Corp. has indicated he is not pessimistic about the shoe company's future, despite a decision to omit a quarterly dividend on preferred stock for the first time in the firm's history.

Frank A. Johnson said Thursday night he didn't think the failure to pay the dividend "meant anything specific."

"We will continue to do as we have been doing," he said.

The company's board of directors voted unanimously yesterday to omit the $1 per share quarterly dividend, payable Jan. 1, 1962, on the company's 4 per cent cumulative preferred stock.

In a letter to holders of the stock, the company said the move was one of a series of drastic steps to conserve cash.

The company paid $289,520 in dividends in 1960 on 72,380 shares of preferred stock.

The firm lost an estimated $1.5 million in 1960 as sales declined to $145 million from a high in 1951 of $15 million.

Endicott Johnson employes saved the firm's present management early this year from losing control to the Glen Alden Corp., a holding company. Glen Alden attempted to purchase a major portion of Endicott Johnson stock.

Sentenced for Slaying

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) —A 39-year-old man has received a 3½ to 10 year sentence for first-degree manslaughter in a rifle slaying over a dice game.

Isaac Harris was sentenced Thursday in Erie County Court.

The charge against him in the death of Thomas J. Williams had been reduced from first-degree murder.

Harris, who was convicted last April, will serve his term in Attica State Prison.

20 Children Dead, 13 Hospitalized

School Bus Driver Says He's Quite Sure of Crossing Stop

GREELEY, Colo. (AP)—Colorado officials searched today for the cause of the school bus-train collision that killed 20 children Thursday.

The Colorado Highway Safety Council was investigating the possibility that overloading and poor visibility may have contributed to the accident. The council's executive secretary, Merf Evans, said in a report to Atty. Gen. Duke Dunbar that "ninety per cent of all school buses in Colorado are overloaded."

Train Was Late

Thirteen children are in a hospital. Four others among the 37 children aboard were treated and released. The driver, Duane Harms, 22, suffered minor injuries and shock.

They were in a late model, 60-passenger bus sliced apart at 8:05 a.m. by the Union Pacific's 16-car passenger train, City of Denver, at a rural crossing near here.

The streamliner, 90 minutes late because of Christmas baggage delays en route from Chicago to Denver, was traveling 79 miles an hour. Railroad officials said that was normal speed.

Herbert F. Sommers, 64, a Union Pacific engineer for 22 years, said the bus did not stop at the crossing, marked by wooden crossarms and a road sign.

Drove in Front: Engineer

"He stepped on the gas and drove right in front of the train," Sommers said.

Harms, a school bus driver since last September, said "I think I did (stop). Well, I'm quite sure, because I usually do."

Fireman Melvin C. Swanson, 48, said "I thought he (Harms) was going to stop—hoping he was going to stop. Then he drove right in front of the train."

Jerry Hembry, 16, a bus passenger, said, "The bus stopped and then started up again."

Colorado law requires a school bus driver to stop within 50 feet, but not less than 10 feet from the nearest rail, look and listen for trains.

Section Hurled 192 Feet

State patrolmen said the diesel locomotive struck the rear of the bus near the dual wheels. Those wheels and four rear seats were dragged 455 feet down the railroad. The main section of the bus was hurled 192 feet.

Sommers said he applied the emergency brakes about 50 to 75 feet before the impact. The train traveled about a mile beyond the crossing.

Sommers said he began sounding the locomotive horn about 500 to 600 feet before the crossing.

"You could look down in the bus and could see the windows were slightly frosted," Sommers said. The crash occurred in 10-degree weather. The gravel road was clear of a recent three-inch snow.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Karl Ahlborn said Harms' statement said the bus windows were slightly frosted or steamed but the windshield defroster was operating.

The bus had picked up about two-thirds of its normal load before the crash. The pupils attend the Delta Elementary, Meeker Junior High and Greeley high schools.

President Steps Up Viet Aid

Troops Not Part Of Defense Help

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today ordered increased assistance for the defenses of South Viet Nam in its desperate efforts to repel Communist aggression from the North.

Government officials said this will not mean sending any American combat troops to Viet Nam.

Kennedy acted in response to an appeal from President Ngo Dinh Diem of the Vietnamese Republic.

Diem said his country "now faces what is perhaps the gravest crisis in its long history" and "We must have further assistance from the United States if we are to win the war now being waged against us."

Gravest Crisis: Diem

Diem said the forces of international communism which are arrayed against his country are "more than we can meet with the resources at hand."

Kennedy reacted with word that: "We shall promptly increase our assistance to your defense effort as well as help relieve the obstruction of the floods which you describe. I have already given the orders to get these programs under way."

The exchange of messages between the two presidents was made public simultaneously here and in Saigon.

Diplomats Doubt Early Cease-Fire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —A U.N. spokesman said today U.N. forces launched a major operation against Katanga forces in Elisabethville Thursday night and that its "first objective" was successfully achieved.

This word came as U.N. diplomats expressed belief no cease-fire is likely soon between the United Nations and secessionist Katanga despite the intervention by President Kennedy.

Movement Freedom Aim

The spokesman said the U.N. operation was launched at 10 p.m. Elisabethville time.

"Our first objective was reached successfully last night and we have suffered no casualties," said a terse message received at U.N. headquarters.

The spokesman said this was the operation for which the U.N. forces were preparing to achieve its aim of restoring freedom of moement of U.N. personnel and assuring law and order in the Katanga capital. There have been a steady stream of U.N. reinforcements pouring into the city to bulwark the U.N. force for that effort.

Feel JFK to Back Thant

U.N. diplomats predicted Kennedy would back up Acting Secretary-General U Thant's determination to continue the U.N. military action until Katanga President Moise Tshombe shows a readiness to negotiate in good faith for a unified Congo.

The White House was scheduled to release today Kennedy's reply to a plea from Tshombe to intervene to end the fighting. Tshombe said he was ready to negotiate with Premier Cyrille Adoula of the central Congo government and asked Kennedy to name a negotiator.

Suggests Precise Course

It was understood the President had suggested a precise course for Tshombe to follow to get negotiations under way, to make sure that secession-minded Katanga would not be able to reverse his course should an agreement to talk bring a cease-fire.

The President named the U.S. ambassador in the Congo, Edmund Gullion, as his personal representative in the Katanga situation.

(In Brussels, a Belgian senator said Tshombe had sent him word that he is ready to meet Adoula for political talks as soon as possible in a neutral French African nation provided Senegal President Leopold Senghor is mediator.

Will Meet Today

Thant, who has a two-day-old cease-fire appeal from Britain, called a meeting this afternoon of his 18-nation Congo advisory committee, which is dominated by Asians and Africans. The committee was expected to advise the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Jewish Exterminator Still 'Block of Ice'

Appeal Proceedings Started After Eichmann Death Ruling

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann, Nazi Germany's expediter of Jews to the gas chambers, was sentenced today to hang in Israel for "a crime of unparalleled enormity."

Moshe Landau, president of the special three-man Israeli court which tried and convicted the former Gestapo colonel, intoned: "This court sentences Adolf Eichmann to death for crimes against the Jewish people, crimes against humanity and war crimes."

Courtroom Packed

Eichmann, now 55 and balding, stood stiffly erect for 15 minutes while the tribunal first gave its reasons and then condemned him to the gallows. Six hundred persons packing the courtroom were deathly silent throughout the brief session, then filed out with hardly a sound.

Still the "block of ice" Jewish survivors of the Nazi pogrom called him, Eichmann never even gulped visibly. He quieted the facial nervous twitch evident during the trial, and his hands hung loose and unclenched by his side.

Eichmann, who had scornfully refused to plead for mercy before the sentence was pronounced, was told he has 10 days to file notice of appeal with the court and an additional five days to draft his reasons.

Chief defense counsel Dr. Robert L. Servatius from West Germany was advised if he felt the time given him was too short, he could ask the president of the Supreme Court or his deputy for an extension.

Clemency Still One Hope

Dr. Servatius, already at work on Eichmann's appeal, told the court: "Thank you for the guidance and I shall think it over."

Decision on the appeal is not expected before March. If it goes against Eichmann, he can apply to Israeli President Izhak Ben-Zvi for clemency.

Eichmann is the first Nazi to be tried in this state which holds itself as the protector of all Jews in the world.

Schwenk Will Use Own Judgment on Urban Plan Here

Mayor-elect John J. Schwenk, after being briefed Thursday night on the city's urban renewal program, said today he hoped it would "prove to be an effective tool for achievement of the goals which I set forth during the recent campaign" for the mayoral election.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel called the meeting to outline urban renewal for the benefit of the mayor-elect, newly elected aldermen and others.

Is Making Study

"I intend to approach the urban renewal program in the light of my own plans for the future growth of Kingston," Schwenk said.

As to specific project possibilities, he said, "I am now in the process of studying the material, and I intend to have further meetings. I found last night's meeting with Raymond & May Associates in the mayor's office very informative. It was the first time I had been provided with any information on the progress of the program and the tentative time schedule, and I hope it will be an effective tool for achievement of the goals which I set forth during the recent campaign."

Those at Meeting

Among those at the meeting were Attorney Harry Gold who is to be corporation counsel, David A. Ornstein, Daniel Shuster and Arthur Sweid, of Raymond and May; Elmore C. Yallum, local planning board chairman; John R. Shults Jr., a member of the board; Alexander Yosman, director of Colonial Gardens; Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, four aldermen-elect and several present members of the Common Council, and others.

Business Boom, Jobs Forecast For Coming Year

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—The United States will have its biggest business boom in history in 1962, says the president of Sales and Marketing Executives International.

Leland F. Lyons, who also is vice president of the New York Life Insurance Co., said Thursday production and sales on a national level will increase 7 per cent for all goods and services and unemployment will show a great decrease.

Lyons said his estimates and opinions are based on personal observations and business and industrial surveys.

Governor Plans To Force N.Y. to Control Own Rents

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —Gov. Rockefeller was on the offensive today in a longstanding political battle with a plan to force New York City to establish and administer its own rent-control program.

The state now enforces rent-control laws in New York City, where Democrats have charged repeatedly in political campaigns that present laws favor landlords at the expense of tenants.

Republicans have denied the charges but, at the same time, have been concerned over their political impact. Rockefeller will seek re-election next year and his rent-control proposal appeared to be a long-range move toward eliminating a potential political problem.

Chamber Banquet Slated Jan. 29, College Is Theme

The annual banquet of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will take place on Monday, Jan. 29.

In making this announcement today Banquet Committee Chairman John W. Egbert stated that Dr. Thomas H. Hamilton of Albany, president of the State University, will be the speaker. The establishment of a Community College will be the principal theme of the banquet.

The election of 1962 officers of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce will take place on January 9. The new officers and directors will be presented at the banquet on January 29. Additional details will be announced later. However, chairman Egbert stated, "Because of the intense public interest in the establishment of a Community College, as shown in the November referendum, the public will be invited to attend the banquet."

Wilson Reports Many Watersheds Need Attention

The Temporary State Commission on Water Resources Planning of which Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County is a member met Thursday at Hilton Inn, Tarrytown to plan legislation for further statewide resources review and planning.

Assemblyman Wilson said some 250 persons from Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Rockland, Putnam and Westchester Counties were in attendance.

At a morning session, he said it was pointed out that 128 of the more than 200 watershed areas of the state need action of some sort. Included are water conservation, control of water pollution and flood control. Wilson added that while recreational requirements will be considered, an item of prime importance is a study of how pleasure boats contribute to pollution of the state's water.

Community College Is Not Likely To Become Operative Until 1963

A Community College in Ulster County in all probabilities cannot become operative until September of 1963, Dean Paul V. Orvis of the State University of New York told the Ulster County Board of Supervisors Thursday night.

Dean Orvis told the board that final approval for establishment of the college had been granted and he read the resolution of approval, commenting "now you are in business."

Caution in proceeding with the establishment of the college was suggested by Dean Orvis, who outlined the procedure which begins with the naming of five trustees by the board of supervisors and four by the governor. He suggested the board take action by naming the five trustees but said it probably would be two or three months before Governor Rockefeller would name the other four.

Once the trustees are named, Dean Orvis said the next step would be the selection of a president, meanwhile the trustees should consider an appropriate site.

Deals With Costs

Dean Orvis said the probable cost of operating a college would be around $75,000 a year as a county charge, with perhaps additional costs during the early stages for equipment, etc.

As to the salary of a president, Dean Orvis said that would vary from $16,000 upwards but he stated in all probability a man suitable to the local needs would demand a salary of $18,000.

Existing sites which might be approved, Dean Orvis said should be given consideration and he said in most instances Community Colleges had started in temporary structures, pending "development of the technical program to meet local needs." Once the board of trustees and the president had determined the "over-all needs" of the community a new campus and suitable buildings could be planned.

Must Fix Courses First

Until a definite decision was made as to what courses are to be included in the college program, Dean Orvis said it was difficult to determine what type of buildings would be required. For this reason most community colleges are established in existing quarters and expand or build as a program of courses is determined.

Dean Orvis was granted the floor on motion of Supervisor Roy J. Webber (R), Marbletown, chairman of the Community College committee.

There are 19 community colleges in the states, six agricultural-technical institutes, and there are four more in the process of establishment, including Ulster County's.

Will Take Time

Dean Orvis suggested that as soon as trustees are named, they proceed with the selection of a site and look around for a suitable president. Since this would take time, perhaps several months, he predicted that it would be September 1963 before the college could become operative. If a new building is planned the 1963 opening date probably (Continued on Page 6, Col. 1)

Motion to Shift County Bureaus Downtown Tabled

Use of the Cornell Building at 22 Ferry Street, purchased by the county some time ago for $25,000 and still unused, again came before the board of supervisors Thursday night, blowing up a storm to mar an otherwise peaceful session.

Supervisor John Glennon, (D), 13th ward, brought the storm clouds overhead when from the floor he offered a resolution calling for the naming of a three-man committee, one of which shall be the chairman, to oversee the conversion of the building to use by some county departments at a cost of $5,000 for renovations.

The teeth in the resolution were contained in a provision that when the renovations are completed the three-man committee has power to choose and "order" use of the building by such department or departments as the committee selects.

The resolution offered by Glennon with six other downtown Democratic supervisors, was tabled by an 18 to 13 vote, Republican supervisors opposing. Sponsors of the resolution were Supervisor Glennon, 13th ward; Richard Hinkley, Eighth ward; Michael Ward Jr., seventh ward; Francis Vertitis, Third ward; John J. Lucci, Fifth ward; Peter F. Simpson, Sixth ward.

Supervisor Glennon said the building could be "fixed up" for one or two departments by expenditure of about $5,000 and then other departments could follow.

Supervisor Jesse McHugh (R), majority leader said $5,000 would not even put the heater in shape. He said studies had been made of the building and costs of renovation. He called attention to the fact the Coast Guard was demanding the dock at the rear be repaired and said some $6,000 had already been spent and the return this far on the $25,000 investment has been $80 a month rental. He said the committee had been trying to "get something down there" but he pre- (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Kennedy Visit Can Be Test Of His Alliance Program

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — President Kennedy's weekend visit to Venezuela and Colombia may turn out to be a significant test for his Alliance for Progress.

If the trip is a notable success, prospects for the alliance will seem brighter. The prospects evidently need brightening. Outside the United States the alliance often is regarded, even by its friends, as a far from hopeful attempt to wipe out Latin America's past through voluntary reforms—overnight.

The Kennedy trip is limited to the two South American nations whose governments are among the best friends of the United States. He is to confer with perhaps the most courageous of all the democratic leaders in Latin America: Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela and Alberto Lleras Camargo of Colombia.

Both men are butts of violent Communist-Castroist attack. Both have broken diplomatic relations with Havana. Both are betting they can hold off an explosion on the left. Each is staking his future on the hope that the Alliance for Progress will become a positive reality.

These are men Fidel Castro repeatedly taunts with names like miserable traitor, imperialist lackey, and far worse. It seems safe to say that in all Latin America, Castro hates no men more.

In Colombia, the President will attend a ceremony inaugurating a program to be carried out with significant U.S. financial participation: The construction of 13,000 houses in Bogota for the labor and middle classes and the construction of 22,000 classrooms.

Merchants Across Nation Are Doing Record Seasonal Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — Shoppers' dollars are falling like snowflakes into cash registers as the Christmas buying season swirls toward what may be an all-time record.

Merchants across the country generally report that crowds started jamming the stores on the day after Thanksgiving day and have kept coming.

A trend toward buying fallout shelter equipment as household gifts was noted by some merchants.

"It's wonderful!" chortled Joe Falk, owner of a big Kansas City toy store. "People are looser with their money than last year. They are buying the good stuff and don't care what they have to spend."

In some areas, however, buying was about on a par with last year or a little lower. Apprehension over the international situation and anxiety over further call-up of reserves made some people cautious about heavy buying.

The United States Chamber of Commerce predicted Americans would spend $23 billion this Christmas, up 4 per cent from record 1960. The National Retail Merchants Association forecast a 2 per cent gain.

An Associated Press survey of merchants in major cities indicated that in most areas people are buying more and better merchandise, have lost much of the caution that marked their shopping last year and are splurging somewhat on luxuries.

Merchants feel that general business improvement is reflected in the attitude of their customers.

Prices are generally holding close to last year with increased competition from discount houses being a factor.

FPC Rules Gas May Be Brought In From Canada

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Power Commision has authorized the importation of a limited amount of natural gas from Canada at a point near Niagara Falls, N.Y.

The commission's action Thursday reversed two earlier decisions by Examiner Harry W. Frazee, who had denied the proposed importation on ground the company had failed to show it was required.

Permission was given Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., Houston, to import the gas on an uninterruptible basis. The commission said the supplemental source of gas would benefit customers over Tennessee's entire system, particularly in Northern New York and New England.

The company had asked permission to import a maximum of 204 million cubic feet of gas daily. The commission, however, limited daily volume to 26.9 million cubic feet during the summer storage injection season and 28.5 million cubic feet during the winter heating season.

The gas will be purchased from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd., Calgary, Alberta, at an existing interconnection of the two systems.

Ex-Cop Admits Slaying Off Duty Officer in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—A recently retired policeman admitted today he shot and killed an off-duty policeman Thursday night when the off-duty officer tried to stop him after a holdup, police said.

Detective Lt. Michael Willis said that Arthur Parker, 39, of Teaneck, N.J., broke under questioning and admitted shooting Hugh W. Willoughby, 35, of Manhattan.

Police quoted Parker as saying he robbed a store of $35 and a bottle of whisky shortly before midnight Thursday. Willoughby, in civilian clothes, stepped into the store and storeowner, Nicholas Ferrante, told of being robbed.

Willoughby took after the robber and caught him 60 feet away, but was shot before he could bring him in.

Police said Parker told the district attorney's office that he did not know that Willoughby was a policeman.

Parker is a Negro, as was Willoughby.

Kennedys Leave, Show No Concern About Protests

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and his wife took off today on the first leg of a flying weekend visit t oVenezuela and Colombia to point up U.S. pledges of aid for Latin-American development.

As they boarded their plane, the President and First Lady were smiling and apparently unconcerned about protest demonstrations in Venezuela—some of them violent—against their visit.

To Caracas Saturday

The presidenial jet lifted at 12:14 p.m. EST from Andrews Air Force Base, Md., bound for San Juan, Puerto Rico, and an overnight stop.

Saturday the presidential party, which includes several U.S. officials will fly on to Caracas, the Venezuelan capital, scene of armed anti-U.S. outbreaks in recent days. On Sunday, the Kennedys will go on to Bogota, Colombia.

This is Kennedy's first trip to Latin America as president. The aim is to dramatize the Alliance for Progress, his 10-year, $20 billion program for economic and social advancement in the nations to the south.

The official view is that the "Kennedy no" demonstrations are actions of radical minorities which will be controlled by stable governments and overwhelmed in a popular welcome.

Talks With Johnson

Shortly before Kennedy left the White House, it was disclosed he had talked by telephone with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who is in Texas, and had arranged for Johnson to be kept posted on all matters of importance while the President is away.

But officials said no significance was to be attached to this in relation o the anti-U.S. demonstrations.

Before taking off for the 1,725-mile flight to San Juan, the President shook hands with the dean of the diplomatic corps, Ambassador Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa of Nicaragua and representatives of the embassies of Venezuela and Colombia.

In Puerto Rico the Kennedys will be overnight guests of Gov. and Mrs. Luis Munoz Marin.

NEW YORK (AP)—A man police said was friendly with both the Gallo rackets mob and their arch enemy was shot and critically wounded as he stood outside his Brooklyn candy store Thursday night.

Salvatore DeSimone, 57, was hit in the chest and left thigh as he stood in front of the store. Police said he has a record for policy and attempted bribery of officers.

DeSimone was rushed to Methodist Hospital by his son and nephew. Police said he would give no details of the shooting, not even whether the shots were fired from a car.

King Bids JFK Proclaim 2nd Emancipation Decree

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The Re. Martin Luther King Jr. has appealed to President Kennedy for a 'second emancipation proclamation" to end segregation.

The Negro integration leader made his plea Thursday night after New Orleans officials canceled a Municipal Auditorium mass meeting he was to have addressed.

"You may cancel a meeting," King said, "but you can't cancel the date New Orleans and the South has with destiny. You can't cancel our determination the Negro has to be free in this day and age."

King, who said he would go today to the scene of mass Negro arrests in Albany, Ga., labeled charges he was an agitator as "trumped-up."

Thursday night's meeting was switched to a church, where about 1,000 persons gave King a standing ovation.

"The hour has come for the President of the United States to issue an executive order declaring segregation unconstitutional on the basis of the 14th Amendment," said King.

Negroes have been freed only of "physical" slavery, he said. King urged President Kennedy to complete the job with a second emancipation proclamation.

Motion to Shift

dicted that it would cost "another $25,000" to renovate the building.

McHugh moved to table the resolution. It was carried.

Another Discussion

Another matter which created discussion was a resolution by Supervisor Edwin C. Chase (R), Wawarsing to convey to the Congregation Tifereth Yehuda Ve Yisreal, Kerhonkson, a parcel of land adjoining the synagogue in Kerhonkson. The property was acquired from Woodrow W. Smith and wife by the county during realignment of County Road 77 several years ago. Located on Kerhonkson Hill in Town of Wawarsing, there remains a portion of the property now used for highway purposes. On it is located an abandoned house, which stands within four feet of the road.

Supervisor Chase's resolution called for transfer of the property to the Congregation, demolition of the building or removal of it for a distance of 25 feet from the highway within a year or the premises would revert to the county.

Chairman Robert F. Phinney (R), 11th ward objected on the grounds the county had paid $6,000 for the premises several years ago. He held it should bring quite a sum now.

Supervisor Chase stated that the house was vacant, in bad state of repairs and "no one would buy it" and he suggested it be disposed of to the Congregation for religious purposes.

Confusion reigned for a time after voting was begun over what the supervisors were voting for.

Supervisor James M. Rapp (R), first ward, moved to table, withdrew the motion, and the vote was completed. It war carried 24 in favor and two against, including Supervisor Phinney, and five abstained.

Approval Remains

During the discussion Supervisor McCardle (D), ninth ward, left to "look up the law" on procedure permitted during roll call. When he returned he moved to reconsider the vote but later withdrew that motion and approval of the Chase resolution remained.

Communications were read from the American Association of University Women, the Ulster County School Board Association submitting requests for naming trustees for the Community College and also a communication from Kiwanis Club suggesting the name of Harry Rigby Jr., as a trustee.

A renewal of contract with Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation for lighting the two parking lots in Kingston was approved.

Payment Deferred

Action on approval of final payment to Motorola for two-way radio was deferred until December 20. Supervisor Charles Relyea (R), Hurley, moved for final payment approval, Supervisor George Majestic (D), Gardiner, moved to table the resolution and Supervisor Gaffney (D), Lloyd suggested it be taken up at the next meeting. When Supervisor Alexander Banyo, (R) Ulster, a member of the committee stated it might be well to hold it over for additional checking, no vote was taken on the Relyea resolution and the matter went over to December 20.

The board will meet Tuesday, December 19, at 7:30 p. m. to hear public opinion on the 1962 budget. The next regular meeting will be subject to call of the chair.

U.N. Achieves

U.N. chief to stall off any cease-fire until the military campaign has achieved U.N. objectives.

But Thant told the British Thursday night that he has two envoys in the Congo trying to work out a political reconciliation between Katanga and the central Congo government in Leopoldville. They are U.N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche, an American, and U.N. political officer Robert Gardiner, a Ghanian.

U.N. objectives in Katanga, as stated by Thant Sunday, are freedom of action and freedom to carry out all U.N. resolutions on the Congo.

Objectives First

U.S. sources at the U.N. stressed that the United States position is still the same as it was Wednesday—when Undersecretary of State George W. Ball declared no cease-fire was feasible until the U.N. objectives had been achieved.

Some diplomats speculated that Tshombe might fear that his downfall is imminent in view of the buildup of U.N. military forces in Katanga and that he is now seeking a way out.

Tshombe's peace pleas represented an abrupt switch from a "poison arrow" speech he delivered in Elisabethville Wednesday night calling on the Katangan people to fight until death.

Wilson Reports

towns to conform to existing state water pollution orders similar to the one now in effect in such communities as Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Hudson and Catskill.

The afternoon session was informed that by 1975 the daily water needs of New York State will have risen to more than 25 billion gallons and at the present rate, these needs probably could not be met.

Dr. Morris Cohn, a member of the commission, explained that it is the duty of that body, acting in cooperation with local areas not only to protect present water resources from waste and pollution, but also to find new sources of supply. He added that a long range state aim is the proper storage of water in times of excess, for use in times of shortage.

Local Level Action

Other commission members pointed out that the Planning Act of 1959, now an integral part of the Conservation Law, acts as a broad basis for local and regional plans for specific water problems. These problems include use of water for domestic, agricultural, industrial and recreational needs as well as the fields of water pollution and flood control. It was explained that such planning would be on local, not state level with full approval of both legislative bodies and the people of every county involved.

James Harding, commissioner of public works in Westchester County, a member of the commission, discussed some of the work already accomplished in the six counties in the southeastern area. He said some study work has been done in all the counties, including Ulster County which has created a study commission. Harding, added, however, that Ulster is one of the few areas in the state where a plan for county-wide action apparently is not feasible because of the nature of its terrain.

Finds Much Pollution

At the close of the session, it was pointed out that needs of a water pollution program was recently demonstrated by a man who took a boat trip up the Hudson from New York City, through the state barge canal system through the Great Lakes and down the Mississippi River to New Orleans. With only one exception, Lake Huron, he said, none of the water covered was free from pollution.

Assemblyman Wilson is attending another meeting of the commission today in New York City.

Two Sides Meet To Write Pact For Mack Truck

NEW YORK (AP) — Company and union officials met with federal mediators to put on paper an oral agreement that ended a 44-day walkout by Mack Truck Co. workers in three states.

A spokesman for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said Thursday another meeting would be held early next week "to further explore matters which need a little more clarification."

The oral agreement was reached last Sunday, and the 4,000 strikers have returned to work.

The pact must be ratified by members of the seven striking locals of the United Auto Workers Union. Details of the agreement are expected to be announced later.

The strike of production, maintenance and office workers began Oct. 26 at the company's plant in Allentown, Pa., its Bridgewater plant at Somerville, N.J. and its Brockway plant at Cortland, N. Y.

Job security and the right of workers to transfer along with plants being moved were among the issues in the dispute over contract renewal.

Dutchess Widens Search for Man, Wreck Is Found

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—The finding of a wrecked, blood-stained automobile with no occupant led to a widening search today for the driver.

The car was registered to Richard E. Logan, 27, a construction worker, of Poughkeepsie, who has not been seen since Wednesday night.

A Civil Air Patrol plane was to join in the search in a rural, heavily wooded area near where the car was found Thursday morning.

Searchers presumed Logan was the driver. They expressed fear he might be wandering in shock from injuries or that he might have been a victim of foul play.

U.N. Ballot Due Late Today on Red China Seat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The General Assembly headed for a showdown vote today on Communist China's annual bid for United Nations membership. The United States was still confident the Reds would be kept out.

Balloting was expected late today on whether to give Nationalist China's seat in the world organization to the Peiping regime. The assembly for two weeks has debated the issue the United States had managed to keep on the shelf for 10 years.

Four votes were anticipated.

1. On a motion to give priority to a U.S. resolution declaring the China issue a question of substance requiring a two-thirds majority for adoption. But the priority resolution itself is procedural and requires only a simple majority for passage.

2. On the U.S. "substance" resolution itself, another procedural issue requiring only a simple majority.

3. On a neutralist amendment to give the Chinese seat to Peiping but to drop the Soviet demand for expulsion of the Nationalists.

4. On the Soviet resolution to expel the Nationalists and seat Peiping.

Flu Virus Hits St. Louis Hard

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Flue virus that hit rural areas in Missouri and Illinois this week struck metropolitan St. Louis Thursday.

Some schools reported 30 per cent of their pupils absent.

Attempts by medical schools at St. Louis and Washington universities to identify the virus have been unsuccessful.

Schools at Potosi, Mo., about 55 miles south of St. Louis, have been closed all week. Flu claimed about 33 per cent of the school system's 2,400 pupils. Other outbreaks were reported at Lutesville, Mo., 65 miles southeast of Potosi; and Wolf Lake, Ill., about 20 miles east of Lutesville.

The U.S. Public Health Service said the only other epidemic recorded was on an island off Alaska.

Searching for Three Men Who Left Art

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The FBI was pressing its search today for three men who allegedly left nine stolen paintings valued at a half million dollars in a motel room in nearby Coraopolis.

The paintings, taken from the suburban Whitehall home and art gallery of retired industrialist G. David Thompson last July 28, were recovered by FBI agents.

The FBI said another painting had been recovered earlier.

According to the FBI, the nine paintings were deposited at the Hotel Pittsburgher Motel.

Will Eliminate Tax Rebate

State Education Aid in '62 May Reach $1 Billion Mark

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York State budget will rise to approximately $2.6 billion next year, largely under pressure for an increase in state aid to education.

Gov. Rockefeller has pledged on several occasions that no new taxes will be sought to finance the higher spending.

The Republican governor is counting on improving business conditions to provide additional state revenues, without an increase in tax rates.

On the other hand, Rockefeller does not propose to continue the 10 per cent rebate the state gave taxpayers this year on their 1960 personal income taxes.

Education Aid Studied

That cut was given in the hope of partially offsetting political liabilities the Republican state administration incurred when it raised state income taxes in 1959.

State aid to education will continue to be the chief fiscal concern of the lawmakers.

The total amount of state money spent to aid local school districts will be close to $1 billion, which will mean an increase of $150 million or more in the new session.

The total of the state budget is determined in a large sense by laws passed by the Legislature in previous years.

Will Make Token Cuts

The scholar-incentive plan of grants to students in private colleges and raises voted for state employes in the last session, for example, will account for part of the increases in next year's state budget.

If past custom is followed, the Legislature's fiscal committees will make token cuts in the budget submitted by Rockefeller but these will have almost no visible effect on the state's finances.

Debate will center largely on Democratic charges that the state's income-tax laws as revised under Rockefeller are unfair to low-income families.

Expect Budget Approval

The minority members also will argue for higher spending than proposed by the administration in several fields.

The budget almost certainly will be approved, as it has been without fail for many years, in essentially the same form as it was when submitted by the governor.

Reapportionment of legislative seats will be one of the most hard-fought issues of the session.

Districts will be re-aligned to conform to population shifts shown by the 1960 federal census.

As happened in congressional redistricting, carried out at a special legislative session last month, New York City will lose seats.

The state's largest city, which has lost population, is expected to lose four Senate and nine Assembly seats.

The formulas under which legislative seats are apportioned are contained in the State Constitution.

Plan Amendments

Democrats argued that the reapportionment formulas were designed to favor the traditionally Republican Upstate-Long Island area at the expense of New York City, which is strongly Democratic.

It is unlikely that the Democratic protests will have any effect on Republican plans.

Democratic legislative leaders have announced plans to sponsor constitutional amendments under which legislative apportionment would be tied more directly to population. Seats now are allocated on the basis of population and geographical area.

It is highly unlikely that members of the Republican majority of the Legislature would support a proposal to reduce their own strength.

Middletown Has Phone Strike, but No Service Halt

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Workers at the Orange County Telephone Co. struck in a dispute over a wage increase and other benefits but service was maintained by management and non-union personnel.

The strike of 108 plant, commercial and traffic department workers was called yesterday by Local 1948 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

A work contract expired Dec. 1 and negotiations on a new Current wage scales were no agreement collapsed yesterday. Current wage scales were not available.

The company serves 17,900 subscribers in Orange, Sullivan and Ulster counties. It is a part of the General Telephone Co., which has headquarters in Johnstown.

Changes in Channels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission announced Thursday the following shifts in UHF television channel assignments in New York State:

Substitute Channel 34 for Channel 56 in Binghamton and delete unused Channel 26 from Ithaca.

Felician Sisters To Have College In Buffalo Area

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Plans have been announced to establish a multi-million-dollar four-year women's college, with facilities for 500 students, in suburban Cheektowaga.

The school will be known as Villa Maria College, and will be Operated by the Immaculate Heart of Mary Province, Congregation of St. Felix of Cantilicia, commonly known as the Felician Sisters.

The province now operates 62 schools and homes in Western New York, as far east as Syracuse, and in part of Ontario, Canada.

Groundbreaking is scheduled for next May, and classes are expected to begin in the fall of 1963.

Comprising the school will be the college proper, with classrooms, laboratories, a library, a cafeteria and administrative offices; an adjoining school of music; and an auditorium, gymnasium and residential facilities.

Ordered to Stand Trial For Death by Auto

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—A man charged with second-degree manslaughter in the traffic death last October of Chauncey Gaylord Stearns, 17, of Cazenovia, N. Y., has waived preliminary hearing on the charge.

Lloyd M. Jarmin, 35, was ordered yesterday to stand trial in circuit court. He is free in $4,000 bond.

Police said Jarmin was the driver of an automobile that fatally injured the youth. Stearns was in Kansas City as a delegate to the national convention of the Future Farmers of America.

Woman Dies of Beating

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth McFiggins, 65, of Rochester, died in a hospital here Thursday night of injuries suffered when she was beaten and left unconscious in front of her home last Nov. 26, police said.

Mrs. McFiggins received multiple neck, shoulder and rib bruises and a fractured jaw, and never regained consciousness, police said.

Cadillac

Craftsmanship a creed...accuracy a law!

The headline of this advertisement was written almost sixty years ago.

It is the motto of the men who build Cadillac cars—and it has served as both proud legend and stern taskmaster for three generations of Cadillac craftsmen.

We selected it to help tell our story today, because we think it still summarizes perfectly the quality and the care—the pride and the precision—that go into the making of every Cadillac motor car.

There is no really adequate way to describe the crafting of a Cadillac. But this recitation of facts might be helpful.

1. The average Cadillac craftsman has ten years of experience on the job.
2. One out of every seven people involved in the building of the car is an inspector.
3. Cadillacs are built in only one place—by men who build nothing else.
4. The car is crafted to unbelievably fine tolerances. Some engine parts, for example, must be accurate to within one ten-thousandth of an inch.
5. Every model undergoes more than 1400 different checks and inspections in the course of its assembly.

The list is longer, of course. But however lengthy, it could never be more impressive than the result. It's the 1962 Cadillac.

See it and drive it soon. We know you'll understand why it has been so widely acclaimed as the Standard of the World.

SOVIET SHORTCOMINGS

In one of his expansive moods, Soviet Premier Khrushchev conceded anew that agriculture is something the Russians "are learning from the Americans."

Off the record so far, we should have to conclude that Soviet farm operators are painfully slow learners. But their farm failures are in fact the result of other shortcomings as well.

Soviet population is only a fifth larger than ours, yet Russian crop yields per acre are so inferior that Moscow must devote 52 per cent more land to crops than we do.

Despite the Russians' well-advertised copying of our corn-raising and other techniques, we far outdo them in yields on corn, wheat, oats, rye, soybeans and a host of other products.

The really big giveaway in all this is their inability to muster the tractors, the trucks, the combines, the electricity and the fertilizer needed to do a solid producing job.

Comparisons made by our Agriculture Department specialists show the Soviet Union trailing us pitifully in the use of these important farm aids.

So when Khrushchev admits casting an eye steadily toward our efforts, he is acknowledging more than he realizes.

It's an old story that Moscow has ignored, most of the time—the output of consumer goods while it concentrated on an arms and space build-up with the necessary heavy industries in support.

Nevertheless, Kremlin leaders for long years have earnestly wanted to solve their chronic farm crop shortages mainly because greater agricultural efficiency would free millions of farm workers for use in industry.

Today 45 per cent of the Soviet labor force is engaged in farming, with inadequate results. We produce embarrassing surpluses with 10 per cent of our total work force.

It is highly revealing, then, that Khrushchev and company cannot allocate enough of their industrial facilities to make a real dent in the farm problem.

It suggests that their arms and space triumphs are accomplished at the expense not only of ordinary consumer goods but of items the leaders themselves ardently desire to turn out.

It suggests further that there may be ample warrant for such a broad indictment of Sino-Soviet economic failure as is brought by Harvard's Prof. Oscar Handlin in a recent Harper's magazine article.

The economic field is supposed to be the one wherein lies communism's great lure for the underdeveloped. The Reds boast that on this battleground they cannot lose. Yet up to now they have done little else.

WESTERNIZED RUSSIANS

No wonder the Kremlin is not eager to have Russians visit this country. They too frequently acquire a fondness for the ways of materialistic capitalism. An indication of this was provided by the 14 doctors, engineers and interpreters who were in Minneapolis for a couple of weeks with a Soviet medical exhibit.

The Russian men arrived wearing heavy woolen suits with wide lapels. The women wore "sack" dresses, worsted jumpers or plain skirts and sweaters. But it was a different group that left the city when the exhibit closed.

The men had gone "Ivy League." They wore sharply cut American suits with narrow lapels and narrow trousers. They also wore American shoes, narrow neckties and short haircuts. One woman wore a black velvet cocktail dress; others had succumbed to American "flair." Wedge sandals had been replaced by thin-heeled shoes.

No one can say what the Russian hierarchy will think of the westernized troupe when it returns home. Perhaps the medical delegates are not sure either and will avoid official displeasure by reverting to the heavy woolens and jumpers for the homecoming. But they have had a taste of something more interesting.

MATTHEWS ON CASTRO

According to a report in the New York "Herald Tribune," Herbert Matthews, an editor of "The New York Times," who in a large measure was responsible for the acceptance of Castro by the United States as the savior of Cuba, said, when Castro declared himself to be a Marxist:

"I don't believe anything he says. He's fantastic, incredible.

"Today Castro may believe he's a Communist, but tomorrow he may believe something else. I don't think you can give him a label. He's too wild, too disorganized."

This is not what Herbert Matthews said when he indoctrinated Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith. Smith was instructed to take lessons from Matthews in Cuban affairs upon his appointment. It was unusual for a diplomat to be instructed by a newspaperman; nevertheless that is what Smith was told to do. When he discovered that Castro was a Communist, Smith so notified the State Department but his notification was ignored and he was set aside. Now Smith's judgement has been verified by Castro himself and it is clear beyond doubt that Castro is a Communist. Matthews now admits that he may have made some slips in his judgement of Castro, but has he ever apologized to Ambassador Smith for his attitude toward the diplomat or is he like his newspaper which does not admit error? Ambassador Smith was rejected by Switzerland because of his difficulties with "The New York Times," an error of judgement that will never be forgotten by this Administration and by many Americans. We all make mistakes in the course of a lifetime of writing but he is indeed guilty of evil intent who will not admit error under any circumstances.

Matthews takes the position that if Castro is indeed a Marxist, "he is going to be a very bad and unruly one." This is, of course, a sentence of no significance. If Castro is a Marxist, as he now says that he is, it does not matter whether he is bad or unruly. What does matter is that he has become a peril to the United States. According to the "Herald Tribune" account Matthews said:

(Castro is) "the most dangerous person to the United States who has ever arisen in the history of the Western Hemisphere."

This is true but this is not what he said to Earl E. T. Smith when he indoctrinated the Ambassador. Nor is it what he wrote in "The New York Times" when his articles were influencing Americans to support Castro. Nor is what he wrote in his book on Cuba. Too late, Herbert Matthews has discovered that his protege is a man of evil; too late has he discovered that his support of Castro has been a betrayal of American interests.

Our only comment can be that it is most unfortunate when so-called authorities lack the depth of understanding and lead us in incorrect directions. It makes one wonder how often it happens. Certainly, it must be said that the articles that Walter Duranty wrote about Soviet Russia at the beginning of the Revolution have not been justified by the course of events. It would be interesting to study the activities of the CIA during the past four years to discover whether what was told to the President and the State Department has at all been correct. Certainly, too many errors have been made and we have no explanation who made them or why. The Katanga activities of the United Nations are queer and are without explanation. That picture requires better explanation than we have had. Certainly, we do not know enough about the Katanga situation to justify an opinion as to what program concerning Katanga is correct.

Much needs to be disclosed and understood before we close our minds. Surely, we do not know enough to understand why so great a fuss is made over little Albania. Nor is it clear why the troubles in the Dominican Republic have developed into such a serious revolution. How much of the Dominican troubles are manufactured by Castro; how many of them are little more than the aftermath of the fall of Trujillo? Whatever it is, the Dominican situation is extremely ugly and can lead to an explosion in Latin America. Are we aware of the probability of the explosive character of the peoples of Latin America and does anyone have a program to deal with the subject?

Lump in the Throat Nags; Learn to Live With It

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What is "lump in the throat?" My wife complains of it frequently and sometimes for weeks and even months. We have been to any number of doctors. All they say is that it is "nervous" or "hysterical." All we get for our visit and our expense is a prescription for a sedative or a tranquilizer, neither of which does any good.

A—Dear "Disgusted," as you sign yourself. The condition you describe is probably what's called "globus hystericus." As the name indicates, your wife's statement of a "lump" is the "globus" and the doctor's opinion of the cause of the lump is the "hystericus."

While it is true that this condition is observed most often in tense, high-strung women who have no evidence of organic disease (even when examined after passage of an esophaguscope), it's sometimes difficult and maybe impossible to tell which comes first—globus or hystericus.

For example, at one time or another, each of us suffers discomfort on swallowing. Maybe we ate dry food, bolted down a lump of unchewed meat, swallowed a crisp substance that scratched the delicate lining membrane of the gullet (esophagus) or got a mess of sticky candy plugged in the lower opening.

One way or other, that's a frightening experience, especially if we're cancer-minded. If we're told it's a "lump" in the throat, the word "lump" that we associate with cancer may add to our "hystericus."

So we make multiple visits to multiple doctors and have multiple examinations until a minor annoyance becomes a major disturbance. Then, when the annoyance persists despite medication, we begin to think of the possibility that the doctors "missed something." That something being, of course, a cancer.

I may be wrong but the tone of your letter suggests you're annoyed with your wife, and she's probably annoyed with the globus, herself, you, doctors and her medications.

So how's about what the diplomats call a disengagement? A truce? A cessation of hostilities? For, if the globus was due to a malignancy, your wife wouldn't be around to notice it.

Since it's "one of those things" we doctors can't explain and can't relieve, how about dropping it from the family agenda?

Perhaps your wife will agree not to complain about it or refer to it if you agree not to inquire about it and to ignore her obvious discomfort when it occurs at meals. You can't tell. It just might work.

Q—Is it true that pulling on a hair in the ear can stop an attack of hiccoughs? Every once in a while I get an attack but that's one thing I've never tried.

A—It's quite true as evidenced by a recent report published in the respected New England Journal of Medicine. The explanation for the relief has to do with the nerve pathways that get a bit mixed up in the regions of the nose, throat and ear. It long has been noted by doctors that patients cough when a speculum or an applicator is inserted into the ear canal. The same reflex that causes the ear-cough is probably responsible for the relief of the attack of hiccoughs. Anyway it's worth a try.

Holly? What's It For?

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent .. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One reason for President Kennedy's South American trip is to sell his Alliance for Progress some more.

The paradox of his sales talks in Columbia and Venezuela is that neither of these countries needs selling on the Alliance, since they're already boosters.

But these are good places for launching the campaign, as both countries can show some constructive examples of self-help. Both have done some economic planning.

THEY HAVE MADE STARTS TO TAKE CARE OF the great needs in all Latin America—more food production and potable water supplies for their own people, road systems that will permit transportation of goods to promote economic growth, better housing and more education for the illiterate masses.

Neither country has received large amounts of U. S. aid, as these things go. ● Columbia since 1945 has received $319 million in economic aid, $30 million in military aid. ● Venezuela, with greater income of its own from oil and iron ore resources, has received $104 million in economic aid, $14 million military aid.

Totals for all U. S. aid furnished Latin America since 1945 are $11 billion—$6 billion military, 5 billion economic.

President Alberto Lleras Camargo of Columbia—in the last year of his term of office and being unable to succeed himself—has inaugurated a land reform program that will have far-reaching effects, if his successors carry it out.

President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela, one of the real progressives of Latin America, has been a leader in reform movements. Venezuela has the largest concentration of private U. S. investments abroad. And the promotion of private investment is a goal of the Alliance for Progress.

THE WAY THINGS STACK UP NOW, the middle-sized countries of Latin America will work out best in the Alliance.

The smaller countries don't know the meaning of economic planning and haven't the facilities to effect it.

Most of the larger countries resist it. They resent any implications that they are "underdeveloped." And they refuse to admit there's anything wrong with their economies, even when they're on the rocks. There is not one stable currency.

In almost every country, the Alliance is meeting resistance because the few who have run things don't want progress.

They don't want higher living standards for their people because these can come only through higher taxation and the sacrifice of vested interests.

So the Alliance moves slowly. It has to be sold not only in Latin America but in the United States as well.

Nine months after its conception last March and four months after its birth—perhaps prematurely, at Punta del Este, Uruguay, last August—$800 million of the $1 billion which President Kennedy pledged for the first year has been committed. But only a small fraction of that has been spent. And it may take another nine months to show any results.

When the Punta del Este charter was signed, it was specified that the Latin-American countries would have 18 months in which to submit their development plans. Four of those 18 months have now gone. And the so-called "Committee of Nine Wise Men," who will review those plans for the Organization of American States, has just been chosen.

THE EXPECTATION IS that President Kennedy will present his new foreign aid message and legislation to Congress early next year, instead of in late May as it was presented this year. The new bill will ask for authorizations of still undetermined size to carry on the Alliance for its second year.

The 10-year plan calls for expenditures of $20 billion from both governmental and private sources. So the request for second year operations will be at least another billion.

Public Seen Misinformed On Productivity Benefits

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The public reads about big strikes and suffers acutely from them. But what the public doesn't know is the truth about the hooey and misleading claims that convince millions of wage-earners that they are being bamboozled and deserve wage increases even when management really can't afford them.

So it is pertinent to take note of a significant pronouncement just made by the Secretary of Labor, Arthur Goldberg, who puts his finger on the need to take into account a very important set of facts, even though he doesn't explain how to get them.

Mr. Goldberg discusses the subject of financial benefits from 'productivity" and avows what labor leaders rarely avow—that these gains should be devided three ways, that is, they should be shared by the workers, the owners and the public in the form of lower prices.

But who is to say what the division should be? Certainly stockholders should be given at least a fair return on their investments, and they will not furnish more capital to companies that don't have good earnings. The public should be given lower prices wherever possible. The workers should be given in increased wages as part of the money saved through their own "productivity."

It turns out, however, that the labor unions usually demand almost all of the benefits from increased "productivity," including gains from new machinery, even though they have played only a small part in the increased efficency. The additional wages demanded by the unions often cost more than the entire increased benefit in money from "productivity." In the last steel wage settlement, for example, workers got substantial increases, but "productivity" still is below the pre-strike figure in 1959.

Much is heard, too about the average rate of productivity." One company may have a 10 per cent increase, and another may have only 1 or 2 per cent or none at all, but the "average" for the industry becomes the yardstick for wage increases according to labor-union leaders. Also, if the steel industry is loaded with orders in the months before a threatened strike—as it was in the latter part of 1958 and during a large part of 1959—the total volume goes up. "Productivity" measured by such a year is then used as a basis for computing the wage rates for a succeeding year no matter how low production itself might fall. Profits may go down later, but wages never.

In the light of such conditions, the latest statement by the Secretary of Labor is germane to the discussion. Writing to the Washington Post, he said that, since that paper had interpreted his own speeches and comments at the AFL-CIO convention as giving strong support to the President's policy on wages and prices while the New York Times had construed his speech "as taking a soft line toward that policy, some words of clarification are required." He added:

"I want to make it very plain, as I have repeatedly said to labor and to management groups, that we in this country must do everything within our power to prevent inflation and maintain price stability. Since we do not want wage and price controls imposed in our free economic system, it requires responsible collective bargaining to achieve this.

"Every economist believes that economic gains for both labor and management must be earned by increases in productivity. This means that these gains should be shared by the workers, the owners and the public. Within the framework of our potential national productivity, all three can benefit.

"Further, we must keep competitive in world markets and keep our money sound. This means that we cannot afford the luxury of restrictive practices on the part of labor or management which impair efficiency and productivity. It also means that automation must be encouraged.

"In addition restrictive and protectionist trade policies must be avoided since they will retard our economy, not stimulate it. Also, we must be careful not to throttle business profits from which new enterprises and plants grow and provide new jobs.

"These are the things which I attempted to say to the AFL-CIO in my prepared remarks, my extemporaneous ones, and in the press conference which followed my speech.

"My reference to inequities was to state that even wage and price controls have recognized in war time the fact that all industries and companies do not progress at the same rate and that there are inequities present in both industry and labor at any given point in history. It is these inequities to which I referred. I also believe, as I stated, that they can be adjusted within the framework of over-all increases in productivity.

"My position on these subjects is not a new one. It is the same one expressed by Dr. Walter Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, and is in strong support of the President in his efforts to prevent inflation and maintain price stability.

"These are the things I tried to say to the AFL-CIO. I believe that my whole remarks reflect these thoughts accurately."

One point in the above needs to be underlined and repeated again and again: "The fact that all industries and companies do not progress at the same rate and that there are inequities present in both industry and labor at any given point in history."

But labor-union negotiators do not accept this as a "fact of life." The present system of industry-wide bargaining, moreover, virtually destroys all opportunity to remove inequities between companies, thus aiding the larger units and often forcing the smaller ones out of business.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In my inquiries about Franklin D. Roosevelt I have sometimes felt a subconscious defensiveness because ignorant individuals, and some crafty professors, insist on equating me to the great man. It makes no difference whether I have a fault-finding disposition. All that matters is truth or falsity. I maintain that, by and large, Roosevelt was a great crook, even in money matters which were petty by comparison with his monumental betrayals of the trust of mankind. He was also a big drinker and some of the people who idolized him might have controlled their judgment and cut him down to size had they known this.

He obviously was cockeyed the night he made his fuzzy radio speech in New York after his ride in the rain in a low-neck automobile, protected, however, as we later were allowed to learn, by a rubber union suit.

Hugh Johnson once poured out a cavalryman's account of a night in a small library room at Hyde Park in the course of which Roosevelt absorbed the whole of a stone jug of solid gin. Hugh drank burbon. Eleanor was upstairs and kept whooping for Franklin to get to bed.

Again, Jonathan Daniels, in his memory-book, 'Age of Innocence," tells us that Roosevelt and his Harvard friend, Livingston (or "Livy) Davis, drank their way from London to Inverness, Scotland, ostensibly for FDR to inspect the American naval forces which were laying the northeast mine barrage in 1918. The base command turned out several times in the cold rain or false alarms that the Assistant Secretary of the Navy was at last approaching. But he got there only in time to dash to lunch with Admiral Strauss and dash back to London where he and his companions spent the night until dawn having a "jolly sing-song" and playing little games. His chief then was Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, father of Jonathan, and a dry who had abolished the wet mess and the bluejackets' beer ration on ships and stations. Josephus was severe about this, but he was somehow willing to take impudence from Roosevelt, including even disloyalty by ridicule.

Jesse Jones told us in his neglected story, "Fifty Billion Dollars," written in collaboration with Edward Angly, that FDR "began to see himself a great world figure of all time, a Caesar maybe, or an Alexander the Great." I take comfort from this now as authoritative corroboration of my awareness that Roosevelt went all out for majesty and empire.

At any rate, Jesse Jones wrote that Roosevelt thought so vastly of himself that he felt that he must "bring Joseph Stalin under his influence. To do that it was necessary to get on a working basis with Joe. Overlooking the fact that Stalin had repudiated his agreement (on Roosevelt's recognition of Soviet Russia in 1933), the President sent Harry Hopkins to the Kremlin in 1942 to tell Stalin he would give him whatever he needed in his struggle with Hitler. This cost the American people eleven billion dollars. Better he had let Hitler and Stalin destroy each other."

Elliott Roosevelt's graphic account of the debauch at Stalin's state dinner at Teheran does not specify that his father stood to his glasses with the other tosspots, but neither does he deal the emperor Franklin out of this. On the basis of other accounts, we may fairly assume that FDR got as drunk as the next one.

On Nov. 2, 1950, I got a letter from the late John J. O'Connor, the only Congressman who was purged by Roosevelt in his campaign to punish those who had frustrated Roosevelt's effort to pack the Supreme Court and other Federal courts. O'Connor enclosed with his letter a document entitled "memo" which said Roosevelt was "a definite tosspot," who "killed at least one drinking companion trying to keep up with him — Hopkins — which accounted for their closeness. The writer (John O'Connor) on many an evening tended bar in the White House. When leaders of Congress would be rolled in and from 7:30 on, the glasses tinkled. His nibs had changing favorites. For a while it was gin and ginger ale. Then a spell of scotch. Next, old-fashioneds were the choice.

"About 10 p. m., he would not be 'mellow' but roaring. Everybody was a s.o.b. John L. Lewis, William Green, Father Coughlin. All the judges of the Supreme Court after the N.R.A. decision."

I have lately talked with university students majoring in American history who tell me they get nothing derogatory to Roosevelt in their classes. These are not Harvard students, either. At Harvard of course the truth about Roosevelt would be blasphemy.

Red Trawlers Disrupt Vital U.S. Air Tests

BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — The appearance of a vast Soviet fishing fleet off the New England Coast has disrupted vital testing of experimental radar equipment for the nation's air defense.

An Air Force official, who asked that his name be withheld, said Thursday that "many tests of experimental equipment have often shut down because of the Russian fleet."

Some 100 Soviet trawlers and several mother ships as large as freighters have been seen off the coast for months. Some have been observed within 20 miles of Cape Cod. Others were near enough to be visible from Nantucket Island, 30 miles off the Massachusetts Coast.

The pioneer system for radar defense is the SAGE complex developed by Lincoln Laboratory of Massachusetts Insitute of Technology.

Both sides in the cold war use devices known as ferrets in planes and ground installations to detect radar emissions and thereby discover the source, wave length and other features of the opposing radar system.

Air Force scientists have no doubt the Soviet fishing fleet is well equipped with such devices.

The final link in a series of 21 SAGE direction centers is scheduled to open today in Sioux City, Iowa.

The SAGE center at Lincoln Laboratory, the first one built, is exclusively for experimentation. The SAGE defense center for New England is at Newburgh, N.Y.

Community . . .

cannot be met, Orvis said.

Discussing costs, he said the average tuition was $300, of which the student pays about one-third, the county and state not less than one-third each.

Program of courses will have to be developed to meet the needs of the community. This is up to the trustees and the president and he suggested that until the needs of the student body is determined, it would be impossible to know just what type of buildings should be planned for.

He predicted an attendance of about 200 to 250 from Ulster County when the college is established, with some additional from other counties. This figure was based on high school graduates in 1960.

Can Give Names

Availability of men for president, Dean Orvis said, would not be a great problem and in that direction the State University would be able to give some assistance by suggesting names of persons known to be competent and available.

After naming the trustees, and he suggested one of them be a woman, he said management of the college should be left to the trustees and the president to be operated within the framework of the appropriation which the board would make. Attempts by boards of supervisors to "run" the colleges are disastrous he said.

Is Hard Work

Work for the trustees would be strenuous, Dean Orvis said, and he cautioned that competent men, who could give much time to the job should be appointed. The trustees should represent a cross-section of the county not only geographically but also as to industry.

"Get good trustees, hire the best people and let them run the college within the framework of your appropriation," was his suggestion.

"Don't rush in with a new campus and new buildings until you see what space is needed for your program," he said. He told the board it "might be better off for the first two or three years" in a temporary site if such a site is available.

Following his talk a question period was held.

Appeal Started

happened to the Jews during Hitler's Third Reich, how the plot to exterminate the race came into being, and how 6 million Jews died.

Denounced by Judge

Judge Landau, who presided over the three-man tribunal that tried Eichmann, again denounced him in his statement of sentence and termed his crimes "of unparalleled enormity."

Delivering the sentence in Hebrew while Eichmann listened through earphones to a translation in his native German, Judge Landau declared: "For the due punishment of the accused and to deter others in the future, the maximum penalty laid down by the law has to be imposed in this case.

"The aim of the crimes against the Jewish people of which the accused has been convicted was to blot out an entire people from the face of the earth. Such total crimes are of an even graver nature than the sum total of the criminal acts against individuals."

But Landau continued that the court must also take into account the injury to individuals.

Called Victim of System

Servatius had argued that Eichmann was a victim of an evil system and contended "The acts of which he is accused are crimes of a government, not of an individual. The accused could not have done anything. He could not stop this machine, the apparatus."

Even had they found that, said the court, "We would have said that one who had participated in crimes of such dimensions for years on end has to undergo the greatest punishment known to the law, and no order given to him could be a ground even for mitigating his punishment."

But Eichmann, the judged continued, in fact "identified himself in his heart with the orders received by him and was actuated by an ardent desire to attain the criminal object"— the extermination of the Jews.

100,000-Word Judgment

The sentence marked the climax of a 100,000-word judgment that the judges spent three months writing and two days reading earlier this week.

Eichmann left the courtroom to exchange the neat blue suit, white shirt and striped tie he wore for his trial for the red suit of a condemned man, prescribed by British practice which Israel adopted.

A special death cell must be created in the Haifa prison for him. Israel abolished capital punishment for all crimes except those against the Jews and high treason and does not possess a death cell as such.

Seized Last Year

Eichmann, who was head of the Gestapo Jewish affairs division was one of the last major Nazis known to be at large, was captured in Argentina after years of running away in attempt to hide his identity.

Israeli agents kidnaped him in May 1960 and brought him to Israel, which refused Argentine demands to surrender him.

Eichmann's pre-trial interrogation itself was a marvel of seemingly frank confessions. Later he tried to repudiate a lot of it but the Israeli judges found him a liar.

The trial cost Israel about $5 million.

President Steps

he meant by increased assistance to the Vietnamese defense effort. Other administration sources said that this must not be taken to mean that U.S. fighting men will be dispatched to the area. There has been frequent speculation on this possibility in the past.

Rather, government sources said there will be across-the-board assistance of the kind the United States has been giving Viet Nam, plus improved technical advice to enable the Vietnamese to make better use of equipment to be placed at their disposal.

Forty U.S. helicopters arrived in Viet Nam a few days ago and there may be more of them on the way now or shortly. Vitally needed communications equipment is on the list of stepped up assistance, officials said.

May Send Planes

The United States may send more planes to supplement some there. The Vietnamese already have a number of fighter-bomber training planes that could be armed for combat, plus some C47 two-engine transports they could use to drop troops and to haul equipment.

U.S. jets and pilots are engaged now in photographic reconnaisance missions and there has been a sizable expansion in the number of instructors in the U.S. Air Force mission in Viet Nam.

There have been reports that the United States may give the Vietnamese some B26 medium bombers of World War II vintage and possibly some patrol boats to intercept supplies coming down the coast from Communist North Viet Nam to guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

The messages between the two chiefs of state, as put out by the White House, carried no dates.

Diem's was the longer. It recited the history of South Viet Nam's troubles with Communists who run North Viet Nam.

Tells of Terror Tactics

Diem said the North Viet Nam Communists talk of peaceful reunification and "wage war against us."

He spoke of terror tactics—attacks on defenseless teachers, looting of hospitals, the killing of members of anti-malarial teams —as part of efforts to subvert the people, destroy the government and impose a Red regime upon the Vietnamese Republic.

In the last few months, Diem told Kennedy, the Communist assault has "achieved high ferocity" and stretched Vietnamese forces to the utmost in defense of every village, hamlet and home.

Flood Adds to Woes

On top of this, Diem said, a disastrous flood struck the greater part of three provinces and Communists seized on disruption of administration and communications to "sow more destruction in the stricken area."

In response, Kennedy assured Diem that "we are prepared to help the Republic of Viet Nam to protect its people and to preserve its independence."

Kennedy said he and the American people have been deeply disturbed by assaults on Diem's country supported and directed by the Communist authorities at Hanoi.

"Our indignation has mounted," he said, "as the deliberate savagery of the Communist program of assassination, kidnaping and wanton violence became clear."

The Communists, Kennedy said, have violated the 1954 Geneva accords designed to insure peace in Viet Nam. He recalled that at the time of the accords, the United States, though not a party to them declared that it "would view any renewal of the aggression in violation of the agreements with grave concern and as seriously threatening international peace and security."

"We continue to maintain that welcome. Such programs can have a heavy impact among the young Latin Americans, the students and intellectuals who cause much of the ferment and who are captivated by the idea of rapid change toward national self-respect.

Most Dangerous Problems

Of all problems in Latin America, illiteracy and miserable housing probably are the most nagging and the most dangerous in terms of breeding resentment and violence.

Lleras has told his countrymen the U.S. President is not journeying to South America to "make political and economic demands like those which chained Cuba to the Soviet orbit in exchange for arms."

Can Pave Way

There is risk involved in the Kennedy trip. It woud be strange if the Communists and Castristas did not try to do something to spoil it. However, if it is successful, it can pave the way for somewhat bolder ventures south of the border.

As President Lleras pointed out, perhaps the time has come when Latin Americans must decide for themselves whether their future lies with a Marxist-Leninist Castro under Soviet control or in "collaboration among the countries of the hemisphere which answers our needs, is adjusted to our way of life and asks nothing in return from us."

Advises Efficiency In Mining of Coal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The coal industry will increase production by some 430 million tons by 1975, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall believes.

Udall made his prediction Thursday in a speech at the annual dinner of the Coal Mining Institute of America.

At the same time, however, he warned the industry to find more efficient and economical means of mining, delivering and utilizing coal. He said this must be accomplished for the industry to realize its potential.

NEW YORK (AP) —Blue chips showed a steadier tone in a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .20 at 264.80 with industrials down .80, rails up .10 and utilities up .10.

Most gains and losses were fractional.

The "big," highly capitalized issues which have paced he latest rally and then declined sharply on profit taking were mostly firm.

The British and Dutch issues ofv Unilever, which made their deout this week with a strong rise followed by a steep decline, showed minor plus signs as they met support.

Woman Is Carried To Safety From Po'keepsie Fire

Poughkeepsie firemen carried a woman down the aerial ladder to safety early today when flames threatened the three story apartment house in which she lived at 65 South Hamilton Street.

Five pieces of apparatus responded to a bell alarm at 1:39 a. m. today for a blaze which originated in the third floor rear apartment of Anna Griffin. Miss Edna Erts, who occupied the third floor front apartment, was evacuated down the ladder as a safety measure.

Engines 1, 3 and 7 and Trucks 1 and 2 battled the blaze and damage was not heavy, according to a fire official. Recall was sounded at 2:48 a. m.

The building is owned by Peter Asciutto of 132 College Street, Poughkeepsie.

Marlboro School District Vote Turns Down Land

For the second straight time, voters in the Marlboro Central School District on Thursday defeated a proposal to purchase some 15 acres of land adjoining the site of the Marlboro Elementary School on Route 9W. The vote was 343 no, 172 yes, with 3 void ballots.

The voters had been asked to approve acquisition of the Young - Traphagen property alongside the elementary school so the Board of Education could acquire a road which runs through the school playground and so there would be sufficient land for future expansion.

The proposition was defeated on Oct. 25 by some 81 votes and the public at that time had complained the reason for the purchase was not clear. A public hearing was conducted last Monday night by the Board when the proposal was explained at some length.

The Thursday vote, by 518 residents of the school district, is final, school officials intimated today. A spokesman said no effort will be made to place the proposal before the electorate again.

Governor Plans

with which it has found fault.

The governor's approach was approved Thursday by Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino at a conference on plans for the 1962 legislative session. No decisions were announced beyond the rent-control plan.

The republican-controlled Legislature is expected to approve the governor's plan.

Rockefeller released the text of a letter in which he told Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City that he (Rockefeller) would ask the 1962 Legislature to transfer responsibility for rent control to New York City, effective May 1.

The city would have to write its own law. The state would continue to pay the $4-million annual cost of administering the plan when New York City, where 1.8 million dwelling units still are controlled.

All Eggs In One Basket Unwise Investment Plan

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I do not subscribe to the idea of diversification in investments. I believe it is only an excuse for poor selection in the first place. I want to put every dollar I can get my hands on into Meredith Publishing. Please give me your views?" — E. F.

A) I have only one view with respect to your question — and it's that you'd better slow down, sit back, and think of what would happen if you did make a mistake.

The most thorough method of selection imaginable will not guarantee your stock-market profits. Investing is an art which deals with the future; and, since the future is an unknown quantity, there is absolutely no way to be certain of your judgment.

In order to protect yourself against irretrievable loss, you can either avoid stocks completely or you can diversify your holdings. Most investors, of course, follow the latter plan.

I recommend that you consider it, too. You probably insure your life, your house and car against the unforeseen. Diversification is no excuse — but is rather a form of insurance in its own right.

Frankly, I'm not excited over Meredith's prospects, and I don't regard the stock as attractive at this time. If you want to buy some shares, I think you would do well to limit the commitment to only a small part of your total capital.

Q) "I'm 67 and am living in Spain because it is much easier to get along here than in America. Most of my investments were with a friend who specialized in the stocks of new enterprises. Every single one of them failed, and my capital was sharply reduced. Any new investments I make must have appreciation possibilities since I expect to be around a long time. Would you please make some suggestions?" —A. B.

A) I'd be happy to. For new investments I suggest you consider Continental Insurance, Consumers Power, and Marshall Field — three sound, dividend-paying stocks with good appreciation potentials.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Hudson Men Pay $1,000 Fines for Deer Violation

Two Hudson men, accused of jacklighting deer paid fines totaling $1,000 Wednesday night to Taghkanic Justice of Peace John J. Reno, according to state police from the Claverack barracks.

Troopers M. Sanchez and D. Greeley said they were attracted by an automobile with blood stains on the bumper and trunk and halted the vehicle in the town of Taghkanic. They arrested Peter Mixa, 38, of 110 Union Street and Joseph Turek, 51, of 22 Mill Street, following an investigation.

The men were taken before Justice Reno and assessed $500 apiece in civil compromise arranged by Game Warden Larry Stevens.

Brutal Regimes, Long Struggles

JFK Going to Lands Hard For Americans to Imagine

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's goodwill trip to Colombia and Venezuela is a journey to lands hard for Americans to imagine.

Venezuela has had about two honest elections in its history and more than 20 constitutions. For the rest of the time this country of seven million people has lived under dicators, some of them savage.

Few But Beauts

Neighboring Colombia, with about 14 million people, has had more than 20 constitutions, more than 20 civil wars. The dictatorships were relatively few but some were beauts. For Colombians elections have real significance.

Right now both countries have fairly middle-road presidents: Romulo Betancourt in Venezuela and Alberto Lleras Camargo in Colombia.

Betancourt has been a punching bag for Castroites and Communists — both groups consider him their chief enemy in Latin America—and for extreme rightists who want the get-rich-days of dictatorship back.

One of Few Honest

Betancourt's election in 1958 was one of the two honest ones. The first was in 1947 when Romulo Gallegos was chosen president but lasted only 10 months. A military junta threw him out.

In those 11 years Venezuela had some of its worst dictatorship, most notoriously under the brutal Marcos Perez Jimenez whose graft-ridden regime loaded the jails with political prisoners.

The fact that President Eisenhower presented him with the Legion of Merit didn't sit well with Venezuelans who got so fed up that the various political parties joined forces with the army and navy to throw him out in 1958.

Betancourt is trying to cope with Venezuela's ancient problems of disease, starvation, poverty, ignorance, joblessness and lack of housing. In Venezuela there is tremendous concentration of land in the hands of a comparatively few families. A year ago Betancourt set forth on a big land reform program.

There the big industry is oil and the big oil companies are foreign. The anti-American forces accuse them of draining away Venezuela's wealth. The best-paid Venezuelan workers are in the oil fields. But there's a big gap between what they earn and what other workers get, when they can find a job.

Almost Endless Struggle

In Colombia there has been almost endless struggle between two main groups, Liberals and Conservatives, and two dominating points of view.

For most of its history there was little communication between the cities of Colombia. The country is broken up by mountains, plains and plateaus.

The result has been struggle between the Conservatives who wanted a strong central government and the Liberals demanding sovereign rights for the various Colombian states.

That's been one point of struggle. The second big one was between both groups over the power of the Catholic Church, with Conservatives insisting on traditional privileges for the clergy and the Liberals wanting complete separation of church and state.

Colombia's President Lleras was elected in 1957 when Liberals and Conservatives, perhaps to their own astonishment, got so fed up with the dictatorship of his predecessor that the were able to join forces to throw him out.

For years before Lleras took over, the struggle between Conservatives and Liberals —and sometimes guerrillas adopted both names—cost hundreds of thousands of lives.

Guerrillas Are Busy

Guerrillas are extremely busy killing now particularly on the highways and farms. A recent Associated Press story from Colombia described how the guerrillas stop a highway bus, force the passengers off, take their money and then chop their heads off.

The story said this kind of murder takes a toll of 100 lives a month.

Killed in Rail Mishap

CASTLETON, N.Y. (AP)—Lloyd LaRose, 31, of Rutland, Vt., was killed when he apparently leaned from a platform of a railroad station and was struck by a passing New York Central switch engine.

Police said the engine's hand rail struck LaRose in the head Thursday night. He had been visiting relatives in Schodack Landing.

Adventists Set Sabbath Services

Sabbath school of the Kingston Seventh-day Adventist Church will open on Saturday with a song service under the direction of Mrs. George Landstrom. Following the song service, opening exercises will be directed by Mrs. Carl Johnson, superintendent. Classes will then separate to study and discuss the lesson for the week entitled, The Prodigal and His Son. The children will meet with Mrs. Andrew Seaman and her assistants in the Sabbath school rooms.

Guest speaker for the 11:30 a. m. divine worship service will be the Rev. J. M. Bucy, publishing secretary for the Greater New York Conference.

Saturday night and each night throughout the next week, Ingathering Bands will leave from the church at 6:30 p. m.

The Dorcas Society will meet Wednesday from 2 to 4 p. m. Canned goods are being collected for baskets for the poor for Christmas. Those having items for the baskets, may place them in the receptacle in the vestibule of the church.

there had to be a reason!

Why did a local business executive change back to OIL?

A.

Economy! — after one year of using a heating fuel, heralded as a "better fuel," I learned my lesson. I reconverted my home heating back to oil heat. In my business I constantly strive to buy well and conduct the company's operation on a sound, economical basis. Now, after learning the hard way, I have found it is possible to buy the best fuel for my home and still show large economies in my annual heating budget. I have tried gas. My sober conclusion is, that regardless of installation costs, lower operation costs will more than compensate for any difference. Oil is completely dependable. My oil supply is right in my own home and I enjoy the fact that I can purchase from competitive suppliers. If you are planning to install a new heating system in your home, look-to-oil, and let my lesson be yours. Oil is the only fuel that gives real luxury heat at a price you can afford.

Ulster Park Man Named to Farm CreditBankBoard

Two prominent northeast farmers, Chester E. Goodfield, Hardwick, Mass., and C. Chester DuMond Jr., Ulster Park, have been appointed to three year terms on the board of directors of the Farm Credit Banks of Springfield, beginning January 1.

Gordon Cameron, president of the Farm Credit Banks, said that these two places on the seven-man board are appointments by R. B. Tootell, governor of the Farm Credit Administration with the consent of the Federal Farm Credit Board. Five of the seven-man board are elected by the farmer cooperatives and associations that own the stock of the Federal Land Bank, Federal Intermediate Credit Bank and the Springfield Bank for Cooperatives.

The Farm Credit Banks of Springfield, part of a nationwide system, operate to provide a complete credit service to farmers and their cooperatives in New England, New York and New Jersey. Last year $164 million was loaned to Northeast farmers and their cooperatives. Loans outstanding as of June 30, 1961 amounted to $226 million.

DuMond, reappointed to his second term is active in Ulster County agricultural affairs, the National Grange and American Farm Bureau. He grows 50 acres of apples, some six acres of peaches and two acres of grapes.

Other members of the Farm Credit Board of Springfield are: J. Carleton Corwith, Water Mill, chairman; Harley D. Welch, Mapleton, vice chairman; Luther W. Jennejahn, Hilton, and J. Richards Nelson of Madison, Conn.

We The Women

Please, Ma'am, a Hairdo Becoming to All of Us

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Plea to America's First Lady:

Couldn't you please, ma'am, get a new hairdo? Not that the one you are wearing now isn't becoming. On you it looks good.

But on 99 out of every 100 girls and women in the country who are trying to wear it, too, just because you are setting the fashions these days, it looks simply awful.

But that's just part of the story. The worst part is that with your hairdo you can only wear one type of hat—the high pillbox.

On you, even that is becoming. But what it does to Miss and Mrs. America is a crying shame.

It makes most of them look like Mrs. Happy Hooligan—and yet it's hard to find a hat these days that isn't shaped like Happy Hooligan's tin can.

So even the women who have the good sense not to copy your hair style are wearing the kind of hat designed to go with it.

What we need, please ma'am, is for you to adopt a hair style that is more universally becoming and one that lends itself to a wide variety of hat styles—not just one.

It looks as though what you wear is going to be "what everyone is wearing." That's what comes of having a beauty in the White House.

And since that seems to be so—can't you make it a bit easier on the American woman?

Right now she looks pretty ridiculous with that bushy bob and that tall pillbox perched on the back of her head.

Of course, it's quite a responsibility — setting the styles for the country. But since you ARE setting them, couldn't you keep Mrs. America as well as Mrs. Kennedy in mind?

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Monique Van Vooren, a blonde Belgian bombshell who has done very nicely as a supperclub chanteuse and foil for some top comedians, is currently engaged in fighting that old demon, type-casting.

This is a complicated process, involving a determined effort to eliminate her French—or Belgian—accent and to find parts remote from characters which could also once upon a time, Fifi D'Orsay be played by, for example, the Gabor girls, Jayne Mansfield and,

"If you're identified with France," complained Miss Van Vooren "and have a pretty face, you are always in comedy, always the foil for a comedian. If you can lose the French accent, you can do almost anything."

At the moment, Miss Van Vooren's accent still strongly suggests the land of her nativity and with her pale hair and svelte figure she is far from inconspicuous. But on Sunday night, in NBC's "Show of the week" series, she will play a straight dramatic, non-comedy, non-singing role. She will in fact, play a spy of the Mata Hari type, in glasses and a dark wig, in a drama called "Trick or Treason."

Monique spent four bitter, hungry years as a child in Brussels when the Germans occupied Belgium during World War II, but knew little of the glamorous side of war beloved by TV script writers.

"We suffered a lot, and those of us who were growing up had no youth as you see it in this country now," she reflected. "Even to this day I find I cannot throw away a stale piece of bread."

Recommended weekend viewing: Tonight: "Straightaway," ABC, 7:30-8 Eastern Standard Time—Gloria Swanson guest stars in the series; "The Peace Corps in Tanganyika," NBC, 9:30-10:30—a special news report.

Sunday: "20th Century," CBS, 6-6:30—film biography on the late Wendell L. Willkie; "Meet the Press," NBC, 6-6:30 — George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, guest; Ed Sullivan Show, CBS, 8-9—Louis Armstrong and Duke Ellington perform together for the first time.

Story Rejected, Family Pickets Publishing Firm

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Curtis Publishing Co. wouldn't buy Allen Mayo's novel or short stories so he and his family picketed the firm.

Mayo, 45, of Sterling Valley, N. Y., near Oswego, told a reporter he was a free-lance writer.

"Have you sold your fiction to anybody," the reporter asked.

"No," said Mayo.

Mayo and his wife, Jane, 42, and five children carried signs. One said:

"Papa doesn't need a beard to write good prose."

Mayo said the Saturday Evening Post, a Curtis publication, had rejected a novel, which took him nine years to write, and several short stories.

He said he decided to picket when he was unable to talk with the magazine's editors Thursday.

Managing editor Robert L. Sherrod said the Post had rejected two offerings by Mayo. He said no sale resulted last August when Mayo had an hour-long interview with an editor.

Sherrod said few writers object quite "as actively" as Mayo when their offerings are rejected.

With Mayo and his wife were Raymond, 17; Rose Ann, 16; James, 13; Emerson, 7, and Michael, 1½.

Says Plan to Restore Railroad Is Not New

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Vermont Gov. F. Ray Keyser says a proposed solution by union leaders to restore the strike-bound Rutland Railway to operating status is composed of plans previously discarded by the line's management.

Proposals aimed at settling a prolonged strike of Rutland employes were offered to company officials this week, said Francis Esposito, chairman of one of the four operating brotherhoods involved.

Keyser told a news conference Thursday the proposals involve "a multitude of offers involving wages, hours and working conditions which the union has made both publicly and privately..."

Woman Killed in Crash

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Mr. Clara Johnston, 65, of Jamestown, N.Y., was killed yesterday in a two-car crash on U.S. Route 42, about eight miles west of nearby Florence.

State Police said the two cars collided at the crest of a hill. The other driver suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Firms Agree to Work On Vertical Landings

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) —Bell Aerosystems Co. has agreed to work with four foreign companies in a NATO competition to design a transport plane which can make vertical or short takeoffs and landings.

Bell said Thursday it will collaborate with De Havilland Aircraft of Canada, Hawker Sideley Aviation of Great Britain, Avions Fairey of Belgium and Nord Aviatino of France.

Announcement of the winner of the competition is expected in the first half of next year.

Radiation Monitoring Station to Open Feb. 1

WINCHESTER, Mass. (AP)—A U.S. Public Health Service Station for the monitoring of fallout radiation affecting milk, air and water in the Northeast is expected to be in operation by Feb. 1.

Dr. Dade W. Moller, who will be director of the laboratory, said yesterday fallout radiation effects in New England, New York and New Jersey would be sampled.

Moller said that, by opening the lab Feb. 1, samplings could be made of any increased radiation brought to the northeast by spring rains.

To Become Republican On January First

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—P. E. Gismondi sought the Democratic mayoral nomination in the party primary last Sept. 7. Four months earlier, he had switched his affiliation to the Republican Party.

Gismondi, who received only 513 votes in the primary, filled out change-of-affiliation forms on May 5, the Board of Elections said Thursday. Under the law, the forms were locked up until at least a week after the November general election.

Gismondi officially becomes a Republican on Jan. 1, 1962.

Christmas Trees Indoors Require Plenty of Water

Give your Christmas tree the water treatment this year. Tests show that an average spruce tree in a room for 15 days at 70 degrees F. temperature will absorb 23.75 quarts of water through its stump.

Edward J. Duda, acting director of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, says water will keep a Christmas tree fresh, reduce needle drop and make it less a fire hazard.

Peel Back Bark

Before setting up the tree indoors in a water-holding container, peel back an inch or two of the bark of the stump. This will help the tree drink water.

Add water to the container daily. At the same time check the needles for dryout. A dried out tree becomes a fire danger. In 20 seconds an ignited 12-foot Christmas tree could become charred wood.

Make sure decorations are fireproof. Check last year's lights for frayed ends and faulty sockets. Use only appliances that have an official stamp of approval on them. Keep fluffy cotton and other inflammable objects away from a tree. And pull out the plug connecting the tree lights before you go out or to bed at night.

Outdoor Yule Trees

Outdoor evergreen trees can be safely decorated with Christmas lights if a few simple guidelines are followed to avoid needle scorch.

Roy C. Beckwith of the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories says needles of yew, arborvitae, chamaecyparis and hemlock are sensitive to heat from bulbs. Pine, spruce and fir require the same precaution.

Bulbs of 15 wattage are sufficient. Never let the bulbs touch the needles. Hang sockets downward to prevent water and snow from collecting in them. Use rubber-jacketed or lacquered cord to connect the lights. Periodically check the position of the lights because winds may shift their position.

Mistletoe Legends

Mistletoe, Cupid's ally at Yuletide, is preeminently a plant pest. It grows on trees, drawing on food circulating in a tree's sap stream.

Before mistletoe gained a romantic tradition, according to the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories, legends grew up about it. Long ago persons made charm bracelets of it to ward off evil spirits. In ancient Germany folks believed mistletoe would make ghosts appear.

Before that, others thought it was a tree whose timber was cut for the cross on which Christ was crucified. Since then it dwindled to its present low estate—a dwarf plant and parasite.

The British and native Indian armies originaally used the color khaki, which gets its name from the Urdu word "khak," or dust.

Highland Bank Will Pay Higher Interest

The First National Bank of Highland announces that it is one of the first commercial banks in the Hudson Valley to take advantage of the new ruling as set forth by the Federal Reserve Bank and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation allowing commercial banks to pay four per cent interest commencing January 1, 1962 for monies held on deposit for one year or more.

On December 4, 1959, the First National Bank of Highland requested permission from the Board of Governors to increase their interest on savings accounts. At that time, permission was not granted, although, the Federal Reserve Bank advised the Highland Bank that they were unable to grant permission at the time. Nevertheless, it was being kept under current consideration.

The Highland Bank was the first commercial bank in the Hudson Valley to increase their interest to 3 per cent in 1957 which was the last time that permission was granted to commercial banks to increase their interest.

Why We Say--

FIRE: Fresh from the fire is the true meaning of "brand new." "Brand" itself comes from the Anglo-Saxon word meaning fire. New metal products used to come from the forge bearing the maker's mark. After some use, the brand marks would begin to wear off, so the objects would no longer be "brand new."

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Captain A. S. Hickey, USN (ret.), sent me an interesting booklet titled "Research Report, Rankings of the States, 1961, National Education Assn."

What interested Captain Hickey, was the per cent of Selective Service registrants who failed the mental tests in 1951. The state of Iowa had the least, and New York had the most who could not pass the mental tests.

One cannot argue with cold statistics, only about them. For instance, in the percentage of population, 14 years old and older, unable to read and write in 1950, Iowa had the least and New York had a great deal more. The middle western states also seem to have a better attendance. We are 45th down on the list of 50 states, the same as Alaska, and there it must be awful cold mornings to get up and go to school. For school teachers' salaries, we are third highest on the list of all the states. California pays the best salary.

We are now in the midst of building more schools and of course the last half of the school taxes are due Dec. 15, so folks talk about it. The western states seem to pay less per student, yet have more high school graduates for their money. There is some 50 pages in this booklet giving a run down on all the 50 states, comparing spending and benefits.

The way it looks to me, this section is going to have an elegant set of school buildings, such as the most prosperous community would be proud of. When I enter these new buildings even now, I feel as though I am in Grand Central Station and wish they had more signs and perhaps red and green lights to tell me where to go. You can get lost.

The other evening, I visited my old Kingston High School, and went over to the Manual Training Building. It seems to me the buildings have grown in all directions. No doubt there are small colleges, some perhaps with high standards which do not have the facilities, equipment and fine buildings we already have.

The custodians in the high school do a wonderful job. I was there in the evening and one could hardly believe that during the day, thousands of young children have spent the day there. There was not a mark on the walls, nor a piece of scrap paper anywhere, not even fingerprints on the glass. The custodians are to be congratulated for taking care of the buildings for the taxpayers.

I understand the homemaking department is really magnificent. I did not have a chance to see it. Of course education does not only consist of brick, cement, metal and glass. The talents of the teachers is important, and many are truly dedicated and sincere teachers.

I see the school buses when they wind their way out of the buildings with its mass evacuation of students. It certainly is a far cry from when I use to go to No. 13 School in Port Ewen, and then later to No. 3 in Kingston, on foot. I managed. I remember when walking to school and the first bell could be heard and you had to put on speed. You acquired friends on the way to school for whom you waited or called. Some called for you.

Today it is big school buses and big gymnasiums. I wonder if youngsters of today have penny candy stores, like Mr. Crook's in Port Ewen, or Abraham's on Chambers Street we went to. We small youngsters used to stand on a box so we could see the candy case. There were toys for a penny, too. We seldom had a nickle. You could get an ice cream cone for two cents, two flavors, in my time.

Washington Monument

Construction of the Washington Monument in the U. S. capital began in 1848, but the 81,-120-ton obelisk was not completed until 1884. Since the first measurements were taken, the monument has settled some six inches. More than 32 million visitors have ridden to the top in its elevator or climbed its 898 metal steps.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Santa Claus will stuff the nation's collective stocking as never before.

This is said without losing sight for a moment of the grim exceptions—the hard core of unemployed whose outlook is no whit the cheerier for the season; the areas here and there that have been hard hit by drought or storms or disappearing industries; the companies and whole industries whose problems seem to mount.

Prosperous Yule

But for the majority, and averaging out the statistics for the nation as a whole, it's a most prosperous Christmas.

Retail trade is setting a record with the last-minute rush still to come.

Industrial production, as a whole, is at the highest point in our history. So is the average takehome pay of the factory workers.

Many stocks are at peak prices, with the popular stock indexes at or near a record.

Bonuses for Many

Total dividend payments are setting a record this year, with many companies declaring specials for the yearend. Employe Christmas bonuses are being announced by many firms.

Employment has never been higher at this time of year. Even unemployment, stubborn as it is, represents a lower percentage of the total labor force than it did earlier this year. And in recent weeks factories have recalled many laid-off workers.

And the flood of predictions for 1962—for what they're worth—concentrate on even better times ahead. They vary largely in just how much better the individual soothsayer thinks times will be.

"We have definitely passed from the recovery stage to the expansion stage," says William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. He bases that on the November performance of the board's industrial production index. Its latest month's spurt took it to a record.

Shoppers' Rush Pleasing

As one result, corporate profits for the final months of the year are expected to advance sharply from the totals announced for the July-September quarter. Many industries expect profits to range well above the returns in the final quarter of 1960.

The rush of Christmas shoppers is pleasing not only the merchants but also the manufacturers of consumer goods. They are counting on store buyers being in a spending mood both for replacement and new goods.

Happiest of all could be the auto makers and dealers. The spurt of new car sales is causing the makers to set high production schedules for the period just ahead. Some are talking confidently of another seven-million car year, comparable to the record 1955 volume.

And being car-minded, Americans in general tend to absorb this confidence. When the auto industry is booming, the belief is, every other one should soon be, too.

Child Incubator

First incubator for rearing children too weak to survive, or prematurely born, was constructed in 1880 and used in a maternity hospital of Paris, France.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Sometime, years from now, my daughter will ask me around Christmas what I appreciate most.

If I am honest, I am sure I will have to tell her that the sweetest second of my existence was the one after I was sure that a man didn't shoot me throught the head.

Amid Pleas for Help

At the close of the second World War, another correspondent and I were poised at Pilsen, Czechoslovakia. It was about 55 miles from Prague, and the Czechs sent men through the lines pleading for the Americans to come and free their capital.

This could not be done. A political line had been drawn.

I asked the commander of our area whether we correspondents might move. He implied he had more important concerns at the moment, and shrugged us free to seek our own dismay.

The Germans had, we hoped, been given an order not to fire toward the West that day.

Cy Peterman of the Philadelphia Inquirer and I took a jeep and drove through 55 miles of fully armed Germans retreating to the West to reach Prague.

Area in Tumult

It was the very end of the war and the area was in tumult. The citizens of Prague greeted us as if we were the vanguard of the American army sent to free them, as their emissaries had asked. We were not. We were only two U.S. correspondents in a jeep.

Shortly after Cy and I entered Prague, a Russian motorcycle came in from the West. Then, Russian after Russian came in and the individuals became a series of waves.

Peterman speaks broken German and spoke it. I am afraid that I looked like a German sergeant in search of command. The brave Czech people knew we were Americans, but the incoming Russians didn't.

Czechs Stepped Reds

Twice the Russians started to shoot us. The Czechs intervened. I figured we might run out of local help and said, "Cy, I think we'd better get out of here—our Allies don't seem to know us too well."

He agreed and we left—with the help of the exhilarated Czech patriots.

We caught up with the retreating fully armed German SS columns and drove through and past them back to the area of Pilsen again.

As we neared Pilsen the patrols of the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division were disarming the arriving Germans. They pointed at the roadside ditch, and the Nazis threw down their arms.

Cy wanted a souvenir and slowed our jeep as a German truck loaded with Nazi troops paused at a throwaway point. We got down into the ditch to pick up some souvenir guns.

Luck Almost Runs Out

I looked up and there was a German with a pistol pointed at the middle of my forehead. I thought, "Well, this is just my luck. After all these years, at the last moment I have to meet a surrendering German who has enough sense of humor to pull a final trigger."

There was only one thing to do. I gestured imperatively at the ditch.

He hesitated and then his gun tumbled down into the ditch. I reached down and seized it, and got out of there.

But after all these years I am grateful at Christmas—and other times—to that unknown German soldier who could have pulled that trigger, considered it—and didn't.

Immunization Protects Men Of Armed Forces

Soldiers work, eat and live together and are highly susceptible to contagious diseases. To combat the hazard of infection in large groups the Army is forced to give its men and women in uniform immunization against especially contagious diseases.

The Army Medical Corps takes every precaution to raise the degree of each individual's resistance to disease. By doing so it protects military personnel as well as surrounding communities from mass epidemics and the importation of diseases foreign to the United States.

To achieve this end the Army's compulsory immunization regulation requires that each recruit be immediately vaccinated against smallpox and then be given a series of shots against typhoid fever, tetanus, polio and influenza.

The need for it is obvious when one considers the mission of the soldier which is to fight anywhere and under any conditions on terrain ranging from the frozen tundras to the swamps and jungles.

It is not only the Army that worries about its personnel. To prevent the spread of diseases worldwide which are indigenous to particular lands, there is an international sanitary regulation, a treaty among 67 nations including the United States, under the World Health Organization which requires the immunization of travelers between the signatory nations. This also requires the immunization of United States military personnel before they can be stationed in these countries.

It is under this treaty that any American applying for a passport to visit a foreign land must first have a recent smallpox vaccination and then, in particular cases, shots for diseases common to that country such as yellow fever shots for those going to Panama and shots against cholera for travelers to Korea.

Crossings Will Go

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission said today it had approved contract plans and specifications for the elimination of two grade crossings in Canastota.

The commission said bids would be sought by the State Department of Public Works on the construction of two concrete and steel bridges at an estimated cost of $2,051,000.

The bridges would carry New York Central railroad tracks over South Peterboro and South Main Streets in the Madison Count community.

Early Printing

Wood-block printing was invented by the Chinese perhaps as early as A.D. 770. The King of Korea established a foundry for the casting of movable type about 1403 but Koreans probably learned the process from the Chinese.

Recent Call-up Increases Need For Army Nurses

The Army urgently needs 1,000 nurses and has appealed to the Army Reserves to inform registered nurses, male or female, of the opportunities for service, advancement, added experience and training open to them as members of a Reserve unit.

Recently a poster was distributed throughout New York, New Jersey and the New England states which asks 'If They Must Go . . . Nurses, Can You Remain Behind?" With approximately 150,000 National Guardsmen and Army Reservists called to active duty with the U. S. Army recently, the need for skilled medical personnel is only too obvious.

Some 500 physicians, 150 dentists and 70 veterinarians are being drafted in support of the nation's build-up of the military forces. Greatly needed nurses cannot be drafted. Some, already members of a Reserve unit, have answered the call, but in many cass of Army Reserve medical units called to active duty the nurse positions have been vacant and have had to be filled from the control group of nurses not assigned to units. A shortage of nurses also exists in civilian hospitals, thus making it even more difficult to recruit for Reserve units.

Registered nurses with operating room, psychiatric or emergency nursing experience are particularly needed for the Field and Mobile Army Surgical Hospital Reserve units. Further information about the Army Reserve nurse program may be secured from Chief Nurse, First U. S. Army, Governors Island, New York 4.

Again we're first with the car that sets trends in

looks & luxury

Right from the day of Galaxie's introduction—back in 1959—it upset the apple cart of the higher-priced cars.

Its crisp, clean Thunderbird-inspired roofline was such an immediate success that today you see it reflected even in the styling of higher-priced cars.

Galaxie's popular appeal had the solid foundation of trend-setting style . . . Thunderbird V-8* power . . . fabulous fittings and fabrics.

Then last year, Galaxie started another new trend—low-maintenance features. Now for 1962, Galaxie introduces twice-a-year maintenance. Routine service is reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, only twice a year or every 6,000 miles on the rest.

In every way . . . for 1962 . . . Galaxie bridges the gap between the popular-price field and the high-price field. Galaxie brings you a new kind of quality construction . . . a new smoothness of ride . . . a new quietness in its travel . . . every essential feature of far more costly luxury cars!

Come see for yourself. Say "hello" to the new Galaxie/500—and you'll say "good-bye" to the higher-priced cars of the past. *Optional at extra cost

Cuban Fiasco Real Bitter Blow

Did JFK Underestimate World Difficulties During Campaign?

EDITOR'S NOTE—Discussing world problems is one thing, trying to solve them another. John F. Kennedy, after making the transition from candidate to President, was not the first to discover this truism—though his lesson may have been unusually dramatic. This is the last of five articles.

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — During his presidential campaign John F. Kennedy often pointed out that, while the Republicans were in control of the White House, the iron curtain had been rolled down in once friendly Cuba.

"If you can't stand up to Castro," Kennedy said in Johnstown, Pa., "how can you be expected to stand up to Khrushchev?"

Did He Understand

This is repeated not as a reproof—if presidents were judged by their campaign talk they would all be failures—but as an illustration of how far Kennedy may have underestimated the difficulties in modern international relations.

Not that Kennedy, even when the campaign was hottest, ever took these problems lightly. But example after example can be cited to show that he believed that, with proper diligence, answers favorable to the United States could be found.

More Examples

Let's look at just a couple more from 1960.

"I am not satisfied with the drift of events today," he said in Granite City, Ill. "I am not satisfied to be reading every day that Khrushchev and Castro and the Chinese are on the upward march. I want to read that the United States is once again asserting its leadership as a great and free country, which offers a ray of hope to all those who wish to follow our example."

Or in Fargo, N.D.:

"Can you tell me anywhere in a crisis, from Cuba to the Congo to Laos, where the United States has been ahead of events?"

For a man who had hoped to control the tides of history, the Cuban fiasco must have been as bitter a blow as any president ever received in what, theoretically, was a time of peace.

It shocked and dismayed his friends.

Made Ammunition

It loaded his enemies with ready-made ammunition, although a few rushed out to shoot during such a critical time for the nation. One prominent Republican, who never had liked the Kennedy picture of infallibility, commented recently that "Cuba was a godsend."

Those who believed that U.S. intervention in Cuba was immoral blamed Kennedy for being mixed up in it.

Those who wanted action blamed him for not following up with the strength that would have made the invasion successful.

Communists—and many who weren't Communists at all—claimed this as fresh evidence that Uncle Sam is an imperialist meddler never to be trusted.

Out of this, one haunting question continues to arise: Hit with such a disaster so early in his term, has Kennedy been more timid, afraid of even mild risks, than he might otherwise have been?

A man close to Kennedy insists the answer is no, but that he has made sure it never happens again.

Those around Kennedy maintain this nation is doing much better internationally than is generally thought.

Their Views

They make these points:

If Laos and the Congo remains as dangerous as ever, at least the Communists haven't taken over.

If Castro is still boss of Cuba, a more active interest in South America has helped to stem the spread of Castroism there.

If Berlin remains unsolved, intricate probings for solutions continue. Or, in the words of a White House assistant: "We're a long way from out of the woods, but at least we have some basis for negotiations."

If the international situation remains critical, the military has been strengthened—two-thirds of all money added to the budget has been in this area—and a start has been made on civil defense.

Yet even in its most favorable light, all this isn't seizing the initiative. And nearly all these explanations could have been made a year ago as well as now.

As Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, said in the Senate on Sept. 21: "What has happened that permits Khrushchev to act as he does? Let me repeat: What has happened that lets him do it?

There's No Change

"Understand me, please. Not what he is doing. We know that only too well. Our national honor bears the scars and stains of what he is doing now and has done in the past. And he has warned us, arrogantly, of what he intends to do in the future, which is even worse. These things we know.

"But today—now—why does he feel free to do as he does? Why?"

Mrs. Smith's questions sound like a paraphrase of Kennedy's campaign talk. That they still are asked a year after the campaign shows how hard it is to find acceptable answers.

Perhaps none of us fully realizes how radically the presidency has changed.

William McKinley once commented to a visitor that, since he hadn't looked at the map, he had no idea where Manila was.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, during a war truly worldwide, had few thoughts about most of Africa.

Even Dwight D. Eisenhower took office in the pre-space age.

New World to Them

All our recent presidents have had to operate in a new, exciting and often bewildering world.

It has turned into a world of megatons, of moon shots, of new nations popping into existence so rapidl professional geographers must be in difficulties.

Whereas foreign affairs rapidly took little of a president's time, they now threaten to consume all of it.

Whenever administration officials are asked why Kennedy has not pushed harder for his domestic program, or why he has not explained his—and the nation's—problems to the people more fully the answer always is: The President is too tied up with foreign affairs.

There's no way to determine whether Kennedy really is this occupied, or whether this reply is designed to cut off further questioning. After all, Eisenhower had heavy foreign burdens, too.

But no one can doubt the enormity or the complexity of the problems created by an implacable foe and by Allies of widely differing aims and hopes.

On his recent trip through the West Kennedy tried to explain some of his difficulties in foreign affairs.

Not Easy to Solve

"We must face problems," he said in Seattle, "which do not lend themselves to easy, quick or permanent solutions.

"And we must face the fact that the United States is neither omnipotent nor omniscient, that we cannot always impose our will on the other 94 per cent of mankind, that we cannot right every wrong or reverse each adversity, and that therefore there cannot be an American solution for every world problem."

This is a far different tone than he used while campaigning in Johnstown or Granite City or Fargo.

But responsibility is often humbling.

And to close this evaluation of the President let's turn to a top Republican, harshly critical in other areas, who said: "In times of crisis, you're first concerned about your family, your own existence. He is the President of us all, and his success is your success. You have got to wish him well."

• BRIDGE

First Ruff Counted Most

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the most used bridge cliches is "Don't sent a boy on a man's errand!"

This hand from the Nail- Hathorn book shows how failure to observe this principle cost South a vulnerable slam.

The hand looked uncomplicated. South won the opening heart lead in dummy and noted that East dropped the three spot. He led a heart to his ace and when East played the five South, cheerfully led a third heart and ruffed with dummy's ten of spades.

The boy failed to do the job. East overruffed with the jack and led a trump. South floundered around and played out his cards to the bitter end, but wound up losing the last trick.

Apart from East's deliberate failure to echo to show a doubleton heart, there was no reason at all for South to lose the hand.

He should simply have used his man for the errant and ruffed the third heart with the ace.

Then he could return to his hand and ruff the fourth heart with the ten. East could overruff or not as he wished, but South would have been home with game, slam and rubber.

Health Club on Upswing at YMCA

The Health Club section of the Kingston YMCA is growing larger each week due to many innovations, Physical Director Steve Orozco has announced.

Adapting a course in Physical fitness to meet the needs of the men of this area has been the prime motivating fact or behind the growth of the group. The exercises are designed to improve daily living and to strengthen areas of the body, such as stomach, arms, chest, shoulders, and legs, which are constantly used but very often neglected. Men in the class are advised to progress at their own rate but are encouraged to constantly strive for the maximum limit for the evening.

Classes meet every Monday and Thursday from 7-10 p. m. following the one half hour exercise period the men form volleyball teams and play at this activity for approximately one hour. An invigorating steam bath and refreshing swim usually concludes the activities for the evening. A volleyball team is being formed to participate in Inter-YMCA Competition with the Middletown and Newburgh's YMCA's Health group.

Some of the men actively engaged in the Monday and Thursday activities are: Willis Locke, Ernest Lombardi, Joseph Klonowski, Robert Hillis, William Bovee, John Lupton, Robert Jenkins, Michael Edwards, James Volker, Richard Little Harry Mahood, Rev. Willis Scott, George Uhl, Richard Poole, Francis Vogt, Richard Ryan, Carl Esposito, John Purvis, and Gus Cunevales.

Any men interested in joining these classes, or in obtaining additional information, contact Steve Orozco at the local YMCA.

Leaves Are Lungs

In effect, leaves are the lungs of a tree. The underside of each leaf is pitted with thousands of porelike stomata through which the leaf inhales and exhales oxygen and carbon dioxide.

Two Painters Killed As Scaffold Collapses

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — Two workmen were killed and a third was injured in the collapse of scaffolding at the Alcoa aluminum plant where they were painting the ceiling of a building.

Peter Bero, 56, of Hogansburg, and Albert J. Leafe of Massena, died after falling 40 feet Thursday to a concrete floor.

Calvin B. Harvey of Massena was reported in serious condition in a hospital.

Mother, Son Killed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Marian Poinlman, 36, of Hamburg, and her son, Daniel, 4, were killed Thursday in a collision between their car and a truck on the State Thruway near suburban Cheektowaga.

Retiring From Hercules

WILMINGTON, Del. — J. Joseph Kelleher Sr., sales manager, Explosive Department, Hercules Powder Company, is retiring after 40 years of service in the explosive business. His retirement is effective December 31. Through his close association with leaders of America's mining and construction companies, Kelleher was probably the best known representative of explosives manufacturers in the United States. Kelleher joined Hercules in 1929 and has served in the Explosives Department throughout his entire career with the company. Prior to joining Hercules he was employed by Du Pont and the Peerless Explosives Company.

Hollywood News and Views

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Note from the boss: "Nostalgic piece of footprints at Grauman's? N. Wood 138th in 34 years. When do they remove the blocks? On death? Any footprinters still around but non-working, whose blocks have been consigned to the graveyard of Grauman's blocks?"

Note to boss: Went to Grauman's Chinese Theater; You'll note it confirmed on my expense account. No gawkers around, so I had the blocks all to myself and the doorman.

In to Stay

All 138 blocks present and accounted for, including damp cement with petite paws of Natalie Wood. Bum steer on block graveyard. Blocks may be dug up and moved, but never tossed out. Once you're in cement at Grauman's, you're in to stay.

Nostalgia everywhere you step. Oldtimers get tramped on the most. These names in front of the theater entrance: Bebe Daniels, Marion Davies, Mary Pickford, Norma and Constance Talmadge. Most of the early signers wrote messages to Sid Grauman, who built the gawdy house (and later lost it).

Outlasts Marriages

Observation: Cement lasts longer than Hollywood marriages. Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor share a block dated 1941. Dick Powell and Joan Blondell are side-by-side in cement though not in life. They co-autographed in 1937.

Who is Oskar Werner? A good question. He's a German actor who appeared in "The Big Life". Therein lies the failing of the footprints. Too often they were used merely to publicize a current movie, rather than to reward an enduring star.

Most of the kids made it: Shirley Temple, Jane Withers, Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Cooper, Deanna Durbin, Judy Garland, Margaret O'Brien, Donald O'Connor, Mickey Rooney. Plus a lot of grown-up greats: Gable, Bogart, MacDonald and Eddy, Astaire, Cooper, Chevalier, Crosby, DeHavilland, Davis, Crawford, Garson, Grant, Dressler, Beery, Harlow, Fonda, March, Skelton, Stewart, Taylor (Bob and Liz), Williams, Turner, Wayne, Hudson, right down to young Miss Natalie Wood.

But no Charlie Chaplin, Mack Sennett, Spencer Tracy, Errol Flynn, Marlon Brando, Claudette Colbert, James Cagney, Ingrid Bergman, Frank Sinatra, Grace Kelly, Ronald Colman or William Holden. Nor Rin-Tin-Tin.

Bank Official Retires After 40 Years Service

William Ziegler, executive vice-president and cashier of the Saugerties National Bank and Trust Company, will retire on January 1 from the bank he has been associated with for the past 40 years.

He is presently on vacation for three weeks prior to his retirement date, and his assistant, John F. Carnright, has assumed the position of executive vice president until the annual meeting of the board of directors Jan. 9. A successor to the position will be named at that time.

Mr. Ziegler is an active leader in the community, having served as commander of Lamouree-Hackett Post 72, American Legion, master of Ulster Lodge 193, F & AM, member of the board of education for several years and also as president of the board. He was chairman of the 1961 Saugerties Community Chest drive which exceeded the quota in its first fund raising venture in the township. Mr. Ziegler has also served as chairman of Group 6, New York State Bankers' Association and president of its Safe Deposit Section.

Mr. Carnright has been in the employ of the Saugerties bank since 1942.

Christmas Events Are Scheduled at Church

The Rev. Frederick J. Imhoff of the First Congregational Church has invited the young people of the church to assist in setting up and trimming the Christmas tree Saturday afternoon, 1 p. m.

There will be no Sunday school Dec. 24, but all children are expected to attend the morning worship service at 11 a. m. with their parents.

A family dinner will be served in the Sunday school room following the service at 12:15 p. m. A Christmas program and presentation of gifts will follow.

Youth Council Sets Teenager Activities

The Saugerties Youth Council held a brief meeting in the village clerk's room Wednesday night with the main discussion centering around the Saturday night basketball games and record hops which are sponsored weekly by the council, at the Municipal Auditorium.

All local teenagers may attend these sessions which begin at 6:35 p. m. with a Youth Council sponsored league basketball game. There have been two games played and there will be one each Saturday night for the next 15 weeks. Dancing follows, some with music by the Corvettes, a local musical group, and others by the use of the new hi-fi set donated to the council by the IBM Club.

The teenagers are well supervised by council members and parents, and no one from out of the area is admitted.

Vernon Joe Benjamin of the Youth Council, said today that the skating rink on the Cantine Field across from the Main Street School will be flooded as soon as weather permits. Attending the meeting in addition to Benjamin were Mrs. Jed Bond, Charles Mullaney and John Mullaney.

Glasco Festivities

Santa Claus will be at the Glasco Firehouse Sunday 2 p. m. to welcome all the children of the district and give them Christmas candy. The Ladies Auxiliary of the fire company will cooperate with the firemen in the annual party by serving refreshments.

Tidewater Buys Out Petroleum Distributor

NEW YORK (AP)—An Auburn petroleum distribution firm, with outlets in four Central New York counties, has been purchased by the Tidewater Oil Co.

Tidewater announced yesterday it had purchased all of the assets of Fred L. Drake Inc., a firm that has operated 17 service stations. The Drake concern also had two lease service stations, a warehouse, and more than 75 dealer, commercial and farm accounts, Tidewater said.

The 33-year old Drake firm has operated in Cayuga, Seneca, Wayne and Ontario counties.

The children taking part in the program will practice Saturday 2 p. m.

Community Events

The annual lighting of the Christmas tree on the village green will take place Sunday 4 p. m. The public may attend.

A Christmas greens training school was conducted at the Hurley Reformed Church Saturday by the Ulster County 4-H Clubs. Mrs. William Paetow attended along with three local 4-H girls, Eve Schaefer, Theresa Gilmore, and Lorraine Paetow. The girls returned with many new and interesting ideas for holiday decorations includng wreaths, trees, candles and terrariums. Harriet and Caroline Weber of the Clove also attended the training session.

Mrs. Christella Clearwater entertained at dinner on Wednesday evening some of those who were helpful in maintaining services in the Clove Chapel for the summer. Guests were the Rev. George Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Decker, Mrs. Lucy Countryman of Accord and Mrs. David Stokes and Lloyd Stokes of New Paltz.

Mrs. Herbert Darrow is a patient at the Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jansen were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lyons of Wurtsboro.

Killed Landing Jet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Cmdr. Robert W. Paige was killed Dec. 10 when a jet fighter he was piloting crashed as he attempted a landing aboard the carrier Saratoga in the western Mediterranean.

The Navy, in making the announcement yesterday, said Paige is survived by his widow, Norma, and two children, of Jacksonville, Fla.

BABSON REVIEWS 1961

BABSON PARK, Mass., Dec. 15—In any review of this sort, I must mention the Federal Reserve Index of Industrial Production. This index averaged 108 for 1960, and according to my estimate 1961 should average higher, — around 109. This barometer measures only physical volume of production. The government issues another figure which is a measure of dollar values and includes services and miscellaneous businesses as well as factory output. This figure, the Gross National Product, averaged $504 billion in 1960, and I estimate it will average around $522 billion for 1961.

Personal Income

Notwithstanding the recession which extended into early 1961, personal income not only held up very well this year, but advanced above 1960. This figure concerns every reader of this column, and recognizes what was lost by the automobile workers and others affected by strikes. The more strikes, the less personal income.

Employment

Beginning in February of 1961, employment rose steadily, except for the auto strike period. With gradually rising employment and wages, 1961 will wind up with a good record for 1962 to shoot at. We hope this will mean an increase in advertising, which should benefit newspapers as well as retailers.

Retail Trade

Retail trade has been fairly good during 1961, even though sales did not rise commensurate with the climb in personal income. What housewives did not spend they used to build up savings accounts or reduce installment loans. Therefore, consumers should enter 1962 with a good foundation.

New Building

New building increased through most of the first half of 1961, but lost steam later in the year. This lack of follow-up strength was due to increasing vacancies of houses for rent and sale, plus the fundamental downward trend in the cycle of family formation. Unlike food or gasoline, new houses are not consumed; hence they accumulate in case of overbuilding.

Commodity Market

The Bureau of Labor's Wholesale Price Index has been narrowly irregular all during 1961. Prices for agricultural and primary commodities have moved only moderately upward. Hence, farmers and producers of raw materials have not fared so well, profitwise, in 1961 as have manufacturers. A stronger upturn in commodity prices must occur in 1962, if the business uptrend is to be extended.

Stock Market

As we have heretofore explained, there are three Dow-Jones Averages. The first, which most people watch, is the Industrial Stock Average. This started 1961 at 610, its low for the year, and at this writing is around 730. The second D-J Average is that of railroad stocks. This Rail Average was indecisive until the closing months of the year when it worked moderately higher. There are comparatively fewer shares of railroad stocks in this Average and comparatively fewer shares of stock outstanding. Hence, manipulators have a better chance of playing their game with the rail stocks. This Average opened 1961 at 131 and at this writing is 147. The third of the Dow-Jones Averages is the Utility Average; this has gone up almost steadily.

Government Spending

Unfortunately, all of these seven aspects of the economy are very dependent upon government spending. This has been primarily for defense, and it seems indirectly to affect every reader of this column. Government spending for goods and services should average around $109 billion for 1961, which exceeds that of World War I, World War II, or the Korean War. I doubt if any reader of this column will ever witness total disarmament; but I do believe that there will be some international foolproof agreement against the use of nuclear weapons. This could cause a sudden decline in the income of manufacturers, retailers, employes, and of almost every reader of this column.

Girls Scout Notes

The theme of Girl Scouting for the current year is community service, and in Wallkill the Brownies and Girl Scouts have been busy planning and participating various projects for several community organizations.

Brownie Troop 78 planted tulip bulbs around the monument in the Library Park during the past month. Caring for the bulbs and watching them grow will be a year-round project for the Brownies. The bulbs were donated by Howell's Fuel and Lumber Company. The troop is planning a Christmas program for their mothers later this month. Mrs. Lee Totman is troop leader.

Brownie Troop 100 under supervision of Mrs. Everett Poole, children's rehabilitation center at West Haverstraw. They also collected 22 children's books to donate to the Wallkill Library. The troop planted tulip bulbs around the town hall building and the library. These, too, were donated by Howell Fuel & Lumber.

Troop 41, Intermediate Girl Scouts was organized in October under the leadership of Mrs. John Gariner and Alice Sloan. The troop is currently working on tenderfoot rank requirements. Troop consultant Mrs. Herbert DuBois attended a recent meeting to demonstrate the use and care of the jackknife and the use of the compass. The troop also took a nature walk and practiced laying trail signs. During November the leaders demonstrated the proper way to perform the flag ceremony.

Through the coming year Scouts will decorate the children's corner of the Wallkill Library with posters and displays to participate in their community service projects for the year.

Wallkill Girl Scout Troop 42 under the leadership of Mrs. Patricia Auchmoody and Mrs. H. Stickney will decorate a Christmas tree in the reference room of the Wallkill Public Library.

Several girls from this troop also participated in the carol singing of the group at the annual Christmas party and program of the Wallkill Chamber held last week, as part of their community service.

Saved Show

Vienna's Spanish Riding School, world's foremost equestrian academy, might have disappeared forever in World War II's rubble had it not been for Gen. George S. Patton Jr., who enabled the school's director to round up and reorganize his scattered troupe. The breeding herd was rescued from Czechoslovakia.

Musical Society Has Christmas Program, Social

The Musical Society met at the home of Mrs. Amos Newcombe on Tuesday, Dec. 12. Mrs. Willard Burke and Mrs. DeWeese DeWitt arranged the program.

After a short business meeting, traditional Christmas carols were sung by the group with Mrs. Raymond Rignall playing bells. Mrs. DeWitt gave the narration of the Christmas Story which was followed by the singing of the Cantata by Matthews.

The choral group consisted of the following members: the Mmes. Clarence Beehler, Edward Flick, Bernard Forst, Harold Francis, Ralph Harper, John Mac Kinnon, Peter Palen, William Rylance, Albert Sonnenberg, LeRoy Vogt, Clarence Wolfersteig and William Wood.

Assisting the choral group were Clarence Beehler and Henry Peyer. Mrs. David Smith supplied the violin obligatos and Miss Edna Merrihew accompanied the Cantata. Mrs. Willard Burke directed.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Edward Flick, Mrs. John Snyder, and Mrs. Lloyd Le Fever.

Completes Training

Marine Pvt. Peter J. Stein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Stein of Stone Ridge, completed recruit training recently at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C.

The 12-week training program includes drill, bayonet training, physical conditioning, parades and ceremones and other military subjects, including the M-1 rifle and other basic marine infantry weapons.

The new marines will next report to Camp Lejeune, N. C., for combat infantry training.

Christmas Through the Years

Christmas has had some hard times over the centuries, but fortunately those who opposed it didn't really stop anyone from celebrating.

Some American colonists, only a few hundred years ago, did not observe the celebration. Across the Atlantic, a leading English Puritan compared Christmas with pagan Roman revelries.

Puritan settlers in New England termed Christmas observances "an abomination," and said they were "wanton Bacchanalian feasts," according to Mrs. Jeannette Lee, a petite brunette designer and artist.

"Christmas entertaining, although an idea centuries old, is still one of the fondest activities of the Yuletide," says Mrs. Lee

As an example of opposition, she said the General Court of Massachusetts in 1658 enacted a law to punish those who "kept Christmas."

". . . Anybody who is found observing, by abstinence from labor, feasting, or any other way, any such days as Christmas day, shall pay for each such offense five shillings," the Massachusetts law said.

An English Puritan pamphleteer, William Prynne (1600-1669), compared Christmas with pagan Roman revelries. Wrote Prynne: "If we compare our Bacchanalian Christmases and New Years Tides with these Saturnalia and Feasts of Janus, we shall finde such near affinitye betweene them both in regard of time (both of them being spent in revelling, epicurisme, wantonese, idleneese, dancing, drinking, Stage-plaies, Masques and carnall Pompe and Jollity), that wee must needes conclude the one to be but the very ape or issue of the other."

Even before our modern Yuletide festival, the style of which evolved in the past 200 years, it was a common practice in England and throughout much of Europe to have festive gatherings at Christmastime.

People in the north of England gathered 'round the Wassail (derived from warm ale) bowl for dancing, feasting and merriment. The Christmas pudding, boar's head and mince pie were the menu of the day.

These foods have largely given way to turkey and cranberries at Christmas, and homes and holiday tables are more beautifully decorated for the season than ever before, Mrs. Lee said.

One reason is because the traditional symbols of Christmas—Santa Claus, snowmen, holly, poinsettias, mistletoe, nativity scenes and others—provide motifs that are universally popular for easy decorating and entertaining.

The influence of Charles Dickens' writings (notably "A Christmas Carol," in 1843) and the acceptance of the celebration of Christ's birth by most religions helped shape the American Christmas festival between 1850 and 1900, Mrs. Lee said.

Santa Claus, who once was considered to be a thin man, became plump and jolly, patterned after the description given by Dr. Clement Clark Moore in his famous poem of 1822, entitled "A Visit from St. Nicholas," but now better known as "The Night Before Christmas."

The first legal recognition of the holiday came in 1836, by Alabama. Gradually the other states followed suit, culminating with official approval by Oklahoma in 1890.

Puppy Buyer's Kit

A puppy buyer's kit which gives the person who plans to get a puppy for Christmas what he needs to know—everything from deciding which breed will suit him best to where he can purchase it—has been brought out by a research center in New York.

In the kit is a 36" x 27" chart in color, showing pictures of the 114 dog breeds recognized by the American Kennel Club, together with data on physical characteristics and natural abilities. Also included is a 60-page booklet entitled "Where to Buy, Board or Train a Dog," which not only lists places throughout the country where a dog of the desired breed may be purchased, but also includes a great deal of useful information to answer the buyer's questions concerning selection of his pet. "Which Dog For You" is the title of a section covering subjects such as: Is a large or small dog preferable; is a male or female dog most desirable; what are the relative advantages of long- and short-haired breeds? The booklet also carries special advice on buying a dog for a child and counsel on the care of the new puppy in the home.

More information about the booklet may be obtained by contacting me at The Freeman.

SPCA Seeks Aid For Animals at Local Shelter

An urgent appeal has been made by the Ulster County SPCA on behalf of the many animals housed in the Shelter on Brabrant Road.

Operating expenses for the Shelter during the past year have totaled more than $15,000. Many animals required the professional services of a veterinarian, there were medicines to buy and special care to be provided. In addition to high food and fuel bills, the Shelter must also maintain an ambulance.

Members of the SPCA would appreciate any monetary donation, however small, or a case of food for the animals. In charge of donations is Margaret B. Johnson, 283 Washington Avenue, this city.

Early Ink

First ink used in early Egyptian and Chinese civilization (about 2500 B.C.) consisted of lamp black ground with a solution of glue or gums, with the mixture being molded into sticks and allowed to dry.

INVITING A FRIEND IN MOURNING

Q: Every year during the Christmas holiday I give a large buffet party. About six months ago the husband of a very dear friend of mine passed away. Both she and her husband came to this buffet party every year. I would like to know if it would be proper to send her an invitation this year as usual. I really don't know what to do as I'm afraid she might be hurt if I don't invite her, and on the other hand, she might think me heartless if I do.

A: Don't send her an invitation but tell her, or write her a note, saying that you are giving your usual buffet party and that, if she feels up to coming, you will be delighted to have her.

Keeping the Aisle Seat in Church

Q: Every Sunday I grow more distressed over the rudeness of many who attend church and make themselves comfortable on the aisle seats, forcing those who come later to climb over them as best they can. Surely in church all seats are the same and it seems to me that people could move over. Will you discuss this in your column?

A: At a wedding, those who come early and are given an aisle seat may properly keep it. At a regular church service, however, a courteuos person would move over to make room for any one wishing to enter the pew later.

Three go to a Wedding Together

Q: I am going to a church wedding with my sister-in-law and her husband. She is older by far than I am, so what about the seating of us? When the usher offers her his arm, should I follow with her husband or let him follow her and wait at the back for the usher to come back and show me to my place?

A: You may wait for the usher to come back for you if you wish, but it will be simpler, in order to sit together, if you follow with your sister-in-law's husband.

Collins-Heybruck Wedding Is Announced; Ceremony Takes Place in New York City

Joan Marie Collins and Thomas Joseph Heybruck of Kingston exchanged marriage vows in a double ring ceremony before a nuptial Mass at the Good Shepherd Church, New York City. The wedding, which took place November 4, was announced today to The Freeman.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Collins of

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Heybruck

261 Seaman Avenue, New York, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heybruck Jr., of 22 Summer Street, this city.

Officiating was the Rev. John M. Donelon, C.S.P., assistant pastor of the Good Shepherd Church. Traditional wedding music was provided.

The church was decorated with assorted white flowers and the pews were marked with sprays of flowers and satin ribbon.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white peau de sois full length gown styled with "V" neckline outlined with seed pearls, long tapered sleeves and a chapel length bouffant skirt. Her imported English illusion veil was in a butterfly style and gathered to a double tiered crown of seed pearls. She carried a missal decorated with a cascade of white orchids, glamelias and stephanotis.

Miss Eileen Sexton of New York, the bride's cousin, served as maid of honor in a short dress of beige brocade styled with scoop necklines, three quarter length sleeves and a full skirt. She carried a cascade of gold and rust Fuji mums backed with gold velvet leaves.

Bridesmaids were Miss Teresa Buckley of New York, the bride's cousin, and Miss Cathleen Collins, the bride's sister. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the honor attendants except in deep blue. Their flower arrangements were also the same.

Joan Marie Cartwright, the bride's Godchild, served as flower girl in a short white organdy dress fashioned with blue brocaded sash. She wore a crown of gold flowers in her hair and carried a miniature bouquet of flowers.

John T. Heybruck of Kingston was best man for his brother. Ushering were William P. Collins and Thomas J. Collins Jr., brothers of the bride.

A reception was given at Mayer's Parkway Restaurant, Bronx, for approximately 100 people.

The bride was graduated from the Good Shephard School and Academy of the Sacred Heart of Mary, New York City. She is employed by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company as a stock and bond department investigator for the Treasury Department. Her husband is a graduate of St. Mary's School here and Kingston High School. He is now serving with the U.S. Navy and holds the rank of second class petty officer. He plans to make a career out of the navy. He is now assigned to the USS Tinosa, a new nuclear powered attack submarine currently under construction at Portsmouth Naval Shipyard.

Mr. and Mrs. Heybrouck will be at home at 31 East Richards Avenue, Portsmouth, N. H.

Manhattan Shirt Managers to Meet

Plant managers of The Manhattan Shirt Company, which operates a plant at 27 Hoffman Street, Kingston, will convene in New York City for the annual meetings Monday, according to A. A. Dodds Jr., vice president in charge of production.

The nine plant managers including D. H. Ralby of Kingston, will be concerned with production, research and quality control reviews. The meetings will further familiarize the plant managers with the Manhattan Lady Manhattan merchandise sale and marketing plans for future seasons. The meetings will continue for three days.

Area Accountants Slate Ladies Night

Reservations are still being accepted for the dinner meeting and Ladies Night of Mid-Hudson Chapter, National Association of Accountants to be held Monday 6:30 p. m. at the Nelson House, Poughkeepsie.

Members and guests will hear Surrogate Judge W. Vincent Grady of Dutchess County speak on "The Accountant's Role in Estate Planning."

Francis X. Burnes Jr., will preside.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

What junk you write. That article about the girl who said "I don't feel like it" when her mother asked her to turn down the TV volume made me sick. That mother should have given her a good crack in the face instead of turning down the TV herself and saying, "I'll want to know why you wouldn't do what I asked when I've finished this phone call."

Answer: I have a little story I want to tell you.

I once knew a Miss F who ran a little book and stationery shop which supported her and her mother. One fall when she renewed her lease her landlord agreed to repaint it for her.

The painting job took two days. Anxious not to lose any business, Miss F worked until 3 a. m. on the the first day, replacing stock on her shelves, removing plaster dust, polishing showcases. On the second night she worked until 10 o'clock. Then, dragging home her tired body and aching feet, she entered the living room where her mother was watching TV. Looking up, her parent said, "Mamie, go and make me a cup of tea."

Miss F, an obedient child did as she was told. But the next day when she couldn't locate a book I had ordered, she began to cry. "You must forgive me," she said. "Everything is still in a mess and I've been working late . . . and Mrs. Lawrence, my mother . . . she doesn't love me . . . last night when I got home so tired I could hardly walk she never noticed . . . she never saw. She just said, 'Go and get me . . .'"

Miss F had to see a doctor that afternoon.

You see, this grown child had a very reasonable reason for not feeling like obeying her mother's order to make her a cup of tea.

Sometimes younger children too have reasonable reasons for not jumping to our orders. If we feel not interest in his reasons sooner or later he may know himself to be unloved. The question "Why didn't you do what I asked you to do?" is the bridge we make between us and a resisting child across which he can come over to us and tell us why he is worried, how he has been unwittingly hurt, what is troubling him so that he has been unable to serve us willingly.

Do you always feel like doing what you're told? Are there never times for you when you want someone else to say, "Why didn't you do as I asked? Are you tired? What is wrong? Tell me."

Unidentified Car Reported Cause Of Local Mishap

An unidentified vehicle reportedly caused a three-car chain reaction-type highway accident on Albany Avenue Extension, north of the city line Thursday afternoon, Kingston state police reported.

One of the drivers, Dorothy Marshall, 48, of Tivoli reported neck and head injuries when questioned by troopers.

The other drivers were George Countryman, 43, of Groff Street, and Earl Kimble, 24, of Buckley Street, both Town of Ulster.

Trooper Thomas J. Crowley said all three cars were proceeding north on Route 9W and stopped for a school bus which was halted in the southbound lane. Kimble told troopers an unidentified vehicle struck his car—the third car in line—in the rear, pushing his vehicle into the Marshall car, and the Marshall car was pushed into the rear of the Countryman vehicle. The unidentified car failed to stop, according to Kimble's account to the state police. Trooper Crowley said the mishap is still under investigation. The accident occured at 12:15 p. m.

New Paltz Area Methodist Notes

Advent Services

Worship services on the third Sunday in Advent will be held in the three churches of the New Paltz Methodist Parish. Services will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Willett Porter, and Roger Brown assistant minister to students, beginning at 8:30 a. m. in the New Paltz Church. The service in the Lloyd Methodist Church is at 9:15 a. m. and 11 a. m. in the New Paltz Church. The time of the Plutarch service is 2 p. m.

New members will be received into the fellowship of the New Paltz and Plutarch Churches at the 11 o'clock and 2 o'clock services, respectively.

Plutarch Program

The traditional church and Sunday school Christmas program in the Plutarch Methodist Church will be held Sunday 7:30 p. m. The children's part in the program is being directed by Jack Hoffman, Mrs. Chester Elliott Jr., Miss Cynthia Dibel, and Mrs. Rexford Schneider.

A special part of the program this year will be the message of the Rev. Dr. Emanuel Santi, chaplain and co-director of Casa Materna, Home for Orphan Children in Portici, Naples, Italy. Dr. Santi, who is also an accomplished violinist, having done his undergraduate work at the University of Naples and its Conservatory of Music, will present several musical selections, as well as speak and show slides of Casa Materna. The public may attend.

Christmas Programs

The New Paltz Methodist Sunday school Christmas program for cradle roll, nursery, kindergarten, and primary departments will be held Saturday 3 p. m.

The youth division of the Sunday school, which includes the junior, junior high and senior high departments, will meet at the church school at 6:30 p. m. before travelling to the County Home for the traditional Christmas caroling. The young people will then return to the church for refreshments and a slide program on the Holy Land.

Parents and friends may attend and participate in these two programs.

Holiday Musicale

A Christmas musicale will be presented by the junior and senior choirs of New Paltz Methodist Church Sunday, Dec. 24, at 4 p. m. The program will include selections by the choirs, directed by Mrs. Paul Steiner and Ralph Dennis; congregational singing of favorite carols, and solos by members of the senior choir. All members of the community may attend.

Christmas Eve Service

The traditional Christmas Eve services will be held in the Lloyd and Plutarch Methodist Churches. The candlelight service in the Lloyd Church, on the old New Paltz-Highland Road, is scheduled for 8 p. m. In Plutarch church, the candlelight communion service will take place at 11 p. m. The Rev. Mr. Porter will conduct each of the services and will deliver the Christmas Eve sermon.

Recent Baptisms

The Sacrament of Baptism was administered recently in the New Paltz Methodist Parish to: Jody Carolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Decker, of Gardiner; Alison Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold King, of Kingston Road; George William Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lane of Hawley's Corners Road, Highland; Mary Beth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Scriber, of Tillson; Julia Dawn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stoneman, of Libertyville Road; and Paul Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thompson, of Ohioville. The Rev. Mr. Porter officiated at the baptisms.

Budget May Put Damper on Nike Anti-Missile Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army's Nike-Zeus antimissile project is closer than ever to the production stage. But it may not make it again this yearIperhaps because of a budget squeeze.

President Kennedy and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara agreed less than three weeks ago that Congress should be asked for money to start preparing for production of the missile killer system which is still being tested.

Last weekend, budget and defense authorities again revviewed the military requests for next year.

Then two days ago, sources said, Army officials received informal word that tooling-up money for the Nike-Zeus may not be included when the budget goes to Congress next month.

Nobody would comment for the record.

The Army has spent more than a billion dollars since 1957 to perfect the Nike-Zeus, which would be emplaced to protect the nation's key cities and strategic bases.

It has been estimated a fully operational antimissile defense would cost at least $8 billion.

Just Thursday a Nike-Zeus rocket scored a fourth straight success in a flight planned as its longest to date. It shot out over the Pacific from Point Mugu, Calif. Distance and direction were not announced.

Feet and toes are injured oftener than any other part of the body.

State Has Own Aid Plan for School Shelters

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A plan by New York State to aid school districts in the construction of fallout shelters will be pursued independently of a federal program of incentive payments for shelters in some public institutions.

Any federal aid received by schools under a program announced by the Kennedy administration Thursday will be in addition to state funds, Gov. Rockefeller's office said.

Under the federal program, $700 million in incentive payments would be spent to help schools, hospitals and public welfare institutions build and equip shelters.

Given Approval

The New York State Legislature approved in a special session last month the reimbursement of school districts by the state of up to 50 per cent of the cost of building shelters in public and private schools.

It appeared possible that school districts might build shelters with federal and state funds at no cost to the school districts.

Rocky Chief Supporter

Rockefeller was the chief supporter of the plan adopted by the state. The Legislature provided a total of $85 million for payments to public and private elementary and high schools and private colleges. Another $15 million was allocated to build shelters in schools of the State University and other state buildings.

Rockefeller, as chairman of the civil defense committee of the Governor's Conference, also participated in drafting the federal plan. He was praised by President Kennedy for his role.

$5,200 in Katanga Till

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

You're sitting in the jury box with 11 other American citizens.

The attorneys for the prosecution have completed their impassioned summations. Miles of testimony have been taken. The mores of man, and particularly the sports world, have been expounded.

You retire for deliberation and you must come up with the verdict on this burning question: Should or should not Sonny Liston be given a crack at Floyd Patterson's heavyweight title?

It's not as simple as it sounds. Try it for size on your own conscience first. Then expand your audience to the boys at the club, in your office or shop and in your own social circle. Let's see how you come out.

You will have heard that Sonny Liston has a criminal record that stretches from bawdy East St. Louis to a lonely street in Philadelphia. The ponderous fists that have reduced to quivering hulks a long trail of heavyweight "challengers" are also the same fists that cracked the skulls of Negro laborers in union disputes in East St. Louis. Liston, an illiterate, has waged a relentless one-man battle against society's code, it seems.

It will be told to you that the heavyweight champion sets the pattern for the entire sport. A legitimate world's heavyweight championship bout is regarded as the greatest one-shot spectacle in American sports. You may not agree.

But the violent controversy that will develop as Liston presses his bid for a shot at Patterson will engross in one Manner or other a vast majority of the sports loving fans of the country. You will be among them. Neither you nor I will make the final decision. But if you had to, how would you vote?

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Attorney Robert Ortale of Kingston is mighty proud of his niece, little Donna Thompson of Newburgh, who placed second in the 330 yard dash and second in the 220 in the special midget girls events in the recent Tri-State Speed Skating championships at Grossinger's. Furthermore she had her picture taken with Yankee pitcher, Whitey Ford, one of the honorary judges. . . . Mannie Colao, the bowling barber, is on the mend at his Tammany Street residence after undergoing surgery at the Benedictine Hospital. . . . Ray Spadafora, former Kingston High All-DUSO lineman, won a varsity letter with the Ithaca College. Ray's Indians had a break-even season, winning over Hobart, Kings, Cortland and Brockport, while losing to West Chester, Southern Connecticut, C. W. Post and Alfred. They compiled 176 points to 101 for their opponents. . . . In case you're interested to know where part of your harness track dollar goes: The rate is 5 per cent on the first $175,000 of the daily pool; 7 per cent on the next $125,000; 8 per cent on the next $100,000; 9 per cent on the next $100,000; 10 per cent on the next $100,000; and 11 per cent on all over $600,000, plus 50 per cent of the breakage, with the additional provision that when revenue exceeds that of 1955, the base year established in the law, half of the normal state share of the excess may be set aside in special construction funds. . . . Wiltwyck Country Club has announced plans for another of its New Year's Eve wing-dingers. . . . In a recent poll to elect baseball stars to the B'nai B'rith National Lodge Hall of Fame we picked: George Sisler over Bill Terry; Rogers Hornsby over Charlie Gehringer; Harold (Pie) Traynor over Home Run Baker; Frank Frisch over Joe Cronin; Paul Waner, Jimmy Foxx and Joe DiMaggio over Zack Wheat, Max Carey, Hank Greenberg and Sam Crawford; Bill Dickey over Mickey Cochrane, Ray Schalk and Leo (Gabby) Hartnett. In the pitching department we named Robert Moses Grove over Carl Hubbell, Jerome (Dizzy) Dean and Ted Lyons. . . . We goofed in only one position. Can you guess where? . . . Attention ski fans: The United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association announces the following schedule at Belleayre Ski Center: Feb. 10-11-12, New York State Junior I, II Alpine championships; Feb. 18, Rip Van Winkle Council Giant Slalom; March 11, Belleayre Junior Giant Slalom. The USEASA does not guarantee snow on any of these dates.

Duke-Duquesne Clash Tops Holiday Tournament Slate

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

A key match between two unbeatens — Duke vs. Duquesne — highlights tip-off action in a flock of holiday college basketball tournaments that open tonight.

It was supposed to be a rebuilding year for sophomore-dominated Duke but the Blue Devils may have put it in the past tense — rebuilt.

They've taken five straight, including two Atlantic Coast Conference games, and have been impressive doing it. Their average margin of victory is slightly over 25 points.

Against Duquesne, in first round action of the Steel Bowl at Pittsburgh, the Blue Devils may find a major clue as to how well the rebuilding has been accomplished.

Duquesne, probably the top team Duke has yet encountered, didn't attract much attention in winning its first two but leaped into the limelight with a whipping 62-44 upset of highly-regarded Bowling Green.

Their match heads the tournament list that also includes first round action in the Birmingham Classic at Birmingham, Ala., the Blue Grass Festival at Louisville, Ky., and the City of Roses Tourney at Portland, Ore.

The other first round game at Pittsburgh matches host Pitt and Arizona. At Birmingham, Alabama goes against Virginia Tech and Auburn against Louisiana State. In Louisville, St. Bonaventure tries Western Kentucky and Texas takes on Louisville. In Portland it's Seattle against Houston and St. Mary's (Calif.) vs. Portland.

In some of the other top games, St. John's of New York plays Kansas and Marquette tries Kansas State in a doubleheader at Lawrence, Kan., San Francisco is at fifth-ranked Providence and Wake Forest (No. 3) visits Virginia.

Arkansas stormed to its fourth straight victory, 87-59 over Tulsa, at the top of Thursday night's light schedule, while Bowling Green conquered Michigan 77-67 and Wichita edged Ohio University 58-55.

Raiders to Play In New Gym; Other Tilts Slated

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Overcoming near disaster with two pulsating wins in the final moments of play, the Kingston High basketball team hits the road tonight and will help Port Jervis open its spanking new gym to DUSO clubs in the feature contest of a big card.

Other DUSO action finds Newburgh at Middletown in the city league and Ellenville at Monticello in the village circuit. The DCSL slate has Wappingers at Roosevelt and Arlington at Cardinal Farley. In the UCAL, Pine Bush is at Wallkill, Highland at Onteora and Marlboro at New Paltz. Fallsburgh plays at Rondout Valley in a non-league battle.

A rundown of each league:

DUSO

Team	Won	Lost
Kingston	1	0
Newburgh	1	0
Middletown	1	0
Monticello	0	2

As the standings show, tonight's slate finds the league's unbeaten teams facing each other. Kingston holds a slim win over Liberty at home while the Indians dropped a four point decision to visiting Port Jervis. The Porters rely on big Tex Westbrook and Gibby Romaine for their points. The decision at Liberty has boosted the club's stock and it figures to be even tougher in the new school gym. Kingston has been hot and cold in two winning efforts and must produce a good one to remain unbeaten.

Newburgh is the pre-season favorite and has looked as good as was expected. Middletown nipped Monticello in its opener but figures to run into trouble this time. The Goldies are 'loaded."

Marlboro	1	0
New Paltz	0	1
Highland	0	1

Wallkill is the defending champion and the team figures to repeat. Pine Bush will be playing its first league contest at Wallkill and the Orange County School wasn't impressive in losing two non-circuit starts. Highland and Onteora aren't of championship caliber and the Highlanders are hoping to end a victory famine that has reached 41 games. This could be the time, though the Indians have looked good in spots. Marlboro is the team that has a chance against Wallkill but the Dukes will have some trouble at New Paltz, which has Ken Freer, a solid performer.

The Wappingers - Roosevelt game is a tossup in the DCSL. Though the Fallsmen have lost three times, they will give the pre-season choice some trying moments. Arlington is too strong for Cardinal Farley and should score as it pleases. Saugerties played at Beacon yesterday and is idle tonight.

Bluebonnet Foes Are Much Alike

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Jack Mitchell said today his Kansas Jayhawks and the Rice Owls, opponents in Saturday's Bluebonnet Bowl game, are very much alike.

"I'd say they are about even," said the Kansas coach. "It ought to be a good offensive game."

Mitchell arrived Thursday, a day ahead of his Big Eight Conference team. He was worried because his Jayhawks have had only two practice sessions outdoors since their final regular season game with Missouri.

"The weather has kept us indoors and we really don't have a place to work indoors," he said. "We need work on blocking and pass defense. I really don't know what to expect."

The former Oklahoma quarterback said neither Rice nor Kansas has an explosive-type player who can break up a ball game in a hurry.

"Rice has Butch Blume and we have Curtis McClinton but they aren't James Saxtons, Doak Walkers, or Billy Cannons," he said.

Kansas, with a 6-3-1 record, accepted its second bowl game invitation in history after finishing in a second place tie with Missouri in the Big Eight Conference. Rice claimed third place in the Southwest Conference with a 7-3 record.

Erdelatz Wants West Point Job

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Eddie Erdelatz, who practically made a career of upsetting the Army, wants to be head football coach at West Point.

He said Thursday he has applied for the Army job from which Dale Hall was fired Saturday.

Erdelatz, 47, was fired this season by the professional Oakland Raiders of the American Football League.

Erdelatz coached the Naval Academy from 1950 to 1958, resigning after his ninth season. His Navy teams made a record of 50-26-8, beating Army five times, losing three to the Cadets and tying one.

Hall never beat Navy in his three years as Army's head coach. That was considered the principal reason for his dismissal.

Charlie Sangaline Clicks 56 Balls in Pockets Tourney

Charlie Sangaline, the defending champion, played as a substitute last night and quickly convinced spectators at the Uptown Billiard Parlor why he is a red hot favorite to repeat.

First he polished off Tom Howard by the convincing margin of 125 to 22. Then he proceeded to extend an unfinished run of 39 to 56 balls. His other strings were 26 and 27.

Sangaline's superb performance gave the other contenders something to think about during the holiday recess. The tournament will be resumed early in January.

Syracuse Pick In Liberty Bowl

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Groundminded Syracuse, led by All-America halfback Ernie Davis, clashes with air-minded Miami Saturday in the third annual Liberty Bowl with the Orange favored to win.

Coach Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse and Andy Gustafson of Miami pronounced their squads in good physical condition and ready to go.

Gustafson said passing star George Mira, a sophomore from Key West, Fla., who was held out of drills all week because of a slight case of flu and tonsilitis, definitely would start Saturday.

Both teams arrived Thursday and worked out in the 100,000-seat Philadelphia Stadium, site of the nationally televised (NBC) game which is expected to draw between 15,000 and 20,000 fans on the basis of advance sales.

Mira, who has completed 74 of 151 passed for 896 yards and 8 touchdowns, will arrive here today. He was kept in the infirmary an additional day as a precautionary measure.

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast mostly fair weather with some afternoon cloudiness and a high in the low 30s.

High and Hard

MIAMI, Fla. (NEA)—George Mira, Miami (Florida) sophomore quarterback, has as many deliveries as a good major league pitcher. Mira throws the football hard and fast overhand, side arm or underhand and has a left handed touchdown pass to his credit. His hard one has men gasping. "Mira throws too hard," they chorus, but he has hit on 74 of 151 tosses, just a shade under 50 per cent.

Mitchell Is the Pawn

Cleveland Browns Press Bid To Lure Ernie Davis in Fold

CLEVELAND (AP) — Art Modell, the Cleveland Browns' front office boss, says he won't spare any expense or effort to sign Ernie Davis now that the Browns have acquired the right to negotiate with the All-America from Syracuse.

That right was acquired in a daring trade in which the Browns gave Bobby Mitchell, half of one of the most explosive running combinations in pro football, to the Washington Redskins, plus the rights to Leroy Jackson. Jackson, a speedy halfback from Western Illinois University, was picked by the Browns on the first round of the National Football League draft.

Davis, winner of the Heisman Trophy, has been drafted by the Buffalo Bills of the rival American Football League, but Modell said he was "confident that Ernie will sign with us."

The Browns may have the inside track with the 6-foot-2, 213-pound Syracuse halfback because of Jim Brown, the other half of the Browns' great running duo. It was on Brown's advice that Davis went to Syracuse—where Ernie broke a number of records that Brown had left behind.

Meanwhile, Ralph C. Wilson Jr., Buffalo owner, says he will keep on trying to get Davis' signature on a contract. Davis' attorney, Anthony De Filippo of Elmira, N.Y., who was in a meeting with Davis and Modell Wednesday, said nothing has been decided.

Is Biding Time

Davis himself said he had "not had time to sit down and think about what would be advantageous to me. I hope to make a decision in three weeks."

While the Browns and Redskins were saying Thursday that they had traded the rights to Davis and Jackson, plus a "veteran player from the active 1961 (Browns) roster to be mutually decided upon by Feb 1," neither party would say that Mitchell was involved.

A reliable source told The Associated Press the veteran involved was Mitchell, who is on Army duty until next October, assigned to Fort Meade, Md. Mitchell has been getting away on weekend passes to play with the Browns. He already has been contacted by Washington officials, it was learned here.

A Browns spokesman said the deal was worked out with Washington prior to the NFL draft last week. Washington, getting first pick of the nation's college talent, grabbed Davis in the NFL draft. When the Browns' turn came, they picked Jackson for Washington.

Jackson also was drafted b an AFL team—Boston. It will be up to Washington to sign him after the track ace finishes the spring sports campaign.

Should neither Cleveland nor Washington be successful in efforts to sign Davis and Jackson, the trade still goes through, and Mitchell would go to Washington.

49ers Keep Hope Alive for Bowl

The San Francisco 49ers can keep alive their chances of making a January bowl appearance if they can beat the Baltimore Colts in Saturday's National Football League game in San Francisco.

A loss to the Colts in the nationally-televised contest (CBS, 4:30 p.m., EST) would knock the 49ers out of the running for the NFL's runnerup Bowl in Miami Jan. 6 and the Detroit Lions would represent the Western Conference against the Eastern Division's runnerup.

If the 49ers win, they'll have to sit back and await the outcome of the Lions' game in Detroit Sunday—last day of the NFL's regular season—against the Philadelphia Eagles, who still stand a chance of gaining a tie for the Eastern championship.

A Detroit victory not only would send the Lions to Miami but would also give the New York Giants the Eastern title regardless of how the Giants fare against the Cleveland Browns Sunday in New York.

The Giants-Browns scrap is the day's big clash. If the Giants, with a full game lead over the Eagles, beat Cleveland, they won't have to depend upon help from the Lions.

If the Browns whip the favored Giants, and the Eagles down the Lions, the championship in the East would be decided in a playoff game between New York and Philadelphia in Yankee Stadium Dec. 24.

The Green Bay Packers have already won the Western crown for the second year in a row and will be warming up Sunday against the Rams in Los Angeles for the Dec. 31 championship game with the Eastern kingpins in Green Bay.

Gene Fullmer Shows Stylists Way to More Important Money

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise
Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—When Gene Fullmer first hit New York late in 1954, it was written and said that the current National Boxing Assn. middleweight champion wouldn't be around long.

The only thing stylish about Fullmer was his lack of it. He couldn't punch and he appeared to be too easy to hit. All he seemed to possess was agressiveness and durability.

As Fullmer went along, this observer observed that the young man could be 40 years too late. He assimilates punishment as well as any of the renowned catchers, starting with Battling Nelson. A stayer from Stayersville, he was cut out for the old 45-round days.

But Fullmer demonstrated that he could do enough damage in 15 rounds to do considerably better than all right. He showed more polished performers how to get the more important money. His formula is simple—tackle the most attractive challenger while he is hot and do this three times a year, if necessary.

So Fullmer, a pure plodder, is practically certain to wind up as one of the few prize fighters in history to win a million dollars with his fists.

Fullmer had barely finished bouncing Benny Kid Paret around in Las Vegas the other night in a record eighth 160-pound title defense, when he offered Paul Pender a bonus, which would give Gene the privilege of first taking a poke at Terry Downes. Terry has held the New York and Massachusetts version of the middleweight championship since beating Pender in London.

Gene Fullmer

Winning from Downes would give Fullmer a clear claim to the title, and he assured Pender a whack at this within four months. Anything to keep busy, you see.

Beats Them All

It is easy for cold water throwers to point out that Fullmer has hardly waded through a cage of tigers, but that is what they have been saying about all fighters in more recent years. The answer to it is that the Morman elder and mink farmer has faced everybody who could provide a worthwhile payday.

Fullmer took a decision from Pender in Brooklyn, Feb. 14, 1955, nearly two years before he outmauled Ray Robinson in 15 rounds to lift the title.

Robinson kept Fullmer waiting two years and seven months after dealing Gene his only knockout, May 1, 1957, when the West Jordan plugger was hung on the end of a left hook as he bounced off the ropes.

Robinson gave Carmen Basilio the run around, too. Then Carmen, the onion grower, got a chance to get his title lumps. These were administered by Fullmer, who thereby ascended to the vacated NBA middleweight throne on Aug. 28, 1959.

There has been no stalling or bickering since by the middleweight leader. Spider Webb, Joey Giardello, Basilio again, Robinson twice more, Florentino Fernandez and Paret all got their chance to go the way of all boxing flesh.

Even pugilistic purists no longer are puzzled by Fullmer's success.

Gene showed what an honest workman can do—even in the beak busting business of today.

Mike Dodig Hits 26 in First Loss Of League Season

Beacon High's powerhouse took advantage of the breaks to defeat Saugerties High, 72-68, Thursday night in a Dutchess County Scholastic League thriller on the Beacon hardwoods.

It was the Sawyers' first loss in the DCSL, while Beacon squared its seasonal record with a 2-2 mark. The Dutchess cagers are unbeaten in league play, their only losses coming at the hands of Newburgh and Peekskill, two of the best schoolboy quintets in the area.

It took a combination of circumstances to effect the Beacon triumph but everything jelled for the winners.

A substitute player, Merl Mulligan came off the bench to replace a first string player who had been bounced from the squad this week and proceeded to rack up 24 points.

Get Extra Help

A Saugerties player inadvertently tossed a field goal into the Beacon basket and the winners also had the benefit of a technical call. All this came during a wild scoring third period when Beacon earned a 27-25 edge.

Mike Dodig was the pacemaker for the Sawyers, who are now 2-2, with 24 points. Al Hrdlicka contributed 17 and Jacobs had 10. Brown was runnerup for Beacon. The winners also cashed in on 20 of 31 foul tries and shot 48 per cent from the field With this kind of performance they didn't miss their banishbed star, Lunceford, too much.

Beacon led all the way with the Saugerties sallies pulling up to within a point or two at several stages of the game. The winners led 17-15 at the quarter and 28-27 at halftime.

The score:

Saugerties High (68)

	FG	FP	PF	T
B. Schirmer	3	2	5	8
Hrdlicka	7	3	4	17
Buytkins	1	2	1	4
Mills	1	1	5	3
Dodig	12	2	3	26
Jacobs	5	0	1	10

By WM. TAYLOR McKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA)—Commenting on President Kennedy's call for more physical fitness, a New York columnist listed pleasure boating as one of the few participant sports now showing new popularity while helping to develop muscular citizens.

It is true that marine activities can probably call on a greater variety of muscles than any other form of recreation. Before a boat is even launched, the sinews of the upper and lower back are well stretched as rain water is bailed and bailed from the boat.

Legs are flexed as the craft is dragged down a sandy bank and urged into the water. Rowing out to the mooring adds tone to wrist, biceps and back, and blisters to unaccustomed hands as the bow seems to refuse to progress against the wind and current.

Once along side a larger boat, luggage and gear must be juggled up to the deck.

Dexterity and self control are well exercised as a 50-pound cake of ice is hoisted from the bilge of a tilting dinghy, balanced on the gunwhale just before it slips overboard, and then hefted aloft and over the bulwark above in a press-up that would startle professional weight lifters.

No program of integrated calisthenics could compare with the next procedure—known as raising the anchor. Thighs strain, arms ache and finally the anchor suddenly surges free. The fatty tissues of the lower back are given a resounding massage as the anchor man falls backward and lands soundly on the deck with wet and muddy anchor line.

All around muscle tone comes quickly if you fall overboard at this time instead and must swim back to the boat and then try to climb back in. Even commando practice does not include wall scaling while wearing a heavy wet straitjacket of soggy clothes. All this before you get started sailing.

But health faddists may not have had their share of fun afloat if they rate boating as just a participant activity. The sport ranks high as a spectator endeavor, as the President, an experienced boatman himself, would undoubtedly agree.

Thousands of pleasure craft people head out every weekend just to dangle lines down at indolent fish and watch other boats of the watery world go by.

Sailboat racing even puts a premium on being able to sit completely still during a downwind run so that nothing rocks the boat and spills a light wind.

There are the well-adjusted athletes who never cruise from dock or mooring but party aboard right where they are.

Boating is much more than energetic body building. It is in fact, the only participant sport that can be pursued while sitting or lying on deck with a cool caloric drink close at hand. A pram owner or President can use it to get away from all activity ashore.

Boating is a sport that can become almost anything you want to make it.

It's No Surprise

Roger Maris Is Named Male Athlete of Year

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris of the New York Yankees, the American League's most valuable player and home run champion and the man whose dramatic pursuit of Babe Ruth's record enthralled the baseball world, is The Associated Press' male athlete of the year for 1961.

The outfielder, 27, who hit 61 homers, a record for a single season, was the overwhelming choice in the balloting by 253 sports writers and broadcasters in the annual AP poll.

Paul Hornung, Green Bay's outstanding halfback, was second and Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's veteran southpaw pitcher, was third. They were followed by Ernie Davis, All-America halfback from Syracuse, and Mickey Mantel, Maris' slugging teammate.

Maris was named first on 160 ballots. Mantle was second with 18 firsts followed by Spahn with 14. On a basis of three points for first place, two for second and one for third, Maris collected 555 points, Hornung 108, Spahn 95, Davis 79 and Mantle 77.

Maris will receive the fraternal Order of the Eagles-Frederick C. Miller Trophy at a dinner in Milwaukee, Jan. 4. He is the first baseball player to win the trophy since Ted Williams in 1957. It was won last year by Rafer Johnson, the Olympic decathlon champion and world record holder. The year before it was Ingemar Johansson of Sweden, then world heavyweight boxing champion.

Dominated Headlines

Maris' pursuit of the games' most cherished record—Ruth's 60 home runs—swept the pennant races, expansion and the performances of the game's other stars into the background.

The deadline game set by Commissioner Ford Frick for breaking Ruth's standard in 154 decisions came on Sept. 20 in Baltimore. In his second time at bat, Maris drove the ball over the right field fence for his 59th homer. He failed in two more tries to tie the mighty Bambino's standard.

Then, on Sept. 26, Maris hit No. 60. And in his final game of the regular campaign on Oct. 1, he belted a fastball into the right field stands in Yankee Stadium off Boston's Tracy Stallard for No. 61.

Maris also recorded the most total bases in the league, 366 and the most runs batted in, 142. His batting average was .269.

Rounding out the first ten in the voting were Y. A. Tittle, veteran quarterback of the New York Giants; Whitey Ford, 25-game winning pitcher for the Yankees; Ralph Boston, who set a world record in the broad jump with a leap of 27 feet; Valery Brumel of the Soviet Union, the world's leading high jumper, and South Africa's Gary Player, winner of the Masters golf tournament.

Warriors Win, Celts Sizzle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia Warriors are winning, Wilt Chamberlain is scoring like no one in basketball before but there's still no catching the Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association.

The Celtics, with six players in double figures but only two scoring more than 20 points, pushed their record to 21-3 and held their Eastern Division lead at 6½ games over Philadelphia with a 123-108 romp over the Chicago Packers Thursday night.

The Boston victory came in the opener of a doubleheader at Philadelphia. The Warriors, with Chamberlain scoring 43 points and Paul Arizin 32, whipped Syracuse, 136-125 in the second game.

In the only other game scheduled, Detroit pulled ahead in the closing minute for a 107-103 decision over the Cincinnati Royals.

Gene Shue's field goal and four free throws in the last 40 seconds did the job for the Pistons as they snapped Cincinnati's four-game winning string.

Plattsburgh in Fourth Straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Plattsburgh State won its fourth straight basketball game — and Utica lost its fourth straight—in separate contests Thursday night.

Plattsburgh prevailed over host Sir George Williams College in Montreal, 70-65. Wayne Lashway's two free throws and a field goal and foul shot by teammate Jim Carpenters put Plattsburgh out in front after a 65-65 tie in closing minutes.

Plattsburgh now is 4-1. High scorers were Plattsburgh's Neil Breen with 20 and Bob Watson, Willie Epstein and Bob Hobert, with 16 each, for the losers.

Utica dropped its fourth game in a row, to Clarkson this time, 73-63. Clarkson now is 4-1. Utica's Larry Calabrese was high man with 21. Harold Putnam of Clarkson scored 19 points.

Colgate's Red Raiders provided an easy 73-62 win for host Lafayette in Easton, Pa. Bob Kauffman led the Leopards with 26 points. Colgate's Bob Duffy scored 16. The Raiders are 2-4.

Co-Captains

BOSTON (AP) —Quarterback Tom Daubney of Tonawanda, N. Y., and fullback Charlie Meadows of Newark, N. J., have been named co-captains of the 1962 Boston University football team.

Daubney was reserve quarterback behind Jackie Farland this season.

The selection was announced Thursday.

College Rivals Click for Steers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Bridges of Kansas and Ladry Comley of Kansas State were the bitterest of rivals in the Big Eight Conference last season, but putting them together on a pro team has made a winning combination.

Bridges hit for 22 points and Comley for 30 Thursday night as the Kansas City Steers, best team in the new Amedican Basketball League, whipped Cleveland 112-104 for the ninth straight victory and 17th in 20 games.

No. 9 in the winning streak came in the opener of a doubleheader at Pittsburgh and the Cleveland loss set things up nicely for the host Pittsburgh Rens in the second game.

The Rens, with league scoring leader Connie Hawkins scoring 31 points, whipped Chicago 119-106 and cut Cleveland's Eastern Division lead to 1½ games.

The Steers, with an 18-5 record, have a five-game lead oved Los Angeles, the runnerup in the Western Division.

Persons wishing to participate in this season are urged to get their request in as soon as possible.

Robinson Again Leads Sluggers

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frank Robinson, hard-hitting outfielder of the pennant-winning Cincinnati Reds, won the National League slugging title for the second straight year, the official statistics revealed today.

Robinson, voted the circuit's most valuable player last month, collected 333 total bases in 545 times at bat for a .611 slugging mark. Orlando Cepeda of the San Francisco Giants was the runnerup with a .609 average.

Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves had the most total bases for the third consecutive season, 358, but finished third in the slugging competition with .594. He was followed by Willie Mays, San Francisco .584, Dick Stuart, Pittsburgh .581, George Altman, Chicago .560 and Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh, the batting champion, .559.

Robinson was also the most feared batter in the league. He received the most intentional walks, 23.

Beverlee Mulligan's 701 Captures KWBA Sweeper

Beverlee Mulligan of Rosendale a 132 average bowler rolled a 701 gross triple to capture first prize in the second annual Kingston Woman's Bowling Association Charity Sweepstakes.

She rolled a 539 scratch series and had 162 handicap in the Chalet Pioneer League at Rosendale.

Kay Stewart, a 130 average shooter, was runnerup with 685 gross. She hit 517 in the wood with 179-190-148 in the IBM Feather League.

Thirty five of the 40 affiliated KWBA leagues competed in the tournament which hit a total of 596 entries, double that of last year. All entries automatically qualified as members of the Cheer and Sympathy Fund.

Fifty per cent of the $596.00 in entry fees was donated to the Cheer and Sympathy Fund. Seventy per cent of the remaining $298.00 went to seven charity organizations. The 62 prize winning bowlers shared 30 per cent of the total kitty. The breakdown in prizes was not announced.

Sharing in the donations were the Ulster County Community Chest, American Red Cross, Ulster County Heart Chapter, National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, Cancer Association, Bowlers Victory Legion.

Maris Rejects First Offer

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees have failed in their first attempt to sign home run king Roger Maris, but both General Manager Roy Hamey and the slugging outfielder indicate there will be no problems next time they get together.

Maris left for his home in Raytown, Mo., today after what was described as an "amiable session" with Hamey. Reportedly, Maris, 27, who rapped 61 homers for the world champs last season and won his second straight most valuable player award, asked for $75,000—double his 1961 salary of $37,500.

Hamey is believed to have countered with an offer of between $60,000 and $65,000.

It's expected Maris will "settle" for something approximating $60,000 when he returns here late in January, just before the baseball writers' dinner on Jan. 28.

"It was an amiable session," said Hamey, who Wednesday signed Mickey Mantle for $82,000 —the second highest contract in Yankee history, topped only by Joe DiMaggio's $100,000 in 1951. "There shouldn't be any trouble. Maris will return next month for banquet appearances and we'll renew our negotiations. Our meeting was friendly and we discussed each other's viewpoints."

"It was a good meeting," said Roger. "I told Roy I'll be back next month to talk some more."

New England Teams Routed in Hockey

Two Upstate New York college hockey teams walloped visiting New England opponents Thursday night.

Rensselaer Poly shut out Boston University, 8-0, while St. Lawrence University drubbed Middlebury, 13-2.

It was the first shutout for RPI, which is now 4-2. BU is 2-2.

RPI goalie Stu Benton stopped 16 shots. Jim Josephson, John Chicarelli and Trevor Kaye scored two goals each for RPI. BU goalie Glen Eberly busied himself with 33 saves.

At Canton, the Larries' also had double-scoreds: Rollie Anderson, Ron Mason, Pat Shea and Arlie Parker. Dates Fryberger scored a pair for the Vermonters. Middlebury is 1-4-1.

The Larries, now 7-3, don't play against until the Eastern Confedence tournament in New York City Dec. 21-22. They are defending champions.

Red Wing Coach Admits Breaks

DETROIT (AP) — The breaks—"We've been getting them and that's the story of our success," said Coach Sid Abel of the suddenly hot Detroit Red Wings.

The Wings have recovered from a severe chill that had them near the National Hockey League's basement in November and become a sizzling sextet closing in on the leaders.

Detroit trounced the Boston Bruins 5-0 Thudsday night and stretched its winning streak to five games, four victories and a tie.

"It makes such a difference when the breaks start coming your way," said Abel after Detroit had increased its fourth-place lead to three points over idle Chicago.

The Wings have climbed four points behind thidd-place New York and are nine points distant from second-place Toronto.

Norm Ullman scored twice and Gordie Howe, Bruce MacGregor and Eddie Litzenberger were the other marksmen in Thursday night's only NHL contest.

Rate Calderwood And Hank Even

DETROIT (AP) — Chic Calderwood and Henry Hank are dated even-money in their scheduled 10-round fight here tonight —and their weights might be almost as close by fight time.

Calderwood, British Empire lightheavyweight champion, must not weigh in today (12 noon EST) at more than 176. Hank, Detroit's sixth-ranked middleweight contender, said several weeks ago that he expected to make about 166.

But Hank is known as a man who likes to eat and one who is outgrowing the middleweight division. Since his manager, Harry Baxter, says he has put Hank on his own as far as his weight is concerned, Hank could weight a lot closer to 176.

Calderwood, from Glasgow, Scotland, has won 31 of 33 fights. Hank shows 49 victories and 12 losses.

Judge, 2 Enter Innocent Pleas In Court Fix

NEW YORK (AP) —State Supreme Court Justice J. Vincent Keogh and two co-defendants in a $35,000 court fix case pleaded innocent Thursday in Federal Court.

Another defendant, Dr. Robert M. Erdman, described by the government as go-between in the fix attempt, is scheduled for arraignment today.

Pleading with Keogh, before Judge Lloyd F. MacMahon, were Elliott Kanaher, former chief asst. U.S. attorney in Brooklyn, and Sanford J. Moore.

Keogh and Kahaner were freed without bail. No trial date was set.

Moore, former city policeman who turned juke box operator and was one of the defendants in a bankruptcy case — crux of the present case—now is serving a three-year prison sentence for fraud.

Keogh and Kahaner are accused by the government of splitting $35,000 raised in behalf of three defendants in the bankruptcy case, who hoped that intercession by the judge and Kahaner would result in a suspended sentence.

Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo, a racketeer whom the government said helped raise the $35,000, pleaded innocent on Dec. 7, day of the indictment. He is free in $50,000 bail.

Tax Men Seize $37,000, Arrest 128 in Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — Internal Revenue Service agents have made 128 arrests and seized $37,000 in cash in a series of coordinated gambling raids across the country.

The raids were described at the revenue service's headquarters as part of a drive on organized crime. They were conducted Thursday by the service's intelligence division.

The targets were establishments such as horse-betting parlors which had failed to pay the required federal tax on their gambling operations.

Raids were made in 22 principal cities and a number of smaller towns in 18 states.

Kiwanis Inducts Eight Members

Empasizing the theme "Build Responsible Citizenship," members of the Kingston Kiwanis Education Committee inducted eight new members into the local service club at the regular weekly luncheon meeting Thursday.

Listed as new members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club are Donald M. Murphy, the Rev. John H. Frenssen, William B. Fairley Jr., William C. Landman, the Rev. David C. Gaise, Michael Aronica, Michael J. Ludgate and Henry V. Fallerman.

The induction of new members was under the direction of Dr. Julius I. Gifford who spoke on "True Friendship." Following this, Attorney Roger H. Loughran presented the history, rules, and regulations of Kiwanis International, and William Leehive presented the new members with their Kiwanis kits and aprons—the latter to be signed personally by each member of the local club.

Capital Hopeful Of Early Accord In Congo Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hopes ran high in Washington today for a peaceful solution of the Congo dispute.

The hopes depended on acceptance by Katanga President Moise Tshombe of an offer which the White House press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said President Kennedy sent to Tshombe Thursday night.

Kennedy's letter may be made public today.

Tshombe Willing

U.S. authorities regarded as a potential major breakthrough in the Congo muddle a cable which Tshombe sent Kennedy Thursday.

Informants said Tshombe indicated a willingness to negotiate with Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula and—as reported by the Brussels radio—asked Kennedy to "appoint a worthy negotiator and stop immediately this useless bloodshed."

Kennedy personally moved into the ensuing diplomatic maneuvering. While Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, cleared moves with acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant in New York, Kennedy notified Adoula and named the U.S. Ambassador in the Congo, Edmund Gullion, as his personal representative in the Congo situation.

Kennedy's proposal to Tshombe was said to be sufficiently precise about getting negotiations with Adoula under way so that Tshombe could not pull out of the negotiations while taking advantage of a U.N. cease-fire.

Cease-Fire Automatic

U.S. sources figured Adoula would be agreeable to meeting Tshombe if Tshombe accepts.

These sources said a cease-fire by the U.N. troops in Katanga would be virtually automatic once Tshombe went into negotiations with Adoula. They said the U.N. military position is now relatively secure and negotiations by Congo leaders on forming a Congo-wide government had been a primary U.N. objective.

Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, in setting forth the U.S. position Wednesday, said the United Nations should use force only to the extent necessary to achieve its "limited objective."

3 Bookies Held Upstate as Agents Sweep Country

d4 zzcu v gg15

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—Three men were arrested by federal agents in raids on alleged bookie establishments here as part of a nationwide crackdown.

LeRoy Echols, 48, William Mosley, 52, and Percy Taylor, 58, all of Saratoga Springs, were arrested by Internal Revenue agents Thursday. The agents said the men were the proprietors of the establishments.

Taylor was released in $500 bail after arraignment before U.S. Commissioner Bender Solomon in Albany on a charge of failing to register as a gambler. The other two were held in Albany County jail in lieu of $300 bail after arraignment on the same charge.

Hearings for the men, all Negroes, were set for Jan. 17.

No customers were present when the raids were made. The agents said a total of $556 and hundrds of policy and horse bet slips were seized at the three places.

Expect Second Child

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lindsay Crosby and his wife Barbara announced Thursday they expect a second child next June. Their son David is 15 months old.

Lindsay, 23, is the youngest of crooner Bing Crosby's four sons by his first marriage, to the late Dixie Lee Crosby.

Shuman Elected To New Term by U.S. Farm Bureau

CHICAGO (AP)—A militant foe of big government will continue to lead the influential American Farm Bureau Federation in efforts to get Uncle Sam out of farming.

He is Charles B. Shuman, a stock and grain farmer of Sullivan, Ill. The federation's convention, which ended Thursday, re-elected him president, a post he has held since 1954.

Shuman's re-election was accompanied by convention adoption of resolutions that put the farm organization on record opposing a supply - management, farm-commodity control program, which Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman had asked it to support in a speech before delegates.

The federation leader, who says he is proud to be a conservative, had told the same delegates that he considered federal regulation of agriculture and farm subsidies to be a violation of "God's pattern" for mankind as well as detrimental to farmers' economic well-being.

Shuman and his organization said government aid to agriculture should be in the fields of research, information, regulatory actions and the "creation of a favorable economic climate" for the nation's private enterprise system.

He said government invariably fails when it attempts to guarantee prices or income for farmers.

Cold Will Ease Some on Sunday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 p.m. today through 7 p.m. Wednesday:

Eastern New York — Cold through Saturday, gradually moderating Sunday through Monday followed by another cold period Tuesday night and Wednesday. Temperatures averaging around or just below normal. Snow flurries through Saturday with heavy squalls east and southeast of Lake Ontario. Another period of precipitation one-half inch or less.

Western New York—Temperatures will average 2-5 degrees below normal. Warmer late Saturday and on Sunday, colder Tuesday and Wednesday. Precipitation will average one-fourth to one-half inch melted as occasional periods of snow next week.

Temperature normals—Daytime highs 28-38. Nighttime lows 10-22.

DRAINAGE WORK AT TIMBERLAKE — A project to remedy the drainage problems of Timberlake Estates, a housing development near Shultis Corners in the Town of Saugerties, is now underway. A. E. Davis of West Hurley was the low bidder for the project. Funds for the work will come from a $2,800 performance bond posted by housing developer, Allen Green. The town refused to accept a deed for the development street, Osnas Lane, because, according to the Town Board, the builder failed to meet town highway specifications. Additional sections of 18-inch pipe are being installed under the road (foreground) to improve drainage through an underground drainage ditch (dotted line). (Lipgar Studio photo).

Will Ask Solons To Shift Role In School Funds

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The 1962 Legislature reportedly will be asked to give the State Education Department a larger role in the spending of state money by local school districts.

The Joint Legislative Committee on School Financing, it was reported here Thursday, will make the proposal, which could affect virtually all of the functions of a local school board if it provided for strict control over how state aid is spent.

The phraseology of the plan could not be learned.

A recommendation that the state give local school districts aid for capital construction if also reportedly being considered by the committee, known as the Diefendorf Committee.

Two alternate proposals to widen the base of the school tax load are also reportedly under consideration by the committee. One would permit adjoining counties to impose a tax for school purposes jointly. The other, a county-wide school tax to replace individual district taxes, would distribute the costs of education more equally among large, rich districts and small, poor ones.

Announce Disciplinary Against Two Licensees

Disciplinary action against two Ulster County licensees for violations of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law was announced today by the State Liquor Authority, New York City.

The hotel liquor license of Guild Management Inc., Route 9W, Marlboro was cancelled with bond claim, effective November 29. The violations were: Permitting a person not mentioned in the license to avail himself of the license; ceased to conduct a bona fide hotel; maintained and operated more than one stand-up bar on the licensed premises.

The restaurant liquor license of John L. Sharot of 30 Foxhall Avenue, Kingston was suspended for seven days beginning January 8 to January 15, 1962 for sale of alcoholic beverages during prohibited hours. There was no contest in either action.

10-20 Term Facing Youth in Killing

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 21-year-old Boston youth awaits sentencing Jan. 3 for first-degree manslaughter in the beating of a Minneapolis chemist here last August.

David Glover pleaded guilty Thursday to the charge, which had been reduced from second degree murder. He faces a possible jail term of 10 to 20 years.

The chemist, 26-year-old Donald F. Moran, was found beaten to death in his downtown hotel room. He had been employed by General Mills Inc.

Egyptians smeared asphalt on mummy wrappings to aid the embalming process.

5 Children Die In Ontario Fire

WATERFORD, Ont. (AP)—Five children died early today when fire broke out in their home in this town 15 miles south of Brantford. Two other children escaped.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Huffman were Janet, 12, Robert, 11, Archie, 7, Patricia, 4, and Glenford, 18 months.

Nancy, 9, and Richard, 6, were found unharmed on the front porch.

Police said the children may have suffocated since the kitchen, where the blaze is believed to have broken out, is near the children's bedroom.

Killed in Crash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Jerome L. Gibbons, 23, of nearby Grand Island, was killed today when his automobile smashed into a cement abutment at the end of a road on the island.

E-J Is Hopeful Of Future, No Stock Payment

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — The chairman of the board of Endicott Johnson Corp. has indicated he is not pessimistic about the shoe company's future, despite a decision to omit a quarterly dividend on preferred stock for the first time in the firm's history.

Frank A. Johnson said Thursday night he didn't think the failure to pay the dividend "meant anything specific."

"We will continue to do as we have been doing," he said.

The company's board of directors voted unanimously yesterday to omit the $1 per share quarterly dividend, payable Jan. 1, 1962, on the company's 4 per cent cumulative preferred stock.

In a letter to holders of the stock, the company said the move was one of a series of drastic steps to conserve cash.

The company paid $289,320 in dividends in 1960 on 72,380 shares of preferred stock.

The firm lost an estimated $1.5 million in 1960 as sales declined to $145 million from a high in 1951 of $18 million.

Endicott Johnson employes saved the firm's present management early this year from losing control to the Glen Alden Corp., a holding company. Glen Alden attempted to purchase a major portion of Endicott Johnson stock.

Sentenced for Slaying

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) —A 39-year-old man has received a 3½ to 10 year sentence for first-degree manslaughter in a rifle slaying over a dice game.

Isaac Harris was sentenced Thursday in Erie County Court.

The charge against him in the death of Thomas J. Williams had been reduced from first-degree murder.

Harris, who was convicted last April, will serve his term in Attica State Prison.
